

OREGON'S LINEUP IS STILL IN DOUBT

Coaches Confine Drilling of Eugene Team to Light Signal Practice.

TWO ENDS ON INJURED LIST

Players and Supporters Admit Superior Past Performances of Aggies, but Cling to Hope Lemon-Yellow Will Upset "Dope."

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Like the training quarters of an ex-champion "pug" who aspires to "come back" is the Oregon football camp, where the stars of former teams which have maintained Oregon's supremacy over Oregon Agricultural College are trying to imbue enough of the old spirit into the present eleven to make it the winner of next Saturday's game.

Each of the three men who compose the present graduate coaching staff has played on teams whose chances in the big battle were considered no brighter than those of this year's eleven, but always before the "dope" was upset and Oregon won.

Coaches Are Silent.—The coaches refuse to announce a definite lineup for Saturday's game, but it is certain it will not be that of the Washington contest. Bradshaw's injured back will probably keep him on the side lines, and it is likely that Jones, who proved so reliable at handling the forward pass in Seattle, will be used in the injured man's position at right end. Hall will play the other end if his injured shoulder permits.

Whether or not Hall goes in at end, his old place at left tackle is still open, and the man who will fill it has yet to be chosen. Groat played the position in the games with Idaho and Washington, but he may be relieved by either Holden or Boden.

The guard selections likewise are in doubt. P'enton, McClelland, Fariss and Hartsuck are possibilities. Back Field Remains Unchanged.—The back field is pretty certain to be the same which played through last Saturday's contest. Cornell will start at quarter, Walker at left half, Parsons at right half and Cook at full-back, while Heusser and Bridwell will be held back as reserves.

No scrimmage work has been given the squad so far this week, and it is not likely that the first and second teams will clash again before the Oregon Agricultural College game. The players were so badly battered in the grueling contest with Washington that the coaches have thought it best to lighten up on the work.

Yell Leader at Work.—Oregon's chances Saturday will depend in great measure on the condition of the Albany field. Dolan's eleven showed that in the Albany game he threw a scare into Doble's invincibles on Multnomah field.

The officials agreed upon are as follows: George Varnell, of Spokane, referee; Victor Kline, of Portland, umpire; and C. H. Smith, of Portland, head linesman.

BEAVER OPTIMISM RUNS HIGH

Farmer Squad and Students Confident of Winning From Oregon.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Football enthusiasm at Oregon Agricultural College is running at high tide since the elusive Oregon team has finally been slated.

The team came through the Whitman game in fair condition and as a whole should be in fine trim for next Saturday's contest.

IS MUCH MORE SPIRITED THAN IT USUALLY IS IN GAMES OF THIS KIND, AND THE CONTEST TODAY IS CERTAIN TO BE A HIGH-SPEED AFFAIR.

The gallery of the main gymnasium will be thrown open to all who wish to see this game.

CLUB TO REHEARSE SONGS

Winged M Rooters to Prepare for Thanksgiving Day Contest.

Songs and cheer stanzas for the Multnomah Club-University of Oregon football game Thanksgiving day on Multnomah Field will be selected and rehearsed at a monster rooters' rally at the Winged "M" club structure to-night in lieu of the regular Thursday entertainment.

The competition announced by Chairman Allen of the entertainment committee for the most suitable song or yell was supposed to have been closed yesterday, but the committee left the polls open until tonight.

Thursday night, said Ralph Knight, a member of the committee, "but we are planning a great celebration in the gymnasium on Wednesday night, on the eve of the annual turkey-day contest. There will be speeches, songs, music and some novel entertaining features on tap."

BERRY WILL NOT OBJECT

Los Angeles and Vernon Magnates Say Class AA Leagues Will Have No Salary Limits and Are in "Near-Major" Class.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Cap Dillon may break a few baseball records by a "come-back" stunt that will surprise the baseball fans next year. He has been negotiating with the three major league clubs for the past several days, but he is not sure of the management of those clubs.

Change Is Possible.—So it is not without the range of possibilities that he will make another trip to the majors and in a more elevated position than when he first tried his fortunes with them.

Salaries Not to Be Limited.—Berry and Hogan also said that there will be no salary limit for Class AA members of the baseball leagues.

ORLANDO BASEBALL LEAVES SUICIDE

James Frick, Ill and Despondent, Drinks Carbofic Acid.

WIFE FINDS DEAD BODY

Athlete Ends Own Life on Eve of Proposed Departure to Oklahoma, Where He Was to Go in Search of Health.

While his wife was downtown buying tickets to Oklahoma, where he was going in search of health, James Frick, utility infielder of the Oakland baseball team of the Pacific Coast League, yesterday afternoon drank carbofic acid and died.

Mrs. Frick, when she returned to their home, 941 Flanders street, at 4 o'clock, found her husband lying on the floor, and Deputy Coroner Goetsch said that he had not been dead long. No container for the acid was found, but traces of it were evident upon his face, lips and throat.

Frick came to Portland with his wife at the end of the last baseball season, and he had disappeared from Oakland, and Secretary Cook of the Oakland team, the members of the team and the Oakland police department made search for him, suspecting foul play.

Despondency Causes Disappearance.—He was afterward found and it was said that his despondency had caused him to wander away from his hotel without telling his teammates where he was going. His absence of about a week was viewed as a drawback to the team's success, as he was considered the best utility infielder on the Oakland team.

Frick leaves two sisters in Portland, one of whom is the wife of the Rev. Harry H. Pratt, pastor of the Forbes Presbyterian Church, living at 304 Fargo street, and the other the wife of E. W. Mueller.

Frick was secured last winter by Oakland from the Newark club, of the Eastern League. He played third base for Newark, and Bud Sharpe, who hailed from Buffalo, figured him as regular third baseman to take Wolverton's job. A slight injury to his foot gave Gus Helling a chance to substitute, and Helling began hitting the ball so well that he was kept there all season.

The suicide victim had always been a man of enigmatic ways. Several years ago he jumped Seattle mysteriously and was not heard from for several weeks. He was twice within the last year on the Pacific Coast his strange actions got him into the public prints.

CHINESE IS ON ELEVEN

Wing Wang to Play With Ladd Team Today.

Holladay to Vie With Heavier Boys in City Grammar School Championship Game.

The Grammar School Football League championship game this afternoon on Multnomah Field will present the unusual feature of white boys and a Chinaman playing side by side.

Ladd is the champion of the third section of the Grammar League, while Holladay took the majority of the games in the second section of the league.

Ladd has the heavier of the two elevens, but Holladay has speed. The boys are lightest in the section in which they won, but they took the majority of the game by good scores through passes and tricks.

The Highland soccer team defeated the Woodlawn eleven yesterday afternoon on the Peninsula Park field, 2 to 0.

No matter what your line may be, you, as a keen business man (if you have delivering and distributing to do), will insist that you should depend on a good deal of reduction of overhead expense to the minimum.
