

OFFICIALS CHOSEN FOR HOLIDAY GAME

Everything in Readiness for Multnomah-Oregon Thanksgiving Battle.

NEW SYSTEM WORKS WELL

Head Linesman Important Factor, as Shown in Aggie-Whitman Game. Writers Still Wrangle Over Oregon-Idaho Tilt.

After several conferences between Dow Walker and Martin Pratt, of the Multnomah Athletic Club, and Arthur Geary and Coaches Pinkham and Moores, of the University of Oregon, officials for the big Thanksgiving day annual clash between the two rival football elevens have been practically agreed upon.

Roscoe Fawcett, of Portland, sporting editor of The Oregonian, will referee the game and Robert Forbes, former All-American end at Yale and later coach at the University of Oregon, will umpire. The head linesman has not been finally settled, but the choice will likely fall between Virgil Earl, coach of the Washington High, and W. A. Fenstermacher, of Washington High.

The efficacy of the new system in vogue this year, whereby the head linesman and not the umpire is delegated to call all offside plays in the line of scrimmage, was graphically shown in the recent Oregon Aggie-Whitman game at Corvallis. Victor Place, the former Dartmouth game and coach at Notre Dame and Washington, refused even to stand on the line of scrimmage and aid the head linesman on offside by keeping the men behind the ball. He took his position about five yards behind the defensive team.

"When the rules committee abolished the field judge, the umpire was given all his work on the judging of incomplete forward passes, and he in turn was relieved of all the burden of offside judging," said Place. "The umpire cannot watch offside and also be responsible for the accurate judging of incomplete forward passes, catches, holding and all those other intricate fouls."

"The head linesman stands on the edge of the field, in a direct line with the scrimmage, and he and nobody else should call offside in the line."

Carl H. Smith, the Jefferson High coach, gave such good service watching offside in the game at Corvallis. Whitman game that he was selected to do similar service tomorrow at Corvallis.

Too little attention has been paid to the head linesman in the games in Portland this fall. The Intercollegiate League has been content to pick up a head linesman on the field just before the game and the result has been that the umpire Martin Pratt has had to bear most of the offside burden, which really belongs to the third official.

Seattle and Spokane writers are engaged in an entertaining verbal battle, growing out of the Oregon-Idaho game at Moscow, won by Oregon, 3 to 0 after the officials, Varnell and Hockinberry, had disallowed an Idaho touchdown.

Cocher Bender, of Washington State College, told Ed. Hughes, of Seattle, that the officials made a mistake. He plainly saw an Oregon man touch an Idaho forward pass, which was then touched by an Idaho player, and later recovered in the air by Proctor Perkins, who ran for a touchdown.

Newton Colver, a Spokane writer, was on the sidelines at the game, and states unequivocally that, as he saw it, the ball did not touch an Oregon man at all, but hit an Idaho player, which made the pass illegal.

The vital point in dispute is whether or not an Oregon player touched the ball in the air and thus made it free for recovery by any Idaho player.

Without wishing to discredit Oregon's sole victory this year, or to add to the poor officials' beneficial existence, the facts are that an Oregon player did touch the ball and that Idaho really was entitled to the touchdown. Captain Dean Walker, of the Oregon eleven, admitted to the writer in Portland the day of the Washington-Aggie game that he had ticked the ball in the air. At the time he insisted that even that did not permit an Idaho man to recover it, and another of his own side had also touched it.

Section 6 (C) of rule 19 covers the case, however, and Perkins was legally entitled to recover the pass. The excerpt reads: "When the ball has been legally passed forward and has been touched by any player of the side not making the pass, any player of either side has a right to attempt to secure possession of the ball until it has touched the ground."

Assistant Coach Max Eakins, of Washington, witnessed the game and says that the touchdown was legal.

Thirty carpenters are rushing work on the temporary bleachers at Albany for the Oregon Aggie game Saturday. George Martin, a prominent Albany business man, is a Portland visitor yesterday because matters. Martin predicts one of the greatest crowds that ever attended a football game in Oregon.

MARSHAL NEY BEST JUMPER

United States Army Officers Exhibit Mounts at Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Thirty-seven United States Army officers in uniform exhibited their mounts today in jumping contests for the Berezford cup, presented by Lord Decies at the National horse show.

Marshal Ney, owned by Lieutenant William H. Sheppard, of the Third United States Field Artillery, and ridden by Lieutenant A. Decies, was adjudged the best. The Pinkney, ridden by Lieutenant Francis Ruggles, of the Eleventh United States Cavalry, won second prize. Coney, exhibited by the United States Mounted Service School, ridden by Captain Berkeley T. Merchant, Thirteenth Cavalry, was third.

put up $500 each for a race on one of the two holidays, the winner to take the $1500 pot.

The Oregon Wolf is not in racing trim at present and it would take several weeks to fit the speeder for a race. It is said that the Vamoose has been dismantled for the season, which would eliminate that boat and make the race between the Swastika and the Oregon Wolf.

YALE HOLDS LAST SCRIMMAGE

Trainer Reports Every Man in Shape for Game With Harvard.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—Yale virtually completed its work for the annual football game with Harvard, by a long signal drill and a ten-minute scrimmage today. All the players except Bomelster and Gallauer took part in the scrimmage.

Coaches Sanford and Shelvin followed the play closely and instilled more snap in the team than has been seen this year.

Trainer Johnny Mack reported tonight that the men are on edge for the game Saturday and that there are no cripples. Even Castles, who was hurt in scrimmage early in the week, got in the lineup today.

The Harvard backfield men and ends, accompanied by a number of coaches, had several hours practice on the field this afternoon behind closed gates.

LADD ELEVEN IS VICTOR

HOLLADAY FIGHTS HARD FOR GRAMMAR SCHOOL TITLE. Heavier Team 'Outbacks Fast Little East Side Boys—Chinese and Negro Youngsters Star.

Although Holladay outplayed its much heavier opponent, it lost the Grammar School Football League championship to Ladd yesterday afternoon, 19 to 12. The battle took place on Multnomah Field and the greater part of the game was played with no ball.

Princeton game. The "H" reward is won in a game against Yale only.

John A. Forbes, one of the best-known trap shots in the Northwest, died in British Columbia on November 14. He was a member of the Tacoma Gun Club and is well known in Portland, having competed in several tournaments here.

G. P. Blackburn, former amateur fistic star of the south and professor of commerce and economics at University of Puget Sound, is teaching Tacoma Y. M. C. A. boys the art of self-defense.

Dr. Alvin Kraenzlein, rated as one of America's greatest athletes, expects to invade San Francisco in 1915 with a squad of German track and field stars. His services have been secured by the Germans to coach track and field men for the 1916 Olympic Games at Berlin.

The Carnegie Technical school football team has two members who are Carnegie hero medal men. James Mariner saved a 4-year-old girl from being run over by a train, while Daniel Curtalan saved a little girl from drowning.

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS.

Eddie Menser.

Edward Menser, the Pittsburgh Pirates' young outfielder, was born in Woodville, Or., November 22, 1883. The "Midget," as he is known among his associates, became a professional ball player in 1909, when he joined the so-called out-catchers, holding and all those other intricate fouls.

The head linesman stands on the edge of the field, in a direct line with the scrimmage, and he and nobody else should call offside in the line."

Carl H. Smith, the Jefferson High coach, gave such good service watching offside in the game at Corvallis. Whitman game that he was selected to do similar service tomorrow at Corvallis.

Too little attention has been paid to the head linesman in the games in Portland this fall. The Intercollegiate League has been content to pick up a head linesman on the field just before the game and the result has been that the umpire Martin Pratt has had to bear most of the offside burden, which really belongs to the third official.

Seattle and Spokane writers are engaged in an entertaining verbal battle, growing out of the Oregon-Idaho game at Moscow, won by Oregon, 3 to 0 after the officials, Varnell and Hockinberry, had disallowed an Idaho touchdown.

Cocher Bender, of Washington State College, told Ed. Hughes, of Seattle, that the officials made a mistake. He plainly saw an Oregon man touch an Idaho forward pass, which was then touched by an Idaho player, and later recovered in the air by Proctor Perkins, who ran for a touchdown.

Newton Colver, a Spokane writer, was on the sidelines at the game, and states unequivocally that, as he saw it, the ball did not touch an Oregon man at all, but hit an Idaho player, which made the pass illegal.

The vital point in dispute is whether or not an Oregon player touched the ball in the air and thus made it free for recovery by any Idaho player.

Without wishing to discredit Oregon's sole victory this year, or to add to the poor officials' beneficial existence, the facts are that an Oregon player did touch the ball and that Idaho really was entitled to the touchdown. Captain Dean Walker, of the Oregon eleven, admitted to the writer in Portland the day of the Washington-Aggie game that he had ticked the ball in the air. At the time he insisted that even that did not permit an Idaho man to recover it, and another of his own side had also touched it.

Section 6 (C) of rule 19 covers the case, however, and Perkins was legally entitled to recover the pass. The excerpt reads: "When the ball has been legally passed forward and has been touched by any player of the side not making the pass, any player of either side has a right to attempt to secure possession of the ball until it has touched the ground."

Assistant Coach Max Eakins, of Washington, witnessed the game and says that the touchdown was legal.

Thirty carpenters are rushing work on the temporary bleachers at Albany for the Oregon Aggie game Saturday. George Martin, a prominent Albany business man, is a Portland visitor yesterday because matters. Martin predicts one of the greatest crowds that ever attended a football game in Oregon.

MARSHAL NEY BEST JUMPER

United States Army Officers Exhibit Mounts at Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Thirty-seven United States Army officers in uniform exhibited their mounts today in jumping contests for the Berezford cup, presented by Lord Decies at the National horse show.

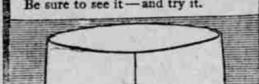

Marshal Ney, owned by Lieutenant William H. Sheppard, of the Third United States Field Artillery, and ridden by Lieutenant A. Decies, was adjudged the best. The Pinkney, ridden by Lieutenant Francis Ruggles, of the Eleventh United States Cavalry, won second prize. Coney, exhibited by the United States Mounted Service School, ridden by Captain Berkeley T. Merchant, Thirteenth Cavalry, was third.

"Judge a Gentleman by his Neckwear" DISRAELI

Ide Silver Collars

They will show you what are the smart collars. The newest shape is the Pembroke—with LINOCORD "SNAP-ON" buttonhole. Ample scarf space—4 sizes—2 for 25c. Be sure to see it—and try it.

PEMBROKE, 2 1/2 in. KENSINGTON, 2 1/2 in. CHATHAM, 2 in. GEO. P. IDE & CO., TROY, N. Y. Also Makers of Ide Shirts

Princeton game. The "H" reward is won in a game against Yale only.

John A. Forbes, one of the best-known trap shots in the Northwest, died in British Columbia on November 14. He was a member of the Tacoma Gun Club and is well known in Portland, having competed in several tournaments here.

G. P. Blackburn, former amateur fistic star of the south and professor of commerce and economics at University of Puget Sound, is teaching Tacoma Y. M. C. A. boys the art of self-defense.

Dr. Alvin Kraenzlein, rated as one of America's greatest athletes, expects to invade San Francisco in 1915 with a squad of German track and field stars. His services have been secured by the Germans to coach track and field men for the 1916 Olympic Games at Berlin.

The Carnegie Technical school football team has two members who are Carnegie hero medal men. James Mariner saved a 4-year-old girl from being run over by a train, while Daniel Curtalan saved a little girl from drowning.

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS.

Eddie Menser.

Edward Menser, the Pittsburgh Pirates' young outfielder, was born in Woodville, Or., November 22, 1883. The "Midget," as he is known among his associates, became a professional ball player in 1909, when he joined the so-called out-catchers, holding and all those other intricate fouls.

The head linesman stands on the edge of the field, in a direct line with the scrimmage, and he and nobody else should call offside in the line."

Carl H. Smith, the Jefferson High coach, gave such good service watching offside in the game at Corvallis. Whitman game that he was selected to do similar service tomorrow at Corvallis.

Too little attention has been paid to the head linesman in the games in Portland this fall. The Intercollegiate League has been content to pick up a head linesman on the field just before the game and the result has been that the umpire Martin Pratt has had to bear most of the offside burden, which really belongs to the third official.

Seattle and Spokane writers are engaged in an entertaining verbal battle, growing out of the Oregon-Idaho game at Moscow, won by Oregon, 3 to 0 after the officials, Varnell and Hockinberry, had disallowed an Idaho touchdown.

Cocher Bender, of Washington State College, told Ed. Hughes, of Seattle, that the officials made a mistake. He plainly saw an Oregon man touch an Idaho forward pass, which was then touched by an Idaho player, and later recovered in the air by Proctor Perkins, who ran for a touchdown.

Newton Colver, a Spokane writer, was on the sidelines at the game, and states unequivocally that, as he saw it, the ball did not touch an Oregon man at all, but hit an Idaho player, which made the pass illegal.

The vital point in dispute is whether or not an Oregon player touched the ball in the air and thus made it free for recovery by any Idaho player.

Without wishing to discredit Oregon's sole victory this year, or to add to the poor officials' beneficial existence, the facts are that an Oregon player did touch the ball and that Idaho really was entitled to the touchdown. Captain Dean Walker, of the Oregon eleven, admitted to the writer in Portland the day of the Washington-Aggie game that he had ticked the ball in the air. At the time he insisted that even that did not permit an Idaho man to recover it, and another of his own side had also touched it.

Section 6 (C) of rule 19 covers the case, however, and Perkins was legally entitled to recover the pass. The excerpt reads: "When the ball has been legally passed forward and has been touched by any player of the side not making the pass, any player of either side has a right to attempt to secure possession of the ball until it has touched the ground."

Assistant Coach Max Eakins, of Washington, witnessed the game and says that the touchdown was legal.

Thirty carpenters are rushing work on the temporary bleachers at Albany for the Oregon Aggie game Saturday. George Martin, a prominent Albany business man, is a Portland visitor yesterday because matters. Martin predicts one of the greatest crowds that ever attended a football game in Oregon.

MARSHAL NEY BEST JUMPER

United States Army Officers Exhibit Mounts at Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Thirty-seven United States Army officers in uniform exhibited their mounts today in jumping contests for the Berezford cup, presented by Lord Decies at the National horse show.

Marshal Ney, owned by Lieutenant William H. Sheppard, of the Third United States Field Artillery, and ridden by Lieutenant A. Decies, was adjudged the best. The Pinkney, ridden by Lieutenant Francis Ruggles, of the Eleventh United States Cavalry, won second prize. Coney, exhibited by the United States Mounted Service School, ridden by Captain Berkeley T. Merchant, Thirteenth Cavalry, was third.

Wolf seeks triangle race. Owner of Oregon Wolf would meet Swastika and Vamoose.

As a counter challenge to the defuncted Wednesday R. R. race for a motor-boat race between his craft, the Swastika, and either the Vamoose or Oregon Wolf on Christmas or New Year's, Johnny Wolf, designer and pilot of the Oregon Wolf, Coast speed champion, suggests a three-cornered race for a $1500 purse.

Wolf would have the owners of the Vamoose, Swastika and Oregon Wolf

Mr. T. F. Gallagher Desires to Announce the Formal Opening of The Oregon Tailors

328 Alder Street, Between Sixth and Seventh Opposite the Entrance to the Electric Building

Saturday, November 23, at 8 A. M.

HELLO—We've got the best proposition to make you ever heard of. It's a snap for 220 men who will be on the job to take advantage of it. We will give you

A $6.50 Raincoat FREE!

The continued warm, dry weather in the East has made Raincoats a drug on the market there. Our New York buyer got a chance to buy 220 English Rubber Slip-on Raincoats at less than cost of manufacture, so we wired him to buy and send them to our Portland store. We confess they did not cost us $6.50, nor even half that, yet if you went into one of the best stores to buy an English Rubber Slip-on similar to these, it would cost you $6.50 or $7.00, so, according to merchandising standards, they are $6.50 values. We are not dealers in Raincoats, but Tailors, pure and simple, and we do not intend to carry Raincoats to sell, so we intend to give away these Coats as an ADVERTISING STUNT TO BOOST BUSINESS, and we will give one of them free to every customer for a week.

Our Opening Offer Is

SUIT or OVERCOAT

Made to Your Order, Finest Quality Linings and Trimmings, From

$22.50 to $35.00

From your choice of thousands of styles of Scotch tweeds and chevots, English worsteds and cassimeres, in all the new Fall styles and colorings. Our suit at $22.50 will be a revelation to you, and we assert and can prove it will be far superior to suits made by the smaller tailors for $30.00. Bring a sample of any $30.00 suit and we will duplicate it for $22.50. The fact that we are in the Wholesale Woolen Business and buy all our materials direct from the mills, enables us to make thoroughly dependable, up-to-date suits at this extremely low price, and a perfect fit and satisfaction in every respect is guaranteed. We recognize our customer as the sole judge.

We Will Give $5000.00 to Charity if We Cannot Prove We Are the Largest Tailors and Carry the Largest Stock of Woolens and Trimmings on the Pacific Coast

THE OREGON TAILORS

TOM GALLAGHER, "THE SQUARE TAILOR," PROP. 328 Alder Street, Between Sixth and Seventh, Opp. Electric Bldg. OPEN EVENINGS, SATURDAY NIGHT UNTIL 10:30

Smith, of California, and Jack (Twin) Sullivan, of Cambridge, Mass., fought a ten-round draw here tonight. The men ran into clinches constantly and no blows of consequence were exchanged.

Track Meet Time Set. WOODLAND, Wash., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—The annual track meet of the Cowlitz County schools will be held at Woodland about the first of May, 1913, according to the decision of the Cowlitz County principals, held at Kalama on the 18th. Woodland has always maintained a good track and in addition has always carried off a goodly number of prizes, but some of the best athletes are not in school this year and it remains to be seen how the younger ones will come to the front.

Franchise Right Extended. SALEM, Or., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—That people of Sherwood living in territory recently annexed to the city are entitled to vote at the coming city election was the opinion of the Attorney-General's office today.

Moscow merchants are considering a plan to raise cotton on a tract of 17,500 acres in Astoria Russia. Irrigation will be needed.

The Studebaker "20" Completes Your Equipment. It adds to good goods and a well kept store, the most modern delivery service. It is a radical change only in that at less cost it will enable your delivery service to do more work and please more customers. Since you can deliver goods further in less time it greatly widens your possible market and, best of all, it holds your customers' loyalty because with it you can far more readily satisfy their requests for prompt delivery. It marks you as a merchant up-to-date. It's record is open to any investigation. Look it up. Send for us The Studebaker Corporation PORTLAND BRANCH: Chapman and Alder Streets Phones Main 5060, A 2436. 244 Washington St. Between Second and Third

Ask Mr. Shoeman Why

Yes, ask your Shoeman why he charges you $3.50 to $5 for the self-same shoes I sell for $2 and $2.50. Ask Mr. Shoeman when he swells with pride about his magnificent store, his beautiful window displays—ask him who pays for all the extravagance! Shop at Wright's, in the low-rent shoe district, where little expenses mean big shoe values.

Women's Sample Shoes

Popular low heel or high heel High Shoes or Pumps, in all leathers and fabrics. Shoes actually worth $3.50 to $5.00.

Men's Sample Shoes

New Fall samples in all styles and leathers. Worth $4.00 to $6.00.

Wright's SAMPLE SHOE SHOP

244 Washington St. Between Second and Third