

OREGON PRODUCTS BE IN DEMAND

State-Wide Organization Succeeds Manufacturers' Association of Portland.

IMPORTANT MEETING HELD

Branch Associations to Be Formed in Each County With a Woman's Auxiliary and True Labels Will Be Required.

Oregon manufacturers, numbering over 100, at a convention in the Selling-Hirsch building yesterday, virtually absorbed the Manufacturers' Association of Portland.

The purpose of the enlarged organization is to stimulate the demand for Oregon-produced goods. This aim of the state organization will be directed by W. H. McMonies and S. B. Vincent, both of Portland, as president and secretary, respectively, and an executive council, composed of F. M. Carter, of Eugene; C. M. Eppley, of Salem; and C. M. Bishop, of Pendleton. The association will meet in the latter part of the year.

It was voted unanimously to extend the work of the association by forming branch associations in each county, including a Woman's Home Consumers' League in each county. An annual convention will be held in addition to a manufacturers' exposition, which will be open to all Oregon manufacturers. Before adjourning the convention adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee of five to devise a plan to require that all Oregon manufactured goods shall be marked with material and workmanship exactly what they are represented.

W. H. McMonies Tells Purpose.

The convention was called to order by W. H. McMonies, president of the Manufacturers' Association, of this city, who explained that the purpose of the gathering was to perfect an organization through which the demand for Oregon-made goods would be increased. Mr. McMonies said in part: "I take pleasure in calling to order the first state convention of Oregon manufacturers and for much good to come of the meeting. The 'made-in-Oregon' movement has been carried by the Manufacturers' Association, of which I have the honor to be president. It has been the point in our campaign where we must have the support and co-operation of every manufacturer in Oregon."

The Manufacturers' Association has been making the fight single-handed, and through your efforts most of Oregon products have been made to know the importance of the movement. The manufacturers of the state are receptive to the movement, and we wish to make it as far-reaching as possible and to improve generally the condition of Oregon products. We want the co-operation of every man, woman and child, every public official and every private citizen. We want you to go away from this convention and from our 'made-in-Oregon' banner to your homes and to your work, and to urge the 'made-in-Oregon' movement.

Dealers' Co-Operation Wanted.

We want you to insist that your retail dealers give 'made-in-Oregon' a square deal. They should not be allowed to insist upon being served with Oregon products. Demand Oregon goods from your dealers and if they will not serve you, take your business to some dealer who will. Force them to it. That is the way to get your wants supplied. No man ever got anything good and desirable that he did not have to work for—that is, in industrial life, and we want you to work directly and indirectly with the Manufacturers' Association for the prosperity of Oregon manufacturers.

If Oregon manufacturers are prosperous, real estate values will enhance, the farming communities will be more prosperous, the public school system will be extended and the broad highways of Oregon will be built and the railroads will extend their systems in all directions. Nothing is more important to the development of Oregon and the prosperity of her manufacturers and nothing will do more to make Oregon prosperous than having the best of goods made in Oregon. Insisting upon being served with 'made-in-Oregon' goods.

Our program for today is somewhat lengthy. You will hear many speakers upon topics of interest to you and of value to the state. I hope you will take an interest in that and that this convention will be followed by another next year that will be representative of every manufacturing establishment in the state.

I want particularly to thank those of you who have come long distances to show your interest in this movement. Your attendance is a reflection of the work the Manufacturers' Association has been doing in the state and it is creditable in you to show us that you are co-operating with us in extending the 'made-in-Oregon' movement.

Mr. Teal Represents Governor.

Governor West, unable to attend, was represented by J. N. Teal, and D. S. Sells Cohen gave a talk on "Portland as an Industrial Center," speaking for Mayor Rushlight. Others to speak at the morning session were: A. H. Devers, State Labor Commissioner; Hoff, C. M. Eppley, president of the Marion County Manufacturers' Association; E. J. McClanahan, president of the Lane County Manufacturers' Association; R. W. Raymond and Colonel David M. Durney, of this city. All of the speakers emphasized the important part women, who buy the bulk of the household necessities, can play in promoting the object for which the state organization is formed.

One of the principal addresses at the second session was delivered by Joseph H. Young, president of the H. H. Lines in Oregon. In discussing "What Railroads Are Doing for the Industries," Mr. Young related that in the past few months the railroads had bought over 900,000 feet of Oregon lumber for construction of cars. That the large transportation companies were directly interested in the situation, Mr. Young said, was evidenced from the fact that they were locating factories in the state.

Misrepresentation is Denounced.

J. W. Wilbur, of the Santiam Woolen Mills, Stayton, Or., gave an interesting talk on wool, devoting particular attention to the quality feature. He said legislation should be enacted compelling manufacturers truthfully to label their goods and urged Oregon people to demand Oregon woolen goods when making purchases.

A. C. Rulofson, president of the California Consumers' League, made a talk on general home industry lines. L. Samuels, president of the Oregon Life Insurance Company, told how every resident Oregonian can encourage the consumption of home-manufactured goods and gave several incidents in his own experience as proof. He strongly commended the same course to others.

Others to address the convention were: City School Superintendent Rigger, State Treasurer Kay, Mrs. E. T. Weathered, F. E. Beach, George M. Cornwall and W. T. Buchanan.

WEBER ON TRIAL FOR LIFE

Witnesses in St. Helens Case Describe Finding of Dead Man.

ST. HELENS, Or., Nov. 21.—In the trial of George Weber for the murder of James Corrin, on August 3 last, the state called as their first witness, B. F. Wilson, who found the body of Corrin, plainly visible, tied to a bush in the Willamette Slough, and who notified the Sheriff, Dr. G. L. Ross testified that he performed the postmortem on Corrin. He described the wound and the rope with which Corrin was tied, and said that one of the lungs was full of water, and that the chest cavity was filled with blood. He also testified the length of time the body could have been in water.

Henry Bert Parson testified that on the night of the murder he was awakened at 11 o'clock by the defendant and asked to come to his float to assist him in raising his launch, which was supposed to have sprung a leak; that the defendant then told him about a mysterious assault made on him and that he was afraid that Jimmy Corrin might have had some accident; that the witness having seen both the defendant and Corrin at 8 o'clock on that same day, and in a very intoxicated condition, did not think anything of it, but thought that Corrin might have been sick on account of drink.

GRIEVANCE IS NEW

London Dockmen Declare They Are Victimized.

MINOR OFFICIALS BLAMED

Men Supposed to Be Reinstated Are Not Given Old Jobs, They Say, and as Result Great Restlessness Now Prevails.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(Special.)—A fresh grievance has arisen among the men employed by the London docks, and the Port of London authority will shortly be asked to consider certain cases of alleged victimization. Messrs. H. Gosling and H. Orbell, who represent the men's union on the Port authority, are to raise the matter at a forthcoming meeting. The suggestion is that in many instances, men who have been out of faith on the question of reinstatement.

Mr. Williams, the secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation, says that the men claim that there have been many cases of vindictive victimization on the part of the officials of the Port Authority, but it is their minor officials who are said to be the authors of these instances. Messrs. Orbell and Gosling intend to try, as far as their powers will permit, to remedy the grievances. After the strike, the men were to be reinstated in their former positions, but they have been employed again at their old rate. The grades have been shifted, and men who were in grade A have been put into grade B, while some are classed as casuals and have had to seek employment elsewhere.

Great Restlessness Prevails.

"The result is that there is great restlessness among the men, but there will not be any strike unless and until such action is sanctioned by all the unions in the Federation."

An official of the Port Authority stated that any alleged cases of victimization would be dealt with very promptly brought forward by the men's leaders. It was believed that the Dockers' Union had compiled a record of such instances, but so far this has not been presented to the Authority.

The reports furnished to the Parliamentary committee of the Trade Union Congress and the General Federation of Trade Unions, which are the members of an unusually large number of labor troubles. At Liverpool and in the Oldham district the carters has presented demands for shorter hours and shorter hours, that are being stoutly resisted by the employers, and in each case there is danger of a strike, with possible extension to other groups of transport workers. The National Transport Workers' Federation has approved the action of the Liverpool men.

At Cardiff the molders have entered upon the ninth week of a strike. At Llanelli there is the fear of a strike involving firemen in many works, including the power station. At Manchester the tailors are threatening to come out in the Oldham district there is a dispute with the cotton packers and the cotton masters. In the Nelson district the building trade is threatened. At Horwich a strike in the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company's locomotive works has been avoided by the offer of an increase of 25 cents per week, one-half what the men asked.

There is also the threat of a combined strike affecting dyers and finishers in Lancashire and Yorkshire, weavers and general textile workers in Yorkshire, and wool combers at Bradford.

FUND FOR HOME GROWS

$20,000 ALREADY SUBSCRIBED TOWARD GIRLS' INSTITUTION.

Portland Women's Union in Charge of Canvass Expects to Raise $100,000 of Sum Needed.

Members of the Portland Women's Union are now conducting a canvass for funds for the new home for working girls which is to be built on the quarter block at Front and Montgomery streets. While actively at work only a short time, the committee in charge of the campaign already have secured subscriptions amounting to $20,000.

The total amount of money that it is desired to receive from subscriptions is $100,000. The new home will cost about $150,000, together with the furnishings. The organization expects to sell its present quarters at Fifteenth and Pioneer streets for $40,000 or $50,000. The proceeds of the sale of this property will be applied to the building fund, leaving about $100,000 to be raised by popular subscriptions. The site for the new building was deeded to the Women's Union some time ago by Mrs. J. P. Mann.

The institution was founded 25 years ago and has been conducted successfully by the Women's Union for self-supporting young women.

Every patron of the institution is provided with every convenience that may be enjoyed in a private home, at the lowest possible charge, and yet the home has been on a self-sustaining basis for many years. The present quarters provide accommodations for 50 girls, and about 15 are turned away every week on account of limitations. The cause for which the members of the Portland Women's Union is working so zealously is considered a most worthy one, and hopes are entertained that there will be a generous response from the citizens of Portland towards financing the new home.

Contributions may be given to any one of the following members of the building and finance committees: Mrs. Henry E. Jones, Mrs. A. J. Meier, Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Elliot R. Corbett, Mrs. W. B. Ayer, Mrs. Adolph A. Dekum, Mrs. J. B. Comstock, Mrs. L. Frank, Mrs. Max Hirsch, Mrs. I. N. Lipman, Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse, Mrs. H. L. Pitcock, Mrs. Theodore Nicolai and Mrs. C. W. Sherman.

separation from him and application for divorce. Once, she said, she received a summons to go to a hospital where Jennison was said to be suffering from an accident. She refused to go, and learned later that he was lying in wait with a taxicab to kidnap her when she left the house. On another occasion he seized her bodily and started to run away, but she fought him off. At another time he made an attempt with a knife and two persons were slightly wounded in disarming him. She knew of his carrying an automatic revolver on several occasions.

Deputy District Attorney Page learned yesterday that the revolver with which the shooting was done was bought Wednesday evening by Jennison at Third and Burnside streets, after once meeting his wife and being recognized. "This man is clearly guilty of first degree murder if his victim dies," said the prosecutor.

LAW HELD INEFFICIENT

NO PUNISHMENT IS PROVIDED FOR THREATS TO KILL.

Oregon Statute Only Gives Court Right to Demand Bond When Homicide is Intimated.

Revel of the question of what the courts should do with persons, especially with jealous husbands who threaten to kill, has arisen on account of the case of Byron Jennison, 21 years old, of Yorkville, who probably fatally wounded his girl wife at Sixth and Taylor streets early yesterday morning. Like William Jens Hassing, Owen Ogden, and others who eventually carried out their threats, young Jennison gave due notice, being before the Municipal Court September 28 under an accumulation of charges, of which threatening to kill his wife was one.

Under the statute in this state, the only penalty for such threats is the imposition of a bond to keep the peace, running to the end of the term of court in this district not longer than the end of the month. It has been urged frequently that a bond, however large, is no check upon persons with a homicidal mania, and even if it were, the term during which it runs is so short that little good can be accomplished thereby. For this reason the courts tend rather to the exercise of extra legal precautions, usually in the form of placing responsibility upon the friends of the threatener to see that he does no harm.

This was done in the case of Hassing, and two weeks later he shot and killed his wife and is to hang for the crime next month. In the case of Ogden, the preliminary coming before the magistrate at Milwaukee, similar precautions were not sufficient to prevent the murder and suicide at the Turin Halle restaurant a few weeks later.

Every element of danger was seen in the case of Jennison at the time of his hearing in Municipal Court. The wife, a mere child, and other witnesses told of the series of acts committed by the young man following her

RIVER FRONT IN QUESTION

Circuit Court Denies Right of Company to Include State in Suit.

By sustaining a demurrer to the state's complaint in intervention Circuit Judge Morrow yesterday refused to allow the state to become a party to the case of the Elks of Portland, through its Public Dock Commission, and the Pacific Docks and Elevator Company, involving the title to land between high and low water marks along the Willamette River in Portland harbor. The suit was brought by the company against the city to quiet title, the dock commission having asserted public ownership of the strip in question.

The decision which will, however, be appealed at once to the Supreme Court for final adjudication, affects the title to the strip between high and low water mark along both sides of the river in the harbor. The state was the original owner of these strips, but in 1874 passed legislation giving the owners of the uplands wharfage rights. In brief Judge Morrow's decision is that the rights of upland owners are superior to those of the state. If this view is sustained in the Supreme Court the result, it is said, will be that the Public Dock Commission will have to pay much greater sums than it otherwise would for land condemned for public dock purposes.
