Negotiations Do Not Stop War Moves.

SERVIANS TAKE NEW TOWN

Roumania Excited Over Safeguarding of Interests.

BULGARIANS SHIFT FORCES

Austria Officially Denies Belligerent Intentions, but Reports of Calling of Reserves Are Confirmed.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Pending the outcome of the negotiations for an armistice in the Balkan War, all the necessary dispositions are being made along the Tebalatja lines for a resumption of the war should the negotiations fail. Bulgaria is shipping her forces from Saloniki in Greek transports, presumably for transfer to Gallipoli Peninsula, where Turkey is also strengthening her forces by Anatolian troops. Here an attempt will be made by the allies, assisted by the Greek fleet, to take the Dardanelles.

Lines to Be Reinforced.

The rest of the allied forces liberated in Macedonia will be sent by rail as speedily as possible to reinforce the Bulgarians attacking the Tebalatja lines. Their places will be taken by the Bulgarian 1912 recruits who, after three weeks' training, are being drafted into Macedonia for garrison duty. The chief news of military importance tonight is the occupation by the Servians of Ochrid, a large town near Monastir. The position at Adrianople and Scutari are apparently unchanged.

Vienna Denies Preparations.

The official statements issued at Vienna continue to deny the reported war preparations. Letters from Vienna have reached London, however, confirming reports that the strength of six army corps is being increased and that a large number of reservists have been called out.

As the war approaches a conclusion, public opinion in Bucharest, according to the correspondent of the Standard, is getting more excited with reference to safeguarding Roumanian interests.

Masses were held Sunday to protest against the reported Greek persecution of the Kutzovians in Macedonia. The leaders of this race strongly object to the division of Macedonia between Greece, Bulgaria and Serbia, and they fear their own nationality would be squeezed out. Roumania intends to secure guarantees against this.

Roumania to Adjust Claims.

Another question relates to readjustment of the Roumanian-Bulgarian frontier. It is now said Roumania is not claiming Ruscuk and Varna, as this would add a large Bulgarian population to Roumania, but only Sillestria and the frontier running thence to the Black Sea at a point considerably north of Varna.

Dr. Daneff, president of the Bulgarian Chamber of Deputies, is expected at Bucharest to negotiate these claims.

The peace delegate, Osman Nizami Pasha, Turkish Ambassador to Germany, arrived Sunday at Bucharest, on his way to Constantinople. He will have an interview with King Charles before leaving, and it is expected that Roumania will make its influence felt in the negotiations on the peace terms.

Kaiser May Mediate.

Telegraphing from Vienna, the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austrian-Hungarian throne, reached Vienna early Sunday from Berlin, where he had been on a visit to Emperor William, and proceeded to Schonbrunn, the seat of the Imperial palace, where he remained for one hour with Emperor Francis Joseph.

Later the Emperor received Marshall von Scheina, chief of staff of the Austrian army, who accompanied Archduke Ferdinand to Berlin, and while in the German capital conferred with Lieutenant-General von Moltke, chief of staff of the German army.

It is rumored in political circles that the conversations between Emperor William and Archduke Ferdinand will result in a sort of mediation between Austria and Russia, which will be conducted by Emperor William. It is hoped in this way to avert the crisis that is evidenced by the military preparations throughout Europe.

FIRE CRY STARTS PANIC; 50 KILLED

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIGHT FOR LIVES IN THEATER.

Operator in Moving Picture Show Loses Nerve and Gives Alarm When Film Blazes.

BILBAO, Spain, Nov. 24.—A terrible panic was caused here today by the cry of fire at a moving picture show. About 50 children and others were killed. The number of injured is not known, as most of them were taken home by friends.

The scene of the accident is a large circus, which had been converted into a continuance cinematograph show. As the price of admittance was only 2 cents, the building was crowded, for the most part with women and children.

The operator of the machine lost his nerve when a film ignited and screamed "fire." He was able to extinguish the flames himself without difficulty, but the effect of his cry upon the spectators was instantaneous.

Almost every one within the building sprang up. Police and attendants were swept away by the surging mass, which sought to fight a way to the exit. Scores were knocked down and trampled upon and many were crushed to death in the passages from the galleries and to the streets.

The disaster caused frenzied crowds to gather outside the building, and the authorities had great trouble in carrying on the work of rescue and extricating the dead and injured.

The manager and other employees have been arrested and are held pending an inquiry.

UNION MEN'S BONDS MAY BE INCREASED

Court to Rule Regarding 6 Leaders.

MOTION TO BE MADE TODAY

Doubled Surety for Alleged Dynamite Plotters Asked.

HOCKIN REMAINS IN JAIL

Ryan, Butler, Young, Cooney, Clancy and Treitmore Are Officials Named by McManigal Who May Be Affected.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 24.—Whether the bonds of six more of the accused "dynamite plotters" are to be increased is to be placed tomorrow before the Federal Court.

District Attorney Miller said tonight he would ask the court to rule on a motion for doubling the bonds of Frank M. Ryan, president of the Ironworkers' Union; John T. Butler, Buffalo, vice-president; Michael J. Young, Boston; Phillip A. Cooley, New Orleans; Eugene A. Clancy and Olaf A. Treitmore, San Francisco.

Young and Clancy were named by Orrie E. McManigal as having met him on his dynamiting trips. Cooley is a member of the union's international executive board. Treitmore was charged by the District Attorney with having published criticisms of the trial "as anarchistic as those printed in the union magazine by Mary Field."

It is the article by Miss Field which Federal Judge Anderson denounced in court as an "outrageous contempt," adding, in reference to criticisms of the trial by the defendants, "if society is to hold together this thing cannot continue."

Herbert S. Hockin, secretary of the union, whose $10,000 bond was increased to $20,000 after a witness had testified he had been accepting pay for information about the dynamites being held in jail tonight.

The testimony of Lyndey L. Jewel, an official of a construction firm in Pittsburg, that Hockin had disclosed the locality of hidden nitroglycerin as early as August, 1910, and had fully described the Los Angeles Times dynamiters to William J. Burns, a detective, shortly after the explosion, although arrests were not made until four months later, and that Hockin had trailed the dynamiters about the country at the direction of Burns, called attention to McManigal's confession.

McManigal's Story Verified.

In his confession McManigal said he

HOSE TURNED ON NOISY COLLEGIANS

FIREMEN DRENCH DARTMOUTH STUDENTS IN THEATER.

Rush Is Made on Police and Fire Laddies, but All Flee When Faculty Members Come.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Trouble approaching a riot had started in the streets here last night when the firemen turned the hose on a crowd of noisy Dartmouth students numbering more than 300, who had come from Hanover to the Crown Theater. The interior of the theater had been damaged and police and firemen for a while were powerless to quell the disturbance. Townspeople and students were drenched. Many windows were broken and stores were more or less damaged by water.

At the height of the trouble a rush was made by the students upon the firemen, but counsel from some of the older Dartmouth men finally prevailed, and on hearing that the college authorities had been notified and were on the way, the students dispersed, most of them walking back to Hanover on the railroad track. No arrests were made.

Attorney Says She Will Plead Not Guilty to Poisoning Charge.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 24.—When Mrs. Paisy Ellen Lesh, charged with having poisoned two women in Pettis County, Mo., several years ago, appears in the criminal court here tomorrow, she will plead not guilty, her attorney said tonight, to the charge of having caused the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Quaintance at Green Ridge, Mo., in July, 1904. After she has been tried on this charge the case in which she is accused of poisoning Mrs. Eliza Coe, of Sedalia, will be taken up.

Louis P. Luttrell, a Texas farmer, an uncle of Mrs. Lesh, arrived here today to remain until the conclusion of her trial. Luttrell and Mrs. Lesh had never met before. Luttrell said he had not heard of his sister, the mother of Mrs. Lesh, for 20 years, and he does not know whether the father of Mrs. Lesh is living.

Mrs. Lesh spent much time reading the Bible today. Scores of people called to see her, but the Sheriff admitted only the newspapermen.

3 SLIGHT QUAKES FELT IN SEATTLE

HOTEL PATRONS ARE SCARED, BUT NO DAMAGE DONE.

First Shock Comes at 7:20 P. M., Second at 8:35 P. M. and Last Occurs at 9:05 P. M.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Three separate earth shocks were felt in Seattle tonight. None was of sufficient force to do any damage, but all were noticeable, the first two in different parts of the city at 7:20 and 8:35, and the third at 9:05 was felt all over the city.

In many buildings furniture swayed, lighting fixtures oscillated visibly from the ceilings, and in one instance the jar was of sufficient force to close a door with a bang. In some of the hotels patrons on the upper floors ran from their rooms into the halls.

The general direction of the most noticeable shock, that at 9:05, was north and south. Several persons reported having felt a sort of a rising in the floor, accompanied by a sensation as of something very heavy being dragged along the ground. It will not be known before tomorrow morning just how severe was the one on the cosmograph at the University of Washington, as no one with both the authority to look at it and the ability to read it could be found tonight.

200 GIRL VOTERS FETED

Samuel Hill Gives Women Credit for Electing Lister.

SEATTLE, Nov. 23.—Two hundred young women, members of the Seattle Business Girls' Club, were guests tonight of Samuel Hill, ex-president of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, at a banquet in the ballroom of the Hotel Washington, which had been elaborately decorated. The only invited guests, besides the girls, were Governor-elect and Mrs. Ernest Lister, who attended, and Governor West of Oregon.

The dinner was given to celebrate the election of Governor-elect Lister, Mr. Hill asserting that the young women had brought about his victory.

After the banquet, which was ordered to be prepared regardless of expense, the whole dinner party was conveyed in special streetcars to the huge stone palace which Mr. Hill built for the entertainment of the Belgian Crown Prince during his proposed visit to the World's Fair and which has been closed for two years. Addresses were made by Mr. Hill and others.

WATER PROJECT IS ISSUE

San Francisco Fight for Hetch Hetchy Valley Before Fisher.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—San Francisco's fight for the use of the Hetch Hetchy Valley in the Yosemite National Park as a reservoir for the city's water supply will be waged before tomorrow at a final hearing on the application for a permit.

Many of those interested in the city's attempt to acquire the valley in connection with its municipal aqueduct scheme arrived here today. The aqueduct, it is contended, would involve the expenditure of possibly $50,000,000 and the labor of 150 miles over and beyond the San Joaquin Valley to the City of San Francisco.

The hearing is expected to continue several days. The contest between the city authorities and the opposing interests, including the organizations and individuals who attack the plan as destructive of one of the world's beauty spots, promises to be lively.

CHILD WELFARE AT STAKE

Votes for Women, She Says, Will Mean Better Homes—Miss Jane Addams Says Men Not Competent to Settle Vice Issues.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—With bowed heads and led in prayer by Bishop Rhinelander of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania, more than 500 delegates to the National Woman Suffrage convention gave thanks today to the Almighty for their recent victories in Arizona, Kansas, Michigan and Oregon.

The meeting held in the Metropolitan Opera House was in the nature of a jubilee. Thousands who were unable to gain admittance attended overflow meetings which prominent suffragists addressed.

Miss Julia Lathrop and Miss Jane Addams were the principal speakers. Miss Addams' subject was "The Communion of the Ballot" and Miss Lathrop delivered an address on "Woman Suffrage and Child Welfare." Dr. Anna Shaw presided. Dr. W. E. Burghart-Dubois spoke on "The Democracy of Sex and Color."

Plan Made for Suffrage.

Miss Lathrop and Miss Addams directed their arguments to show that the fields of labor in which they are engaged demand that votes should be granted women that they may solve problems which they understand better than men and which properly belong to them.

"My purpose is to show woman suffrage is a natural and inevitable step in the march of society forward," said Miss Lathrop who, as head of the newly created child's bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor was introduced as the only woman chief of bureau in the Federal service.

"I intend to show that instead of being incompatible with child welfare it leads toward it and it is, indeed, the next great service to be rendered for the welfare and ennoblement of the home."

"A little more than one-third of all the people in this country—something over 25,000,000—are children under the age of 16, still in a state of tutelage and it is of unbounded importance that nothing be done by the rest of us which would injure this budding growth."

Miss Lathrop said it was a great revolution when a religion was established which allowed a woman to have a soul. Out of the Africa of today she brought woman in her primitive condition to compare her with the modern American woman of the most advanced type of suffragist to ask whether progress has rendered woman less womanly, or has taken her out of the sphere of home life or destroyed her usefulness to her family.

"Suffrage for woman is not the final word in human freedom, but it is the next step in the onward march," she said. "This new century has been called the Century of the child and we may well believe that it will see a new sense of justice toward the child."

"It is our fundamental truism in the Western world that the state of woman connotes the state of civilization, and it is a waste of words to endeavor to point out that the influence of women in the Western world, with its comparative freedom and openness, is more wholesome for the national progress of the race than is her seclusion in the Orient."

Reforms Are Cited.

Miss Lathrop quoted from history to show that the extension of the suffrage to men has always brought a larger expression in laws serviceable to the whole people. Reviewing the objections to the old system of apprenticeship, which took the youth from home surroundings during the years when he most needed them, Miss Lathrop asserted that no such practice will be possible now-a-days.

"We find it intolerable that children should be removed from their parents because of poverty," continued Miss Lathrop, "and that women should work when, to do so, means to leave their children neglected and wretched. It is true we do not know how to deal with this problem effectively. The sacredness of the family and its unspeakable value to the growing generations is to gain in the 20th century a richer realization and of greater effectiveness. There has never been a time when a majority of women have been such competent mothers as at present."

"Women are sharers if not actual leaders now in all social work," said Miss Lathrop. "Warrantable work cannot content itself with building asylums and giving alms."

Women Not Influenced.

In discussing the statement that women will vote as told to by men at their homes, Miss Lathrop declared it a reproach. "Women who work, and
