ALASKA COAL TO BE TOPIC

Workingmen's Compensation Act to Be Drafted for Legislative Action Making Cost of Insurance Tax on Commodity.

SPOKANE, Wash, Nov. 34 .- With the prospects of a lively fight being waged on what its opponents call "The political heresy of the new nationalism," as practiced by the last two Administrations at Washington, in regard to the administration of the laws governing the development of the public domain, the fifteenth annual session of the American Mining Congress will begin its sessions here tomorrow with an ex-pected attendance of more than 1000 delegates from all over the country, but chiefly from the Western States.

The three main questions to be threshed out in the congress probably

First-A more liberal administration of the mineral land laws, particularly in the Western States and Alaska. Second—The opening of the coal fields in Alaska. Third—The framing of a workmen's compensation law supplementary to the Federal law, the chief feature of which will be making the cost of insurance to employes or workingmen a part of the cost of production, and not a burden to the workingmen themselves. den to the workingmen themselves.

Compensation Act Considered.

The scope of this law, according to James F. Callbreath, secretary, of Den-ver, Colo., is to include accidents of all kinds, regardless of any contributory negligence on the part of employes; the family or widow of any employe, whether killed or permanently injured. is to be insured by a tax on the com-modities produced. The object in fram-ing this law is ultimately to have it passed by the legislatures of the several

The fight for a more liberal inter-pretation of the mineral land laws will be made on the ground, it is said, that the states should have control of the natural resources within their borders as the only way to stop the heavy im-migration of recent years from the United States to Canada,

Alaska to Be Represented. The Alaska delegation, more than 100 strong, is coming with the expectation of having the support of the coal-minof having the support of the coal-mining interests in the Eastern States.

The entire session Wednesday night is to be devoted to a discussion of the Alaskan coal fleids problem, a feature of which will be the reading of a paper by Director Holmes, of the Federal Bureau of Mines, setting forth the Government's attitude.
