

DR. SHAW AGAIN IS CHOSE PRESIDENT

Western Delegates Overcome Eastern Domination at Convention.

POLITICAL RIVALRY KEEN

Women Play Astute Game in Contest for Leadership—Body Decides to Remain, as Before, Non-Partisan.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The National American Woman Suffrage Association elected its officers today for the ensuing year. The officers selected are:

President, Anna Howard Shaw, of Pennsylvania; first vice-president, Jane Addams, of Chicago; second vice-president, Charlotte Anita Whitney, of California; corresponding secretary, Mary Ware Dennett, of New York; recording secretary, Susan W. Fitzgerald, of Boston; treasurer, Katherine Dexter McCormick, of Boston, formerly of Chicago; first auditor, Harriet Burton Laidlaw, of New York; second auditor, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, of Chicago.

Miss Shaw, Miss Addams, Mrs. Dennett and Miss Fitzgerald were re-elected; Mrs. McCormick, who became treasurer, is now one of the auditors, and Mrs. Laidlaw, elected first auditor, is now second auditor. The new members of the board of control are Charlotte Anita Whitney and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen.

Two Tickets in Field.

There were two tickets in the field, one representing the organization and the other those protesting against Eastern control. Some of the officers elected were not on either ticket and the result is largely a compromise, but Eastern domination seems to have been overcome and the Western delegates are claiming a victory. The method of balloting in the contest is this:

There is first a nomination ballot. No nominating speeches are permitted. The three members of the association who stand for election are named on each office are declared nominated. The elections then proceed, after typewritten copies of the two tickets are circulated among the delegates.

When the nominating ballot was taken for president it was reported, omitting the fractions, that Miss Shaw had received 221 votes, Miss Clay, of Kentucky, 13 votes and Mrs. Park, of New York, 11 votes. Among the scattering were votes for Miss Addams, Catherine Wang McCulloch and Mrs. Ella S. Stewart, of Chicago.

Nomination Is Unanimous.

Each as rapidly as possible withdrew her name, as did all other candidates nominated to contest with Miss Shaw, but it was not until Miss Addams took control of the convention that Miss Shaw would permit her nomination to be made unanimous.

Although there were considerable politics under the surface in the contest for control of the official board, affairs were conducted as astutely as at any convention ever held by men or women, and there was not a semblance of the deep feeling which prevailed. Defeated candidates who had been ambitious until that moment, when the nominating ballot disclosed a majority against them, in most instances withdrew their names and the recording secretary was kept busy casting the ballot of the convention for different offices.

The convention has a system of voting which has provoked much criticism and called for a protest this morning in the form of a notice. Upon most questions the vote of the convention is determined by the majority of delegates present, but there is a plural system, which can be invoked by five state delegations or auxiliary associations, and the number of members each delegation is entitled to on the basis of the dues annually paid into the National association.

Good News Reaches Convention.

Considerable amusement was caused among the delegates when Miss Shaw announced that the room set aside for hospital purposes would be used by the tellers in counting the votes, which the tellers were counting the votes Miss Shaw read a telegram announcing that the Michigan returns indicated a majority of 424 for woman suffrage. "We are ahead and we are going to keep ahead," she declared.

To restore order Miss Shaw used an ordinary carpenter's hammer, which she wielded with considerable force. An invitation in the form of telegrams from the Mayor, Business Men's Club and other bodies to the next convention in Memphis was read to the convention, but no action was taken, as several delegates announced that at the proper time invitations from other cities would be forthcoming.

Body Remains Non-Partisan.

The resolutions committee's report placed the association on record as favoring a non-partisan political body. The resolution on this point said: "Resolved, That the National American Woman's Suffrage Association shall maintain its time-honored tradition of being absolutely non-partisan as to political parties."

It was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Dr. Anna Shaw in a brief speech, in which she showed much feeling, said she would give the association her loyal support and in return demanded loyalty from the members.

One of the most impressive addresses of the day was made by Miss Leonora O'Reilly, head of the Woman's Trade Union in New York, who spoke in behalf of working girls. She requested the college women in the audience not to correct the grammar of working girls, but "merely let them do things in their own way and feel encouraged by their support."

Women to Protect Selves.

"Don't try to boss us," continued Miss O'Reilly, "when we come to you for help. Don't be afraid of us when we go on strike. We must protect ourselves."

Among the messages of greeting received today was one from Oregon, which was generously applauded. It was a telegram from the suffragists of the state, who reported that a count of the vote on the equal suffrage amendment in Oregon showed that it had carried by a majority of 4161.

SOFT WORDS COOL ANGER

Couple Remarry Under Right Name and Bride Forgets Imposition, Saying Even if Boehm Is Not Rich He Is Hers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Mrs. Aimee Witherspoon-Givens-Boehm, former wife of Robert S. Givens, millionaire real estate man, declares she is going to be happy with her chauffeur husband, Edward Boehm, with whom she eloped, thinking he was "Edward B. Kirkman, a member of the wealthy family by whom he was employed. When Boehm disappeared after the sensational elopement and marriage under the name of Kirkman, Mrs. Boehm—or Kirkman—was dejected and angry but when he reappeared she forgave him and married him yesterday under his right name.

Mrs. Givens married last Wednesday morning, after an automobile elopement from Chicago. Returning to Chicago, she announced this fact. Everything which she had done since she had read the story of the wedding and then complications began.

Chauffeur Hides Identity.

Mr. Kirkman said that he had no son named Edward B. and that the man who had been married to Mrs. Givens was William Boehm, a chauffeur, employed by the Kirkman family during the summer.

Before this denouncement, however, the new husband of Mrs. Givens had quarreled with her and disappeared, carelessly taking with him $800, being part of the $20,000 paid her by her former husband.

The wedding started as befitted that of a millionaire's son. Despite the unconventional nature of a midnight elopement, the couple planned to start in the proper way. They leased the bridal chamber at the Alexandria Hotel and occupied it one day, planning meanwhile to establish a costly home in Wilson avenue. They surrendered the key to the cashier and disappeared.

At Crown Point Boehm said he was Edward B. Kirkman, son of Marshall M. Kirkman, novelist, millionaire and ex-official of the Northwestern Railway. He gave his age as 29 years. He said the bride-elect was the daughter of George W. Witherspoon, of Algona, Mich., and that she was 25 years old. They married because sufficient time had not elapsed since her divorce to permit an Illinois marriage.

Marrying Justice Wears Bathrobe.

They were married by Justice Nicholas at 2 o'clock in the morning, who, besides his dignity, was attired in a flaming red bathrobe. They returned immediately to Chicago. Early the next morning, having taken charge of the $800, the bridegroom proposed they take in the "sights" of the South Side, and they called a taxicab and visited the city. The bridegroom, however, all the while, finally Boehm became too attentive to an actress and he and the bride quarreled. He ran out of the cafe, leaping into a waiting automobile, and disappeared.

Mrs. Givens had known Boehm as "Kirkman" about four months. He had been introduced to her as Edward B. Kirkman and frequently took her riding in the Kirkman automobile, bearing the family coat of arms. His home is said to be in Danville, Ill.

Mrs. Boehm, who had detectives seeking her husband, was angry, but after a private interview with Boehm when he reappeared, announced she was happy and that they would be married again under Boehm's right name.

Angry Wife Relents.

Boehm emerged from retirement Saturday and telephoned to the detective bureau he was ready to face his wife. A few moments later he met her in a hotel corridor. "You will get five years in the penitentiary for this," she flashed at him. Boehm held out his hand pleadingly, but she refused it. He whispered something to her and they went to a parlor together. When they emerged Mrs. Boehm was smiling. "It's all right," she said. "He's no millionaire, but he's honest, and I'm satisfied. I'm going to telegraph my father in Michigan that everything is all right. We'll be married again at once." And they were—this time under the name of Boehm.

WASHINGTON BANKER FREE

Governor Hay Pardons H. M. Boone, of Whitman County.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 25.—(Special.)

H. M. Boone, ex-State Senator from Whitman County, president of the defunct Palouse State Bank, convicted of embezzlement in connection with the failure of the financial institution which he headed, will be at liberty to eat Thanksgiving dinner with his family, as Governor Hay today signed a full pardon for him. Boone has been an inmate of the penitentiary since last March, when, following his conviction in the lower court and two futile appeals to the Supreme Court, he was committed to the penitentiary. Efforts were made to have Governor Hay pardon him at that time before he went to prison, but this application was refused. Executive clemency was granted upon the petition of hundreds of residents of all parts of the state, depositors who lost money when the bank failed, members of the jury that convicted the banker and men prominent in all walks of life.

CHINOOK ARE PLENTIFUL

Salmon Stripped of Eggs Appear Lively Within a Few Days.

ASTORIA, Or., Nov. 25.—(Special.)

Deputy Fish Warden Gor, who has returned from a visit to the various streams along the coast, reports that at most points there was a fair run of Fall chinooks, but the catch of silver-sides was light. There appeared to be plenty of fish off the mouth of the streams, but they did not come in. One peculiar feature is that at nearly every stream marked chinooks that had been released from the Columbia River hatcheries were caught.

At the hatchery on the Yaquina a new experiment was tried this Fall in that a number of salmon, after being stripped of their eggs, were tagged and turned loose, to ascertain if they will return again. Mr. Gor says that two or three days after being released the salmon could be seen playing about in pools, apparently as lively as ever.

OCEAN GIVES UP VICTIM

Body of Fred Lieshman Found at Mouth of Grays Harbor.

AERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 25.—(Special.)

The body of Fred Lieshman, a former Government employe at the north jetty construction work at the mouth of Grays Harbor, was found drifting in the lower bay today. Lieshman went hunting alone in a small duck boat last Wednesday, and search had been instituted by his friends. Some months ago Lieshman was hurt in an accident at the jetty, his leg being broken. He had been living there since. Wednesday was the first time he had gone out on a trip alone.

The indications this year for the Thanksgiving holidays give evidence that the old-time custom of big family dinners at home is slowly but surely disappearing.

The reasons seem to be—first, that the housewife has taken it into her dear head that big dinners at home mean nothing more nor less than two or three days of drudgery; and, secondly, that the hotels and restaurants are each year increasing their efforts to make the family feel repaid for "going out for turkey."

This year The Imperial Grill seems to be taking the lead in PREPARATIONS FOR ENTERTAINING FAMILY PARTIES AT THANKSGIVING DINNER!

Mr. Metschan promises all the good things the home-loving husband could find at home—in the atmosphere of home—served like it would be at home—with the added enjoyment of light and life and music.
