

TAF MESSAGE LAUDS DIPLOMACY

President Denies Materialistic Aims Alone Govern Foreign Relations.

KNOX'S BILL IS INDORSED

Warning Given to Competitive
Nations Who May Retaliate Upon Growing Commerce in Manner Not Equitable.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A note of warning to European powers, which by indirect means continue to discriminate against American trade; a strong appeal to the Congress to uplift the great foreign policies of America above mere questions of partisanship; a triumphant vindication of the diplomacy of the Administration, which is characterized as that of "dollars versus bullets"; a mass of facts and figures showing the expansion of American trade as a result of the foreign policies of the Administration; and an earnest appeal for joint action by Congress and the Executive to open new markets for American industries—these are the more striking features of President Taft's fourth annual message sent to Congress today.

The message is the first of a series of such communications which he will send to Congress in the early days of the session, and deals entirely with the foreign relations of the United States. Beginning with the usual reference to the existing good relations with foreign powers, the President adds that these have been strengthened by "a greater insistence upon justice to American citizens or interests, wherever it may have been denied, and a stronger emphasis of the need of mutual respect in commercial and other relations."

Competitive Nations Alarmed.
For the first time in its history, says the President, the State Department has obtained substantially the most-favored-nation treatment from all of the countries of the world. Therefore, he says that it is only natural that competitive countries should view with some concern the expansion of our commerce. Hence the warning: "If in some instances the measures taken by them to meet it are not entirely equitable a remedy should be found."

To this end, the President strongly recommends the enactment of the bill recommended by Secretary Knox last December, permitting the Government instead of imposing the full maximum rates of duty against discriminating countries, to apply a graduated scale of duties, up to the maximum of 35 per cent.

"Flat tariffs are out of date," says the President. "Nations no longer accord equal tariff treatment to all nations. Irrespective of the treatment from them received. It is very necessary that the American Government should be equipped with weapons of retaliation and adapted to modern economic conditions."

Plan Made for Merit System.
The State Department, "an archaic and inadequate machine" at the beginning of this Administration, President Taft says, has become a strong organization, with highly specialized bureaus and experts dealing with every phase of American trade and diplomacy. Holding the attention of this reorganized service is found in the merit system, which President Cleveland is credited with having introduced.

President Taft makes a strong appeal to Congress to make this machine permanent by giving the force of statutory law to the executive orders governing admission to and promotion in the diplomatic and consular services.

To show that these appointments are already largely non-partisan, the President points to the fact that three of the present Ambassadors are hold-overs; that of the 10 he has appointed, five were by promotion from the rank of Minister; that of the 20 Ministers appointed, 11 were promotions; and that in the consular service no less than 85 per cent of the Southern States.

"The diplomacy of the present Administration has sought to respond to modern ideas of international intercourse," says President Taft. "This policy has been characterized as substituting dollars for bullets. It is one that appeals alike to the mercantile and humanitarian sentiments, to the dictates of sound policy and strategy, and to legitimate commercial aims."

The President adds that "because modern diplomacy is commercial, there has been a disposition in some quarters to attribute to it none but materialistic aims."

Diplomacy Not Wholly Commercial.
"How strikingly erroneous such an impression is, may be seen from a study of the results by which the diplomacy of the United States can be judged," says the President.

He mentions the arbitration treaties with France and Great Britain, which failed of confirmation in the Senate; the successful tripartite mediation of the Argentine Republic, Brazil, and the United States, between Peru and Ecuador; the arbitration of the Panama-Costa Rica boundary dispute; the intervention between Hayti and the Dominican Republic on the verge of war; the suppression of the Nicaraguan war; the halting of the interference of the United States in the adjustment of the celebrated Tacna-Arica dispute between Peru and Chile; and the adjustment of the Peruvian-Ecuadorian boundary issue.

In consequence of these things, says the President, there has been a general easing of international tension on the west coast of South America. He also adds that the diplomacy of the United States is active in seeking to assuage the remaining ill feeling between this country and Colombia.

Taking up some of the details of the year's diplomatic work, the President refers with expressions of pride to China, where "the policy of encouragement of financial investment to enable that country to help itself has had the result of giving new life and practical application to the open door policy."

The consistent purpose has been to encourage the use of American capital in China, says the President, to promote the reforms to which that country is pledged by treaty with the United States and other powers. There has been a vigorous assertion, also, he says, of the equal right of the United States to voice in all questions pertaining to Chinese loans and developments.

Nicaragua Horrors Preventable.
President Taft makes the direct charge that the terrible events recorded in Nicaragua recently, the useless loss of life, the devastation of property, the bombardment of the principal cities, the killings and the tortures and sufferings, "might have been averted had the department of State, through approval of the joint convention by the Senate, been permitted to carry out its now well developed policy."

"In Central America the aim has been to help such countries," says Nicaragua.

ragua and Honduras to help themselves," says President Taft. "Who they are the immediate beneficiaries, the profit to the United States is two-fold, he adds. The Monroe Doctrine is more vital in the neighborhood of the Panama Canal and such countries should be relieved of the jeopardy of heavy foreign debts likely to provoke international complications. The financial rehabilitation of these countries by American bankers and the protection of their custom houses from being the prey of would-be dictators, says the President, would remove the menace of foreign creditors and revolutionary disorder. Furthermore, the United States would profit largely in a business way through the development of the great natural resources of Central America."

Commending the successful results of the application of the new neutrality laws to Mexico and other troubled countries, the President suggests that means be found in addition to prevent the professional revolutionists from making American ports "foci" for revolutionary intrigue. He reiterates his determination to adhere in the case of Mexico to the "patient policy of non-intervention, and the recognition of constituted authority, and the exertion of every effort to protect American interests."

Exports Hugely Increased.

Other paragraphs of the message point to the increase of American domestic exports by $200,000,000 during the past year, making the greatest total ever known, $2,200,000,000; to the agricultural credit system, which is thoroughly indorsed; to the probability of an amendment of the fur seal act, to permit limiting killing of seals; to a meeting of the arbitrators in Washington next year to adjust the pecuniary claims between Great Britain and the United States.

destroyed the confidence of the public in his integrity."

To this arraignment by Representative Clayton, of Alabama, representing the House of Representatives in the impeachment proceedings against the judge, Judge Archibald made an emphatic reply. He declared the House had brought proceedings against Judge Archibald upon facts that when properly analyzed showed the jurist's motives to be unquestionable.

Defense Calls Charges Vague.
"I do not like to think that any man can be brought into a court of justice anywhere and made to answer charges so vague and indefinite," added Mr. Worthington.

Judge Archibald sat with his attorneys at the right of the bench. Representative Clayton, making the opening statement for the House, declared the facts produced in the investigation of Judge Archibald's business relations with coal companies and railroads showed that his "sense of morality had been degraded," and that he had used his official position to induce officials of railroads that were grant him favors or to consent to business deals.

Witnesses to Appear Today.
Judge Archibald's attorney replied to all the impeachment charges made by the House, declaring that the witnesses summoned in behalf of the accused jurist would substantiate his contention that Mr. Archibald had been guilty of no wrongdoing, and that his relations to certain coal and land deals had been open.

The trial is expected to center about the testimony of witnesses as to Judge Archibald's connection with the purchase or attempted purchase of certain refuse coal dumps.

CHICKENS THRIVE ON WINE

Farmer Finds Hens Lay Eggs With More Appetizing Flavor.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—(Special).—A farmer of the "Midi," when comes the good wine, was distressed by the low standard of productivity which his hens seemed to have imposed on themselves. He thought the whole question one day over a bottle of excellent vintage, and came to a conclusion. "Here am I," he said to himself, "drinking my three litres of wine daily, and feeling all the better and more vigorous for them. Now, a merciful man is merciful to his hens, yet I expect these unhappy creatures to produce their diurnal egg on nothing more invigorating than water. From henceforward they shall have just a trifle of wine with their meals."

Next morning the new regime began with a dozen of his least prolific charges. They took to it very kindly from the first day, and the result was an ordinary omelette possessed all the flamboyant qualities of an "omelette au rhum."

HARRIMAN LINES CONFIR

The two lines virtually have been managed as one property, with much the same set of officials down to the minor grades. Enforcement of the Supreme Court's order, in the opinion of impartial outsiders, will call for separate and distinct working forces, from the highest salaried officers down to the most obscure subordinates.

Tuesday's stock market was largely governed by the merger decision. Wall street seemed unable to arrive at a definite conception of the importance of the decree. In a general way the financial community was disposed to believe that in its broader aspects the decision is not without bearing upon other corporations, industrial as well as railroads.

OFFICIALS EN ROUTE WEST

New Plans for Operating Said to Be Object of Conference.

OMAHA, Dec. 3.—(Special).—Officials from the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Oregon Washington Railroad & Navigation Companies are tonight en route to Salt Lake City, where they will hold a conference and discuss the recent merger decision of the Supreme Court.

The conference is said to have been called with the intention of permitting the real operating officials of the lines to work out a plan of operation, which will be presented to a reorganization committee soon to meet in New York.

President Mohler, of the Union Pacific, accompanied by his passenger heads, left Omaha last night for the conference. Vice-President Monroe, in charge of traffic, reached Omaha from the East at noon today and started for Salt Lake within an hour. Similar officials of the other lines are en route to the conference, and the heads of the law departments of all the roads will be there.

The main object of the meeting, rumors in Union Pacific headquarters are, is to prepare for the operation of the Central Pacific as a part of the Union Pacific system, giving the Union Pacific entry into California over its own tracks. It is taken for granted in Union Pacific headquarters that the Central Pacific will pass to the control of the Union Pacific, although no official will permit himself to be so quoted.

The Salt Lake conference will have nothing to do with making the plans by which the Central Pacific will pass to the Union Pacific, that point being left to New York officials. The conference will simply deal with the best way in which the Union Pacific, Central Pacific headquarters, which were in Washington can be operated as one system and from one head.

Letters of a Slim-Made Woman to Her Fat Sister

First Letter: On the Fallacy of "Training Down" to a Comfortable Size
Dear Sis—If you could see me now you'd surely wonder what witchery had wrought
the transformation—for you wouldn't recognize your Amazon sister in the gracefully molded figure sitting here.

Yes, I have a surprise for you—that huge mountain of fat you once knew as sister is no more—I'm as trim a body now as you'd meet in a day's walk. And the change from fat to just plump was so easy, and gradual, and natural, and perfectly harmless, that I didn't realize it was taking place.

You remember that horrible nightmare that confronted me every day—the physician called it "exercises"—but as I look back on it now I can call it nothing but torture.
Lying flat on my back and trying to kick holes through the ceiling with my feet. Attempting to stand on my hands on a chair
when nothing less than a derrier would lift my bulk into the air. Standing with stiff knees and trying to touch my toes with my fingers—when I couldn't even see them.
And other things as ridiculous. "Exercises."

I got a mixture of essence Marmola powder,
a little Castor Aromatic, 15 ounces Fespermit Water at the drugstore, took a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.
Took it persistently and faithfully—and now,
sis, I really have a beautiful figure, smooth skin, firm, and the digestion of an ostrich. It's simply wonderful.

Loveingly,
BETTY.
