Irvington Streetcar Hurls Former Multnomah Official 14 Feet to Curb.

ACCIDENT IS NEAR HOME

Widely-Known Resident Slips on Pavement While Running to Catch Conveyance Conductor and Motorman Grief-Stricken.

William Frazier, 62 years old, who was Sheriff of Multnomah County from 1896 to 1902, was struck and killed almost instantly by an incoming Irvington streetcar at about 8 o'clock last night. The accident occurred in front of his home, 212 East Fifteenth street North, Irvington. A hastily summoned Red Cross ambulance took him only a few blocks toward a hospital, when it was found that he was dead.

Mr. Frazier was standing in front of his house, talking to the driver of an auto delivery wagon whose machine had broken down, when he saw the streetcar coming toward him. He ran to catch it and slipped on the wet pavement, half falling against the side of the car. He was hurled 14 feet toward the curb and sustained a fractured skull, besides minor bruises. The car was stopped and the conductor and motorman called for the ambulance, placing in it the faintly breathing man.

Carmen Grief-Stricken.

When it was found that he was dead the body was taken to the Holman undertaking rooms. So soon as the shock might be broken as gently as possible, the news was kept from Mrs. Frazier until Charles, their only son, could be summoned.

When they helped place Mr. Frazier in the ambulance the crew of the streetcar, Motorman E. F. Lind and Conductor F. A. Dagen, did not know his identity. On a later trip, when they were told who he was, they broke down and asked to be relieved of their car, which on the next trip was turned over to another crew. Why, he rode with me just last night," said Dagen, "and kidnaped with me all the way in. To think that my car would be the one to kill him."

Lodge Affiliations Many. Besides a widow, Mr. Frazier leaves his son, Charles R., who is partner in the Crescent Paper Company, 40 Front street, with Ralph R. Brackett, Charles Frazier lives at East Sixteenth street North. Mr. Frazier was a Scottish Rite Mason, a Shriner of Al Kader Temple, a member of the Woodmen of the World, Commercial Club and Riverside Driving Club.

Mr. Frazier was a native of Scotland, having been born in Strath, Bonshire, February 18, 1851. His father was a ship carpenter and was lost off the coast of England in 1857. The mother, with three little children, emigrated to the United States and settled near Kewanee, Ill. Two years later she died. The elder son moved to the then Territory of Washington where he died some time ago.

William Frazier remained in Illinois for four years and was employed on a farm. At the end of that time he started on an emigrant train for Oregon. They traveled with a train of 100 wagons. Many difficulties and dangers confronted them. The wagons were crowded and they had many narrow escapes. Although but a boy, William Frazier drove a wagon all the way across the plains. On reaching Oregon he settled in the Grand Ronde Valley.

Mr. Frazier stayed with his uncle only a short while. He secured employment in a saw mill near Umatilla Landing. Later he was employed for two years, with a pack train between Umatilla, Boise, Banner and Elgin. He then returned to Umatilla and worked for the outfit. Later he was employed on a farm where the City of Baker now stands.

Came to Portland in 1865. In the fall of 1865 he came to Portland and for two or three years was employed on farms in this vicinity. He then engaged in the logging business for two years, and then turned to himself every opportunity of improving his education and for a year attended the Portland Academy. He made his first appearance in a meat market, becoming a partner in a meat market. Then he contracted for piling work in the lower Willamette docks. This undertaking proved successful.

He turned his attention to the livery business in 1875, establishing in East Portland in partnership with James Powell. Afterwards he purchased his partner's interest and removed to Astoria and Morrison. In 1884 he secured his late location at Fifth and Taylor streets. L. A. Goodard was his partner. The firm erected the present three-story building. The partnership was maintained until 1897, when Mr. Goodard retired. Ellis McLean succeeded him and the firm now is Frazier & McLean. Mr. Frazier was active in the Eastern markets and sold them to loggers and lumbermen. At the time of the Manila campaign he furnished 5000 horses to the Government.

Mr. Frazier's only venture into politics was in 1896, when he was elected Sheriff of Multnomah County. He was re-elected twice. He retired in 1902, having been a capable and efficient official.

Mr. Frazier was married in 1873 to Miss Margaret Long. They have one son, Charles R.

Former Partner Weeps.

L. A. Goodard, Mr. Frazier's former partner, now 82 years old, when told of Frazier's death last night, said: "Is that possible? I saw him three hours ago and he said that he was feeling much better." (Mr. Frazier had been ill a few weeks ago). Then, learning that Mr. Frazier had died a violent death, the venerable man wept and said: "There never was a better fellow, generous and kind-hearted. No matter what you say, it won't be too good for Bill. I knew him 40 years. I went in business with him in 1875, and dissolved partnership in 1898 on account of my age."

CASH VALUE TAX IMPOSED BY COURTS

Regulations for Banking of County Funds Are Asked of Legislature.

AID FOR CHILDREN WANTED

Employment of Timber Cruisers by Counties Upheld by Delegates to Convention of Judges and Commissioners.

Resolutions were adopted at the second day's session of the County Judges and Commissioners of Oregon at the Courthouse yesterday calling upon the various County Assesses of the state and the State Tax Board to enforce the law requiring that property be assessed for taxation purposes at its cash value and urging upon the Legislature the passage of an act providing for the depositing of money of counties in banks and the drawing of interest upon it.

The bill proposed regarding depositing of funds provides for the designation of county depositories by the County Treasurer, with the approval of the County Assessor or directors, and against each other for the privilege of handling the money.

A bill along similar lines has already been introduced at Salem. It was stated. The committee appointed by President Cleaton to visit Salem and confer with the legislators will study this measure and suggest amendments if the grounds are not thoroughly cleared in this committee consists of County Judge E. C. Judd, of Clatsop; County Judge V. P. Moses, of Benton, and County Commissioner W. C. Leever, of Multnomah.

A memorial presented by County Judge G. W. Wagoner, of Douglas, was adopted, requesting the Legislature to be liberal in appropriating for the support of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, Superintendent Gardner, of which, addressed the meeting.

In the detailed figures on the case filed during the month, noteworthy items are 150 families helped with groceries, 125 with shoes and clothing, 126 meals and 127 lodgings given in the employment bureau during the month 78 employment cases were handled, 18 applicants being placed in permanent positions and 69 in temporary positions. The activities of the legal aid department ranged from domestic troubles and wage disputes to more serious matters, such as the collection and trouble with loan sharks. The increase in the number of cases handled by the Associated Charities in December was 21 over that of the preceding month.

County Roads Discussed. H. B. Chapman, road superintendent for Multnomah County, told of his experiences in road construction and gave a few practical suggestions. He stated that the best way to provide state highways is to connect the various county units at county boundary lines. County Judge Worden, of Klamath, endorsed this attitude. He also spoke at some length on road supervision generally.

SCHOOL SURVEY BEGINS

ATTORNEY - GENERAL RULES VOTERS MAY INVESTIGATE.

Decision Holds That $7500 Appropriated Is Valid - Board of Education Offers Co-operation.

At a special meeting of the Board of Education last Tuesday, an opinion of Attorney-General Crawford was read, holding valid the appropriation of $7500 by a resolution passed at the annual meeting of 250 taxpayers, December 27, to conduct a survey of the school system of Portland. At that meeting a committee of five was created whose duty it was to obtain a complete survey of the entire educational system in all its branches in the Portland School District. Experts were to be employed and the whole cost of the investigation was not to exceed the amount appropriated.

W. B. Ayer introduced the resolution so directing the Board. Richard W. Montague, chairman; J. Goldsmith, L. A. Lewis, J. A. Madson and Mrs. Miller. R. Trumbull constituted the committee. George A. Brodie questioned the utility of expending $7500, believing the recommendations would not be of any value. Rev. C. E. Cline said that he thought the investigation was a reflection on members of the Board.

The Board placed the matter before the Attorney-General, who gave the following opinion: Subdivision 9 of section 4052 provides, among other things, as follows: "The school district shall have control of the public schools of their district, and the teachers employed therein."

PLANS ASSOCIATION TO ENLARGE SCOPE

Greater Portland Organization Takes Steps to "Father" Civic League.

LOMBARD INSPIRES MOVE

L. M. Lepper Makes Request That Four Auditorium Sites Be Submitted to Vote of People - Garden Contest Is Reorganized.

An address by Gay Lombard upon city organization, which was in effect a declaration of certain planks in his platform for the Mayoralty, reorganization of the school garden contest, movement, and the placing of it upon a definite footing; a request by L. M. Lepper that four auditorium sites be named and submitted to the people for selection at the April primaries, and endorsement of an act to be submitted to the Legislature entitled "excess condemnation act" were the features at a crowded meeting of the Greater Portland and Plans Association, held in the Journal auditorium last night.

At the opening of the meeting representatives of the East Side Business Men's Club, who had not as yet given up all hope of securing the Auditorium for the East Side. C. A. Bigelow said there was much dissatisfaction not only among East Side people, but among business men as well who lived on the West Side, when it was known that the Market block had been accepted. "We think the Ninth and Market site is better than the Market block and we would rather have it, if the building is not to be erected on the East Side. But on all sides the question is being raised, 'Why not let it be to the people to decide? Let us then choose two sites on each side of the river, one at Grand avenue and Holladay, the other at Hawthorne and Broadway, for the East Side, and the two already mentioned for the West Side, and then let these four be put up to the voice of the populace at the April primaries.'"

Civic League Is Proposed. With this end in view a committee was appointed to confer with other societies and organizations interested in the matter and with the Mayor and Council.

Mr. Lombard's address followed. He strongly advocated, first of all, the education in matters municipal and civic of the general people. He pointed out, he said, a deplorable lack of interest in public matters, and in this connection were behind all those of other cities in America. He advised the people to get together, men and women, culled from every class and representative of every business, every section, every thought in the city, non-partisan and with no thoughts of advancing any one particular portion of the city at the expense of others, but rather working for the city as a whole, a body of people who would get man and wife into it and thought to civic matters.

Mr. Lombard then discussed the possibility of the Greater Portland and Plans Association taking this work up, fathering it and in fact becoming the Civic Improvement Club for Portland, and devoting its time to the plans for the future more than it did at present.

Garden Contest Reorganized. A. F. Lawrence proposed the formation of a committee, with Mr. Lombard as chairman, to investigate the possibilities of this and to consider the change of name. An amendment by Marshall N. Dana to make a new organization taking this work up, fathering it and in fact becoming the Civic Improvement Club for Portland, and devoting its time to the plans for the future more than it did at present.

It teaches a respect for law and enforcement thereof. These open meetings are in line with its desire to teach patriotism."

FARMERS' JUNKET ENDS

Special Train for Irrigation Congress Members Returns to City.

The special excursion of representatives from the Oregon Irrigation Congress returned to Portland last night from their trip to Salem, Corvallis and Eugene and disbanded in this city.

The party, which was composed of 120 members, began its trip Monday. The returned junketers declared that their excursion had brought out the fact that they had enjoyed themselves very much. The man in the party—C. W. Mallette, of Ontario—never woke up before 9 o'clock in the morning, while the remainder of the party broke their usual winter customs by keeping to their berths until late in the forenoon.
