the above towns to make the league.

The rules of the old Tri-City League of Portland, changed to meet conditions here, will form the basis for the rules for this league. This league will meet with approval in the three counties and especially so in McMinnville and Sheridan. The teams will be composed of players from within the three counties in the league.

W. R. Adams, one of McMinnville's players last year, has interviewed per-sonally the representatives from the various towns interested, and reports ceiving enthusiastic support from all aces, Local baseball fans have prom-

All the towns included had strong semi-professional teams last year and would make a splendid circle for a tricounty league. Indications are now tout the league is an assured proposition and the basebail stock in this part of the valley will take a rise early in the Spring. All the towns have good basebail grounds and parks, and the public will be well handled, and having a league of six teams will add to the interest that the public in general have in basebail.
