It was decided that a constitutional convention should be held, but the basis of representation was left to be decided later. The matter is apt to be fought out on the floor of the Senate and House, where the Republicans would have a veloce

With the presentation of their note to the Turkish celegation, the data for which, however, has not yet been fixed, some of the Balkan delegates consider that their mission in London will be ended. Despite this, the diplomats have not given up hope and many still think the Balkan note is another attempt to exercise pressure on Turkey and that the allies really intend to await the answer of the new Turkish Cabinet to the joint note of Europe, a course which the powers always have advised.

Day Lost-Or Gained.

Day Lest—Or Galaed.

"Another day lost," exclaimed those who believe that the only solution is to be found in the resumption of hostilities when the meeting of the delegates of the four allied nations adjourned this afternoon.

"Another day gained," retorted those who believe that peace is to be reached by postponing extreme measures.

The meeting of the allies lasted five hours and the discussion was animated. The delegates reviewed the whole altuation and debated both sides of the question—the resumption of the war and the policy of delay, trusting to time to solve the difficulties. The head of each delegation reported the conversation which he had with Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, and reference was made again to the advice of the Ambassadors to observe prudence and moderation.
