Colt Manager Surrounds Self With ex-Members of San Francisco Club.

OSCAR JONES IS SOUGHT

Pitcher for Time Under Ban of National Association Is Free Agent Since Reinstatement-Mensor Sees Winning Aggregation.

BY JAMES H. CASSELL.

Surrounding himself with a quartet of teammates from the San Francisco club of a few years ago, Nick Williams, Colt manager, hopes to present Portland fandom with a Northwestern League pennant next season. Nick has "Pat" Eastley, twirling holdover from last season, "Kid" Mohler, who has just signed a Colt contract, and Harry Suter, the southness who is expected to swing the southpaw who is expected to swing into line ere long, and yesterday he opened negotiations with Oscar Jones, former Brooklyn and San Francisco slabster.

fermer Brooklyn and San Francisco slabster.

Jones is now a free agent, having been reinstated at the meeting of the National Association last Fall, and is once more on the baseball market. Although a veteran of more than a decade Williams has received such flattering reports of Jones that the Colt leader is anxious to add him to the already large staff of twirlers.

Oscar is now at Lemoore, Call, where he owns an automobile and a ranch. He has been in active training for several months, removing the surplus fat which encumbered his anatomy for several years, and is ready to break into league baseball once more.

The Lemoore rancher and autoist jumped the Seals for Santa Crux of the California Outlaw League in 1908. He later went to Fresmo and then journeyed to Lemoore when the independent organization went the independent organization went the issual route. Jones proved a winner for the semi-pro club of that town, pitching ball on Sundays and running a billiard room during the week. Jones, Williams, Eastley, Mohier and Suter played ball together on the San Francisco club, the four first named the same season. Williams has the utmost respect for the pitching ability of Jones, and is conident that if he can be persuaded to affix his signature to a Celt contract, pennant-winning prospects will be greatly enhanced.

"Jones' chief asset is wonderful control of the ball," says Nick. "Then, with this, he has a splendid baseball head. This control, together with his knowledge of the game, would enable him to win over pitchers who have twice his "stuff," even if he has gone back a good deal. Then, he's a glutton for work, and is good for three games a week. He's just the kind of a man!

When inclement weather forced the abandonment of last Fall's speed programme two days before the scheduled close, grave fears were expressed that Portland might not witness a 1912 meet.
