Washington Measure Re-enters Senate Ring, However, for Reconsideration-Bout.

"LAZY-HUSBAND" ACT WINS

Both Branches at Olympia Steam Up and Pass 15 Proposed Laws. Upper House Chops Out 'Frits' on Militia Legislation.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—A drastic measure legalizing prize fighting, creating a state athletic commission to have control of fight exhibitions and repealing all the anti-prize fight laws in the Washington code, excepting the one prohibiting betting or gambling on fights, was killed in the Senate here today only to arise and enter the ring again apparently with more strength than ever. But for the fact that several of the Senators changed their votes when they saw the bill had been defeated, the measure would have been killed by only a few votes. As it was the vote was 15 to 35 against its passage.

No sooner had the roll been called than notice of reconsideration was given by Senator Metcalf, one of those who opposed and voted against the bill. The action was taken as an indication that an attempt will be made to win over enough votes to put the measure through on another roll call. It is believed that with a few amendments eliminating some of the present objectionable features, the bill will receive the favorable vote of those who opposed it today. If the vote is lined up as it was in today's call only a few members will have to be won over to put it through.

Explanations and Love-Feasting Take Up Morning on Legislation Initiated Without Enacting Clause—Sarcasm Indulged.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—This was a morning of explanation and love-feasting for the people's law in the State Senate. The eight-hour law proposed to have been passed by the people at the last election was up on final passage. Although practically 15,000 voters voted affirmatively in excess of the negative showing, it was discovered that the bill had been passed without an enacting clause and that it was therefore ineffective and invalid. It was introduced in the Senate by

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—House bills today reached the high number of 428. Thursday is the day set by the House for limiting bills, and it is said that many more would be filed before the end of the time limit. Smith of Coos in the identical language of the bill passed by the people.

Explanations Are Many.

Stewart and Wood were the only two voting against the bill, but there was a number of explanations.

Thompson declared that he intended to vote in favor of it and expressed himself as shocked that there should be in the Senate a member who would believe that the people could make a mistake. "I cannot believe for a minute that anyone of the people would err," he said, with a trace of sarcasm in his voice, and voted for the bill. Barrett stated he also would vote in favor of it because the people had passed it, but expressed himself as certain that the provisions of the bill were wrong and that the people would live to rue the day that it was passed.

Stewart in explaining his vote against the bill declared that he did not agree that the people cannot make mistakes and believed that the people, or a large majority of them that voted in favor of it, were laboring under a misapprehension as to its contents.

NIGHT SESSIONS MAY BE HELD TO CLEAR DOCKET OF 428 BILLS.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—House bills today reached the high number of 428. Thursday is the day set by the House for limiting bills, and it is said that many more would be filed before the end of the time limit. It is believed that the House will work all day Saturday this week and that beginning next week, night sessions will be held in an attempt to get through with the tremendous pile of bills.

Senate Postpones House Bill.

STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—The Senate today indefinitely postponed Carpenter's House bill, which would prohibit spitting in public places. The report of the judiciary committee to the effect that the bill would give the courts the right to control this question and the bill was consequently unless met the sanction of the Senate.

Co-operative Stores to Be Aided.
 STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—Co-operative stores will be protected in the use of that name, if a bill by Representative Mitchell becomes law. It was passed by the House this afternoon. Mr. Mitchell said that "a certain firm in Portland has been deceiving the farmers" and declared such deception should cease—that the farmers are entitled to this much protection. There was no opposition.

Salary Increases Advocated.
 STATE CAPITOL, Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—Proposed salary increases are contained in a bill introduced by Farrell today relating to the Justice's Clerk of Multnomah County. The clerk's salary is increased from $1200 to $1800 a year and he is given the power to appoint four deputy clerks at $1200 annually, where it is now $950.

Several petitioners, including several women, have asked that the following bills be passed by the Legislature:
 S. B. 34—Prohibiting the location of saloons near depots.
 S. B. 37—Creating morals court in Multnomah County.
 S. B. 48—Prohibiting sale of soft drinks on fairgrounds.
 S. B. 64—Prohibiting sale of intoxicating liquor into dry territory.
 S. B. 77—Minimum wage bill.
 The following are given as bills which they would support if introduced:
 Widow's pension bill; tobacco law pending bill; an industrial home for girls and appropriations for the University of Oregon.

"MOVE you, Mr. President, that the courtesies of the Senate be extended to Mr. James Hennessey Murphy, of Portland," said Moser.
 "The eyes have it and the sergeant-at-arms will provide a place within the bar for that distinguished Irish patriot," said President Malarkey, who is somewhat Irish himself.

SIDEGLIMTS ON OREGON LEGISLATURE

FROM Friday afternoon until Monday morning things were "going" in certain sections, with reference to three members of the House.

When the House convened Monday three new faces were noticed in the ranks of the stenographers.

Investigation revealed the fact that three of the Representatives in the House had switched stenographers during the week-end adjournment and that their wives had selected the new ones for their husbands.

L. A. McNary, a well-known lawyer of Portland, formerly City Attorney, is visiting the Capitol.

FRANK RIGLER, City Superintendent of Schools in Portland, is at the Capitol on business connected with the school system there.

STRANGE to say, it was raining and the heavens were darkly clouded when Mitchell, of Baker County, introduced his latest "Blue Sky" bill in the House.

"I WISH to withdraw my bill," said Representative Nolte, of Multnomah County, in the House, mentioning the number. "Another bill has been sent in to do the same work."

"I find upon inquiry," replied Speaker McArthur, "that your bill has been recommended to be postponed indefinitely."

"Well, I tried to get it through, but the Governor slipped one over and got in ahead," said Mr. Nolte, amid laughter.

"Mr. Nolte reports the Governor has put him in a hole," said Mr. McArthur, bringing the gavel down with a whack. "Let the business proceed."

REPRESENTATIVE HALL'S bill to prohibit the housing of dynamite and nitro-glycerine near railroad stations struck a rock in committee and blew up. It was recommended for indefinite postponement and, for once, the House sustained said recommendation.

lator had introduced a bill making a general increase in newspaper salaries.

"I BELIEVE that the business of this session should proceed and that each member should talk less," said Representative Howard, in the House, and continued talking.

"May I ask the gentleman a question?" queried Representative Latourette, of Multnomah County.

"Does the gentleman yield to a question?" asked Speaker McArthur.

"I yield," was the reply.

"Well, when are you going to quit talking?" asked Mr. Latourette, and the laugh was on Mr. Howard.

"Well, I do not talk much," replied Mr. Howard.

"And when you do you usually have something to say," was the compliment paid him by the Speaker.

REPRESENTATIVES in the House seem to be very familiar with the Bible. Representative Belland, of Astoria, admitted on the floor during a debate that he had read it once, that he had read it once, and that he had read it through at least once and had heard it read through many times.

D. FENTON, C. H. CAREY, D. W. CAMPBELL, Ralph E. Moody and Drs. J. F. Wilson and K. A. J. Mackenzie, all interested in Representative Anderson's bill relative to railroad hospital service, were among the Capitol visitors yesterday. They are all prominent in railroad circles.

"PAT" MARTHU, Speaker of the House, is a very popular man among the members, as can be seen by any one when the distinguished gavel-wielding passer down the aisles and distributes "fragrant" Havanas along the line to each lawmaker. In fact, the members themselves admit his popularity.

GEORGE M. HYLAND, the "silver-tongued orator, etc." of Portland, is among our midst" at the Capitol.

CITY ATTORNEY GRANT, of Portland, and W. Y. Masters, a Portland lawyer, formerly a member of the City Council there, were at the Capitol yesterday.

"BELIEVING in the principles of religious liberty as set forth in the National Constitution saying 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof,' we the undersigned citizens and voters of the State of Oregon respectfully petition your Honorable Body not to pass any law governing the proper observance of Sunday, or any other religious measure." This petition has been received by the Legislature signed by 299 or 300 residents of Portland.

EDWARD HOBSTETLER, Postmaster at the Dalles, was a Senate visitor yesterday.

J. M. DUNNE, of Portland, was a guest of the Senate yesterday.

"I AM sorry, Dr. Wood, that I can't be with you on this bill," said Senator Butler when the pharmacy code was being discussed. "But such expert physicians and druggists as Moser and Joseph seem to be against you, so I
