HUSBAND AND WIFE WILL TAKE STAND

Mr. and Mrs. Beach Both Will Testify in Denial of Murderous Assault.

PROSECUTION ENDS CASE

Failure to Find Blood Cells on Pocket Knife Is Point for Defense—Experiment Made on Body of Dead Negro.

AIKEN, S. C., Feb. 5.—Frederick O. Beach will take the stand in his own defense when his trial on the charge of assaulting his wife is resumed here tomorrow. This was the plan outlined by the defense at the close of court today.

It also is proposed to have Mrs. Beach follow the accused New Yorker as a witness. Since the assault upon her was committed in the yard of the Beach Winter home here on the night of February 26 last, the story told by Beach and his wife never has varied. Both have maintained that Mrs. Beach was attacked by an unknown negro, when she left the house to give her dogs an airing.

Bloody Knife Saved for Climax.

The state rested its case, which consisted almost entirely of an attack on the plausibility of Beach's story, late today. The introduction of Beach's jeweled pocket knife, upon which one of the state's witnesses claims to have found traces of blood corpuscles, was withheld by the prosecution until the last. It had been anticipated by the defense, which was prepared to meet expert testimony with expert testimony, even to the extent of presenting a witness who had examined the knife and had failed, as he swore, to find any blood cells. Four of the defense's witnesses were examined this afternoon and the testimony of all of them concerned the knife.

Dr. D. Hastings Wyman, Jr., testified at the morning session that he had made a microscopic examination of the knife at the request of Mayor Gates and had found traces of blood. Later, he said, he took the knife to Augusta and submitted it to Dr. C. D. Partridge, professor of microscopics, of the University of Georgia, who, he said, refused to express an opinion as to presence of blood.

Analyst's Opinion Obtained.

Then he went to Columbia, S. C., and obtained a written opinion there from Boykin Mims, an analyst, that there was blood on the knife.

When the prosecutor announced at the opening of the afternoon session that the state had presented its case the defense offered Dr. Partridge as a witness. Dr. Partridge testified that he had examined the knife and had informed Mr. Wyman that there was no blood there. He was making a good witness for the defense until Prosecutor Gunter began cross-evamining him. He seemed to become confused and answered questions only after long hesitation.

"Didn't you refuse to put the result of your examination down in writing?" demanded the prosecutor.

The witness did not answer.

"Didn't you?"

Finally he said he did not wish to make a written report.

Knife Blades Become Issue.

"You were afraid it would fall in the hands of the state, were you not?"

"No, I was unbiased at that time."

"But you have become biased since then, haven't you?"

"No."

Then the prosecutor questioned him about his direct testimony that the knife had no broken blades when he examined it.

"Will you swear that the knife had two blades?"

"No, I do not think I can swear to it."

"But you did just now," prodded the prosecutor. Witness remained silent for a long time.

"I think it's safer to leave out the other blade," he then said.

Expert testimony was given for the defense by Dr. T. F. Oertell, of Augusta, formerly professor of pathology and microscopy at the University of Georgia.

Experiment Made on Body.

Anticipating that the state might contend that one blade of the knife had been broken off by a blow at Mrs. Beach's throat, the defense asked the witness if, in his opinion, it could have been broken in this manner.

Dr. Oertell said he made an experiment on the body of a negro with a similar knife, inflicting such a wound as had been made in Mrs. Beach's neck without damage to the knife.

"So you took a dead negro and tried to break off the knife in his neck?"

"I did."

Mr. Gunter then wanted to know if it would not be possible for a blade to be snapped off if the blow was not "clean."

"It might, but the wound would be a jagged one," replied the witness.

The Beach family physician, Dr. C. D. Hall, testified that after he was called to the Beach home by telephone he found Mrs. Beach suffering from a three-inch wound in her throat, a superficial wound in the left breast and an abrasion on the left ear.

Couple's Demeanor Affectionate.

"Was the attitude of Mr. and Mrs. Beach toward each other one of affection?"

"Yes, Mr. Beach held her hand all the time I was dressing her wounds."

Dr. Hall said he saw Mrs. Beach before she was carried upstairs, and that she told him then she had been attacked by a negro.

The defense's last witness of the day, Dr. B. F. Wyman, who expressed the opinion that a blow at the throat with the Beach penknife could not have broken the blade, whether delivered from front or back, admitted under cross-examination that if the blade struck on the side it might snap off.

SPANIARD CALLS ON POPE

Ambassadorial Relations With Vatican Resumed.

ROME, Feb. 5.—Pormin Calbeton Y. Planchon, the newly appointed Spanish Ambassador to the Vatican, presented his credentials to the Pope today. The Ambassadorial post had been vacant since the Summer of 1910, when the Spanish Ambassador to the Holy See was withdrawn as the result of the strained relations which arose between the Vatican and the government of the late Premier Canalejas.

Senor Calbeton Y. Planchon and the members of the Embassy staff drove to the Vatican in three state coaches and the Ambassador was received by the pontiff in the throne room. The Spanish diplomat delivered a long address to the Pope, and the latter, after replying thereto, retired with the Ambassador to the Pope's private apartments, where the two conversed together.

AMERICAN BRIDE AND FOREIGN NOBLEMAN WHO ARE MARRIED AT PARIS.

MISS STALLO BRIDE

Prince Murat Weds Cincinnati Girl in Paris.

CIVIL RITES PERFORMED

Religious Ceremony Today to Be Quiet Because of Recent Death of Bridegroom's Father—Honeymoon to Be at Algiers.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Miss Helena Stallo, of Cincinnati, today became the bride of Prince Michel Murat. The ceremony, which was the civil marriage, was performed before the Mayor in the presence of relatives and friends.

The religious ceremony will take place tomorrow. It will be quiet on account of the recent death of the bridegroom's father, Prince Louis Murat. At the ceremony today Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador, and Judge Nash Rockwood, of New York, acted as witnesses for the bride and Prince Joachim Murat and Duke de Nouchy signed the register as witnesses for the bridegroom.

Tomorrow's ceremony will be at the Catholic Church of St. Honore D'Eylau and will be followed by lunch at the Stallo residence, at which only members of the two families will be present.

The bride and bridegroom will leave immediately on their honeymoon trip, proceeding by motor car to Marseilles on their way to Algiers, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Prince Murat is the grandson of an American woman. His grandmother was Miss Carolina Frazer, of South Carolina and he has many other American connections.

JAIL DELIVERY FOILED

Idaho Sheriff's Force Makes Prisoner Recover Quickly.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Feb. 5.—(Special.)—Feigning illness with intent to lure Jailer Bob Lewis into a steel cage and overpower him, thus clearing the way for a wholesale jail delivery, Sam Poulos, waiting trial for murderous assault, last night miraculously recovered when he saw the entire Sheriff's force instead of the single jailer enter his cell.

Poulos' real name is believed by Federal immigration officials to be Andrus Kallas, for whose arrest the Greek government has offered $12,000 reward. He is alleged to have murdered six prison guards in his native country and assisted in the escape of many prisoners. Cablegrams have been sent to the Greek government.

FRUIT MEN ARE ARRESTED

methods by which the defendants are said to act in restraint of trade. It is declared that fruits, vegetables, nuts and melons are bought by the defendants in California, Florida, Texas and the West Indian Islands, shipped to Portland and here resold to their patrons.

The goods handled by the indicted men, it is alleged, comprise 90 per cent of the nuts, fruits, vegetables and melons shipped into Portland from the Southern states and islands. These commodities, it is pointed out, should have been handled competitively. Agencies maintained in Portland, it is said, controlled shipments into points in Washington at the same schedule of prices.

One of the complaints is that the defendants refused to permit any wholesale jobber and distributer, not a member of the association, to participate in any pool car shipments and refused the sale or distribution of any such car of produce to or among its members unless consigned to a member of the association. And in addition the complaint alleges the defendants threatened to boycott all outside agents of growers who did not ship to its members.

Conspiracy Is Alleged.

In the same connection it is alleged that the association notified the local agents of outside produce dealers that when a car arrived it must be submitted to its members and if it was not needed it must be shipped to some other market and not sold or delivered to Portland dealers who were not members of the association.

The second count alleges that the association was organized for the purpose of restraining interstate trade, as it was a conspiracy to refuse to allow to exist any wholesale jobber and distributer of produce in Portland unless he was a member of the association and that the qualifications for admission to such membership were so excessive as to be prohibitive.

The only other names mentioned in the indictment are those of Ariss, Campbell & Gault, L. S. Martin, R. F. Hosking Co., James S. Dunbar and Florence Brothers, who are local representatives of the producers of the states importing produce into Oregon and who, it is alleged, were compelled to abide by its rules or it would have been impossible for them to have sold their products in Portland or Oregon.

Commission Men Silent.

The commission men who were indicted were not disposed to discuss the case yesterday, beyond asserting their innocence of any wrongdoing. They did not appear to be at all alarmed over the action of the grand jury in indicting them and believe they will be exonerated, as they declare that all their acts, as an association, can be explained.

Two of the Front-street firms that have been mentioned in connection with the matter as having been forced out of business by the association—the Columbia Fruit & Produce Company and the T. O'Malley Company—were, it is declared, members of the association, and their retirement from business was due to the stress of competition.

The Italian Fruit & Produce Company, which during its existence was known to be a thorn in the side of the produce dealers, was not admitted to membership in the association, it is said, because its members were not considered as wholesalers, but as retailers, the stock in the Italian company being held by peddlers.

The Front-street houses did business with the Italians, however, buying and selling from them as from other firms.

YOUNGSTERS GET EGGS

SETTINGS SENT TO ELEVEN OVER STATE OF OREGON.

School Children Expected to Raise Chickens for Exhibit at Coming Annual Fair.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—Eleven youngsters, scattered throughout the state, will be made happy by the presentation to each of a setting of choice chicken eggs, with which they are expected to raise chickens for exhibit at the coming State Fair.

Out of a great number of children applying, the office of Public Instruction has chosen 21 by lot. To these will be sent the prize eggs donated by four progressive poultry raisers of the state, who are interested in Superintendent Alderman's scheme to start the schoolchildren to raising products off the land. Those who have donated the eggs are Archie McCauley, W. F. Kaplinger, Thomas Walker and George Graves.

The department of the work is in charge of N. C. Maris, of the State Board of Agriculture, field worker for the state and district industrial fairs. The list of winners is as follows:

Archie McCauley egg-drawing contest—Esther Fiechter, Junction City, Or.; Hazel Bursell, Monmouth. (White Wyandottes.)

Winners in Kaplinger contest—Harold Roberts, Salem; Neva Church, Roseburg; Elliott Jones, Milwaukie; Vera Frances Wilhoit, Prineville; Albert Grantz, Salem. (Light Brahmas.)

Winners in Thomas Walker contest—Mable Richards, Salem; Peter Pleyhart, Silverton; Hiltrudus Sullivan, Klamath Falls. (Indian Runner Ducks.)

Winners in Graves contest—Edwin Leckband, Dayton; Valmore Bullis, Black Rock. (White Indian Runner Ducks.)

RECALL HAS NEW FEATURE

Michigan Legislator Proposes Limited Immunity for Judges.

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 5.—If the State Legislature passes the recall bill of Representative Lassner, Democrat, the methods of judicial election in Michigan will be revolutionized.

The bill provides that Circuit and Supreme Court justices of the state shall be chosen at special judicial elections on strictly non-partisan ballots. It is proposed that they hold office for life, unless removed for cause by popular vote.

The recall provisions of the bill provide that the judge shall hold office for two years immune from recall, and if after that period recall proceedings are started and the jurist is exonerated by popular vote no similar proceeding can be started against him until four years have elapsed.

8000 WILL HEAR INAUGURAL SPEECH

Programme for Ceremony to Follow That of Four Years Ago.

OREGON GIRLS MAY RIDE

Washington Report Says Pendleton "Cowgirls" Will Be Feature of Suffrage Pageant at Capital March 3.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The official programme for the inaugural ceremonies was completed today. It follows in detail the plans for the inauguration of Taft and Sherman four years ago.

Platforms across the east front of the Capitol, where President-elect Wilson will take the oath of office and deliver his address, will be built to accommodate 8000 spectators, 2000 more than four years ago.

The Washington Times today prints the following:

"'Cowgirls' from Pendleton, Or., will be a feature of the woman's suffrage pageant to be held here March 3. Western girls are expected to show the women of the East something of the way they do 'on the range.' The news has put new complexion on affairs connected with the cavalry feature of the pageant for up to yesterday not a single application had been received from the West for places in the cavalry divisions. Senator Sutherland, of Utah; Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Senator Bourne, of Oregon, were appealed to, to arouse interest among horse women there."

Wood Names Division Chiefs.

Major-General Leonard Wood, grand marshal of the inaugural parade, appointed today Brigadier-General James E. Stuart, of Chicago, a veteran of the Civil and Spanish Wars, to be marshal of the "Veterans and Patriotic Division," of the parade.

The "Rough Riders" and "Wild West" features that marked the inaugural parade four years ago are to be repeated. The inaugural committee received word that Maricopa County, Arizona, is to charter a special train, on which it will send an Indian band and 200 cowboys to take part in the parade. They are to bring paraphernalia to illustrate events and customs of the old frontier days. The Democratic committee of Maricopa County assured the inaugural committee that the "shooting irons" of the delegation would be left behind.

Applications Come Fast.

Applications for positions in the parade are arriving in such numbers that it will be at least a week or ten days before the committee will be able to announce even the tentative organization of the line. This is especially true of the civic and political organizations.

William J. Bryan today accepted an invitation extended to him by the inaugural committee to come to Washington for the inauguration. The committee plans to appoint a citizens' committee of 20 to meet Mr. Wilson upon his arrival here on March 3, and Mr. Bryan may be a member of this committee. Mr. Bryan wrote the committee that he would do anything in his power to make the inauguration a success.

Colonel Thomas H. Burch, of the New Jersey National Guard and military aide to Governor Wilson, arrived here tonight to look after the personal comfort of the President-elect during the inauguration.

INDIANS' ACTION UNIQUE

Osage Council Demands Law for Punishment of Bribery.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Osage Tribal Council has asked Congress to pass a law making it a penal offense for any person to bribe or attempt to bribe "any member of any Indian tribal council or Indian tribal business committee."

The council's request was in the form of a resolution adopted by the new council, elected two weeks ago to supplant the one dismissed by Secretary Fisher on the ground that it had been under the influence of the Uncle Sam Oil Company, which was trying to secure a lease of Osage oil lands.

"Such action is unique in the history of Indian affairs so far as I know," said Acting Indian Commissioner Abbott today, "and it is most pleasing as an indication of the fact that the Indians themselves want to see punished those who try to bribe any of their number to do wrong."

18 GIRLS BESIEGE MANAGER

"Puss in Boots" Company Members Want Pictures Taken in Tights.

Charles R. Whitwell, a native of Portland, who is managing the "Puss in Boots" company at the Orpheum, is in a peck of trouble. He has 18 girls to manage and now he must put all his diplomacy to use or fall to the zero point in popularity.

It's all on account of a photograph. One of the girls of the "Puss in Boots" company obtained permission from Manager Whitwell last Monday to have her picture taken in tights and Whitwell, as a precautionary measure, advised the miss not to tell her fair companions as he did not want to be besieged with similar requests from the remaining members of the troupe.

The girl declares she "did not tell a soul." However, Whitwell was stormed yesterday by 17 individual lassies, each of whom begged his permission to take her stage costumes to a Portland studio to be photographed in all her extravaganza glory.

"Til let you know tomorrow," was Whitwell's answer to each.

"I'm surely in a fix," said the manager last night in cudgeling his brain for a way out of the predicament.

UTAH KILLS RESOLUTION

Direct Elections Amendment Is Defeated in State Senate.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 5.—A joint Senate resolution ratifying the amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the direct election of United States Senators was killed in the Utah Senate late today. The vote was nine for, seven against and two not voting.

Both the Republican and Democratic Senate platforms at the last election indorsed the amendment. All the Democratic Senators supported the resolution.

Klamath Tax Roll Large.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—"The taxroll this year will add at least $400,000 to the coffers of Klamath County," says Sheriff Low, who, with his force of deputies and clerks, is busily preparing for the commencement of tax collection February 15. Last year the taxes amounted to $360,000. A net gain of $40,000 has been made during the past 12 months.

Aurora Probes Telephone Case.

AURORA, Or., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—The telephone situation here since the big snow storm has caused more agitation than all topics combined. A mass meeting recently held ordered the meeting of a representative committee from all interested communities from Canby to Woodburn and from Molalla to St. Paul, to prepare articles of incorporation for a big company to embrace all the above territory, draft by-laws and investigate the cost.
