A special dispatch received from the Island of Lemnos, in the Aegean Sea, by way of Rome, says the Greek aviator, Mutusis, accompanied by the Greek Captain, Maraitmis, made a daring flight ast night over the straits of the Dar-

The Major thinks that the present fighting will not amount to much and that the war will be soon over. Although his position disqualified him from expressing an opinion as to who would be the victor, he said that his study had shown him that the American Army can learn much from the work that has been done in actual warfare by the armies of the allies.

The cholera scare, he added, had been greatly exaggerated, perhaps by the Turks themselves, in order to frighten the allies from prosecuting their campaign to the environs of Constantinople.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The inaugural parade for President-elect Wilson now promises to be one of the longest and most interesting that has ever passed through Pennsylvania avenue from the Capitol to the White House. The War Department said today that it might use a portion of its appropriation for the Army transportation, which will include the West Point cadets' trip to Washington. The cadets nad believed they would have to pay their own expenses.

For a time today danger of a strike of carpenters who are erecting the parade stands threatened to interrupt work, but the trouble was averted. Employment of nonunion electricians to wire the stands for lighting purposes was the cause of the contention.

President Taft already has made his arrangements to depart from Washington for Augusta, Ga., immediately after the inaugural ceremony has been completed. Mr. Taft will make the ride down the avenue with his successor to the White House and will pass through that structure to the south portico, where he will take a White House automobile for the Union Station.
