Veto on Highway Bill Once Upheld to Be Reconsidered by Olympia House.

"STEAM ROLLER" IS USED

Record of Ballot Overruling Executive on Cheney Normal Appropriation Also Erased-Governor Aroused by Action.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 26 .- (Special.)-Although the opposition in the House of Representatives made its supreme fight today, the Republicans successfully forced through a motion expunging from the records the votes by which the House yesterday sustained Governor Lister's veto of the $1,000,000 read bill and overruled his veto on the Cheney Normal School appropriation bills. The action places the vetoes back before the House as before they were brought up for consideration.

Most unusual "steam roller" tactics and unprecedented parliamentary procedure were used in forcing through the motion. So distinctly new was the operation that Governor Lister refused absolutely to adhere to it, declaring that the vetoes now stand as the House disposed of them yesterday, one against House of Representatives made its su-disposed of them yesterday, one against him and the other for him. The Governor became so aroused over

The Governor became so aroused over the action that after the House ad-journed he prepared a public state-ment in which he declared that the combination in the Legislature is try-ing to make his administration a fail-ure. He said that every move made up to this time, has pointed in that direction despite the fact that he has tried to play fair all the way through. The action of the House came after hours of work on the part of the con-trolling party leaders.

Following the fracas of yesterday, in which the Republican controlling faction declared they were double crossed on the veto proposition, the leaders got busy devising ways and means of setting the veto before the House for reconsideration. Most of the night was passed in getting the forces lined up. The opposition, including part of the Bull Moose delegation and most of the Democrata, knew at the opening of the session this morning that something was going to happen but they did not know from which direction it would come. They had expected an attempt to be made to reconsider the vetoes and take another roll call in which event they would have defeated the cause by standing together. The Republicans would have needed 65 votes, which they could not muster.

Instead of the attack coming as ex-Leaders Plan Through Night.

Instead of the attack coming as expected, a move was made to expunge the records of the day before on the vetoes and Speaker Taylor ruled the motion in order and announced that a majority of the members voting could pass the motion. This set the steam roller in action. Murphine Sounds Warning. The opposition mustered all its strength and fought against the propostrength and fought against the proposition for an hour or more. Personalities flew thick and fast as did veiled charges of hypocrisy, and dishonesty.

Speaker Taylog took the floor in support of the plan.

Representative Tom Murphine, of King, led the opposition. "I realize the futility of trying to stop this wellgreased high-geared steam roller," he said at the conclusion of a fiery speech,
"hut I want to warn you now that you but I want to warn you now th are about to cross the track of public opinion. I warn you to stop, look and listen before proceeding with your action. You are doing something unheard of and you are using wicked means to accomplish your ends. The people will The vote on the motion was 56 to

Following the action Governor Lis-ter issued a statement for the press in which he declared that he refused in which he declared that he refused to adhere to the action of the House declaring that it was unprecedented in parliamentary proceedure and was neither fair, just nor proper.

UNIVERSITY OF Eugene, Feb. 26.—(Special.)— Karl W. Onthank was today re-elected editor of the Oregon Emerald, the tri-weekly student newspaper, by the associated students in their regular meeting. Onthank is registered from Hood River, and is a member of the graduating class of next June. He edited the Oregana, the Junior annual, for his class last year, and was elected edi-tor of the Emerald for the first semester of the present colle-giate year in recognition of his work on that publication. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and the Friars, the upper-class honor society.

Under Onthank's administra-tion the Emerald, according to its critics, has improved in quality and appearance, and the number of issues have been increased from two to three a week. That Onthank's services are satisfactory to the student body is indicated by the fact re-election was unanimous,
