'General' Jones Leads 'Army' to Headquarters Amid Great Demonstration.

HIKERS HAPPY AT FINISH

Word Comes That Message Is to Be Delivered by Marchers to Wilson and All Resentment Promptly Rolls Away.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 .- The suffrage "army" is at Washington, Footsore and weary, "General" Rosalie Jones led her pligrims to the National sur-frage headquartrs amid clamoring throngs which packed the streets, impeded the march of the "army" and tequired a big squad of policemen to force a way through for the pligrims. The demonstration was one of the most remarkable ever seen in Washington, the enthusiasm equalling that which is usually accorded the President of the United States upon his inauguration. Tmult broke out as soon as the little band of brown-clad womas the little band of brown-clad wom-en reached the outskirts of the city and it increased momentarily, over drawing other people to the already large crowd until the throng became so dense that for the last mile the marchers had literally to break through a living wall of humanity at every step.

"Army" Happy at End.

It was a happy "army" which invaded Washington today, although tired. Just as the members were starting on the last day of their historic "hike" from New York City, word reached the pilgrims that there would be no effort on the part of the National Suffrage Association to deprive frem of their honors and to have the officers of the association deliver their measures to Woodand to have the officers of the asso-ciation deliver their message to Wood-row Wilson after he becomes President, "It was all a mistake," was the word which caused resentment to roll away, which put an end to a spirit of insur-gency in the ranks of the "army."

The telegram to "General" Jones as-

The telegram to "General" Jones as-sured her that the suffrage marchers would be permitted to deliver their message, provided an interview could be arranged with President Wilson. That telegram lightened the footsteps of the "hikers" in their last weary miles and made everything right, where a few minutes before all had been Crowd Blocks Way.

The last mile of the pligrimage became a struggle with the crowd with every footstep forward being considered a victory. The densely packed throngs overflowed from the sidewalks into the middle of the streets until it became a question of whether the suffragists wild be able to proceed at all. Here "Goneral" Jones showed her true generalsfip. Mustering her forces, ale ordered them to lock arms and this when they had done it, kept stray members from being enguifed by the crowd and becoming lost from the main hers for the march. Not only was the part of the march. Not only was the street Jammed with people, but there were automobiles, carriages, pranching horses, motorcycles and every sort of vehicle in the streets. The women were forced to take the middle of the street and they were continually just escaping being struck by a chugging auto or by the flying hoofs of a turbuleith horse.

"General" Jones made one speech in the course of the last iap. This required so much effort to be heard above the din that it was not attempted and the treasury was reached, so When the treasury was reached, so week after the manufacture of the market of the mar porary restraining order recently issued by him.

The corporation, through its manager. H. C. Coffman, entered suit as a taxpayer to restrain the defendants from entering into a proposed contract with W. H. Mitchell for the construction of a gravity water system and from the issuance of certain proposed bonds therefor. The opinion in effect says that the city has no rgilit to issue $70.000 general city bonds and $115,000 special water bonds as was done through an election, the combined proceeds thereof to be devoted to the construction of the new plant, that the law does not allow a body to resort to two bond plans in the same enterprise.

Judge Wright holds that the city may contract to lay for the improvement by special bonds, but cannot by general bonds, which latter can only be sold in open market and the proceeds applied to construction. He also states in his opinion that provisions of the ordinance as regards the two separate and distinct funds are illegal.
