BORDER GUARD INCREASED

Entire Force of Ninth Cavalry and Machine Gun Platoon Patroling Line in Order to Put End to All Skirmishing.

DOUGLAS, Ariz. March 3 .- As a pre cautionary means of preventing a repe tition of the skirmish Sunday between American and Mexican troops, Colone Guilfoyle has nearly the whole force of the Ninth Cavalry on border patrol duty tonight. He even sent a machine gun platoon to the international line.

There was some riring near the line late today, caused by an attempt of the negro troopers to intercept what Mexican troops crossing the line. It proved to be a party of Mexicans gathering firewood with pack animals. No was wounded. Report Sent to Capital.

Report Sent to Capital.

Colonel Guilfoyle sent today to Washington a report supplementary to that of the battle of yesterday. It is said that the report contains a copy of a message which was found in the possession of the messenger arrested Saturday, from the Maderista Junta, in which there was a plan outlined for a union of the rebels on the Mexican side with those on the American side. It is said the plot was to attack Douglas and Agua Prieta at the same time. The message is said to have contained violent anti-American statements.

General Ojeda, commander of the Mexican Federal troops at Agua Prieta,

"All there is to the affair is that 15 Maderistas tried to cross the line yesterday morning at 5 o'clock when the negro troops tried to arrest them. They fired and the negroes fled. At 7:30 A.M., I started 150 federals to Naco. The road they had to travel goes close to the border line. When they reached the place where the shots were fired in the morning, the negro troops opened fire on them. My men retreated a short distance and returned the fire as long as the negroes fired. My troops did not fire first." 'All there is to the affair is that 15

SOLONS OF ALASKA BRAVE COLD; MEET

First Territorial Legislature Opens Sessions in Elks' Lodge Hall.

NEW ERA BORN IN NORTH

With 24 Members, Formative Stage of Period of Self-Government Is Marked, All Reaching Juneau in Sub-Zero Weather.

JUNEAU, Alaska, March 3.— (Special.)—Marking the beginning of a new era for Alaska, the formative stage of the period of self-government, the 24 members of the first Alaskan Territorial Legislature met here today in the Elks' Hall.

Thousands of miles were traveled by members of this assembly, which is the beginning of lawmaking on the last frontier. From Nome, 2000 miles away; from Iditarod, 1600 miles, and from other points in the interior equally remote, the Senators and Representatives came, braving snew and snow-laden winds, fighting their way in sub-zero weather along trails of wind-packed snow.

clerk. The House caucus had chosen Representative E. B. Collins as speaker. A flood of bills to enact all sorts of legislation, as well as many petitions to Congress, are to be presented by the ambitious solons. Among the most important and hardest to handle will be the eight-hour law. Other measures the eight-hour law. Other measures that will be presented include one to regulate Alaska banks to protect the depositors; amendment of codes to conform to modern practices; a modern corporation receivership act; territorial probate law; board of health for the control of sanitation and quarantine; care of indigent sick and statistics; a law permitting service on foreign cor reply from Senator Chamberlain:

"State Department advises that Turner is in no danger in Mexico City. He has been ordered deported. The department here is in touch with the Mexican authorities on the subject and has every assurance that there is no danger."

About three years ago, while Diazwas still in control in Mexico, a number of articles strongly condemning his administration were written by Turner for American magazines. The return of Felix Diaz nephew of the deposed President, to power led to anxiety for Turner's welfare.

law permitting service on foreign corporations doing business in Alaska when application is made to the Section. There will also be a cannery inspection, law and a lien law to protect workmen colecting pay. Contrary to the prevailing notion that the act of Congress creating the Legislature so restricts its powers that the members will have nothing to do but draw their pay, the measure treats Alaska better than any of the Government's former territories.

Introduced in the House of Representatives by Delegate James Wickersham, of Fairbanks, the enabling act was approved on August 24, 1912, after passing Congress. It extends the Con-sitution and laws of the United States to Alaska, but withholds from the Leg-to Alaska, but withholds from the Legislature all power to alter, amend, modify or repeal laws relating to the customs, internal revenue or postal departments, or extending or amending the laws relative to the hunting and taking of game, fish, fur, seal and furbearing animals in the territory.

It prohibits the Legislature from creating any debt or issuing any sort of notes or bonds. Other than in this particular the powers of the Alaska Legislature are liberal. It cannot create a county form of government without special leave of Congress. It can permit the organization of corporations for general business purposes, but such corporations as it does permit must do their principal business in Alaska, so that the territory cannot foster the incorporation of trusts, as most of the older territories could and, in many instances, did.

ing murder in the dynamiting of the Times building, according to District Attorney Fredericks, who was the star witness in the Darrow trial today.

Darrow himself, on trial for alleged jury bribery, played a unique double role in today's proceedings. At the forenoon session he was a witness under cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Ford; later he turned cross-examiner, with his chief accuser, District Attorney Fredericks, as witness. His grilling of the prosecutor furnished one of the snapplest features of the trial, because of the interchange of words between defendant-counsel and prosecutors witness, and the frederick and prosecutors witness. The latest States he said had available to the prosecutor witness and the frederick and prosecutors witness.

Grants Pass received notification that it was not permitted to interfere with the rullings of the State Railroad Commission-when it had fixed rates under the utility act.

The California & Oregon Power Company had been supplying that city with power and illumination at a rate that the Council determined was too high. An ordinance reducing the rates was passed, notwithstanding the Commission's schedule.

In his decision Judge Bean held the State Board has unquestioned authority in the matter, and that its rates should be operative until the City of Grants Pass could have them changed by that body.

Senator Fall Sees Plenty of Excuse for Intervention.

WASHINGTON, March 3 .- An attack on the policy pursued by the United States in patrolling the Mexican border during the Mexican revolutions was made in the Senate today by Senator special investigating committee that has conducted a recent investigation into border conditions.

Senator Fall declared that the committee, in its investigation along the border from San Diego, Cal., to New Orleans, had come in contact frequently with cases where the armed forces of the United States had been used to arrest American citizens on American soil.

"The American troops have been used to oppress American citizens in their oppositions and the complex and solutions of the complex and solutions of the complex and solutions of the canadian boundary line, but at White Rock he was stopped and shown orders for his deportation from the Canadian immigration officers at Ottawa.
