

WEDDING IS NOTABLE

Guy R. Porter Marries Miss Clara Louise Fleishman.

75 GUESTS ARE PRESENT

Following Wedding Supper Couple Leave on Honeymoon Tour for Honolulu and California—Mapleton to Be Home.

Beautiful in every appointment was the wedding of Miss Clara Louise Fleishman and Guy Robert Porter, which took place last night at the J. G. Fleishman residence in Hazzock street. The rooms were decorated with Easter lilies and in the bay window an improvised altar of lilies and smilax was arranged for the ceremony. The service was read by the Rev. Henry Marcotte in the presence of about 75 relatives and friends.

The bride wore a robe of creamy white tulle with elaborate lace. Her wedding veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses. A diamond star pin, the gift of the bridegroom, was the principal ornament of the bride. Samuel Fleishman was best man and the bride was unattended.

Mrs. J. G. Fleishman, mother of the bride, wore a white brocade satin trimmed with hand-made lace. Mrs. Andrew Porter, the bridegroom's mother, wore a gown of golden champagne with heavy lace trimming.

The young couple were the recipients of a large number of presents, among which were several Oriental rugs, a chest of silver and numerous paintings and pieces of cut glass.

After a wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Porter left for their honeymoon tour, which includes a trip to Honolulu and a visit to California. On their return they will make their home in Mapleton.

In compliment to Mrs. Raymond Holman, who recently came to Portland to make her home, Mrs. A. L. Pease and Mrs. G. Norman Pease entertained yesterday at a luncheon. A score of the younger matrons of smart society were asked to meet the honored guest. Mrs. Holman formerly lived in Palo Alto, Cal., and will be in the city for a few months at Rainier. She has several friends in Portland and will prove a charming acquisition to local society.

Miss Helen Farrell, the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Farrell, was hostess recently at a theater party at the Empress. Her guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Pease, Vancouver, B. C., and Miss Frances Houch. A tea at one of the larger hotels followed the afternoon's diversion.

Miss Eva North, who has been feted by the younger set during the last few weeks, will leave in a fortnight for Vancouver, B. C., where she will be the guest of her uncle and aunt, Captain and Mrs. Wellesley Davison.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Scott and Miss Adele Scott, of Oakland, Cal., have been at the Oregon Hotel for a few days and are planning a short visit to Seattle. On their return to California they will stop for a short time in Portland and Mrs. Scott will be entertained at a tea which Mrs. Edward Hall Dodge is planning in her honor. Mrs. Dodge formerly lived in Oakland where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Layman, are socially prominent.

Miss Helen Drain, a popular member of the younger set of Tacoma, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Herbert Garr Reed.

Clubwomen of Portland and those who have been active in the investigations regarding the wages of working girls, carried on by the Consumers' League, will be interested to know that Mrs. Russell J. Waters, the secretary of the National Federation of Women's Clubs and former president of the California Federation, approves the investigation and says that a similar probe in California would be beneficial. She has suggested that the clubs all look into the matter and try to help raise the wage of the working girl.

Plans for Shamrock day, next Monday, are all complete and the charity workers are preparing to reap a harvest of dime and dollars for the benefit of St. Mary's Orphan Home and St. Agnes Baby Home. A large number of helpers, beside those already announced, the following will be among those assisting in the cause: St. Mary's Parish, Mrs. Frank Wascher and Mrs. Noonan, chairmen; Miss Mary Donaher, Miss Katherine Donaher, Miss Irene Kirby, Miss Frances Kirby, Miss Edna Gilmore, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Miss Agnes Sullivan, Miss Mary Sullivan, Miss Mary Hoffman, Miss Julia Blane, Miss Florence Corbett, Miss Clara Corbett, Miss Frances McCarthy, Miss Marie Chambliss, Miss Edith Johnson, Miss Williams, Miss Annie Sullivan, Miss Rose Corbett, Miss Helen Kirby, Miss Katherine Maron, Miss May O'Brien, Miss Katherine Rose, Miss Bernice Amoro, Mrs. Schurter, Mrs. W. H. Bailey and Mrs. William Lillis, chairmen; Mrs. E. McEntee, Mrs. C. T. Smith, Mrs. R. Ellinger, Miss Gilberta Anderson, Miss Louise Anderson, Miss Catherine Dresser, Miss Agnes Wascher, Miss Agnes Houck, Miss Frances Houck, Miss Josephine Althoff, Miss Vera Battie, Miss Mary Schurter, Miss Mary Walsh, Miss Sarah Morat, Miss Agatha Kelly, Miss Nellie Glenon, Miss Margaret Daly, Miss Minnie Loggia, Miss Katherine Kelly, Miss Lucile Brown, Miss Irene Manning, Miss Tessie Manning, Miss Marie O'Hare, Miss Edna Kelly, Miss Tessie Martin, Miss Letitia Mackin, Miss Alice Burke, Miss Katherine Gavin, Miss Mildred Gravelle, Miss Cecilia Shanahan, Miss Mildred Miller.

INVALID CHARGES CRUELTY

George Drew Faces Trial on Accusation of Helpless Wife.

Back of the arrest of George D. Drew, at the Helix Hotel, Tuesday night, on a charge of disorderly conduct, is a story of marital tragedy, partly disclosed by investigations made by the Department of Public Safety for Young Women. Around an invalid girl, 22 years old and twice married, centers the story. She is the wife of the defendant.

Mrs. Drew is confined to an invalid chair by a malady which has rendered her lower limbs useless. Several years ago she married a young man and lived with him in a Portland hotel. Drew was a lodger at the same place and paid much attention to her, causing a separation.

That he has been brutal to her is the charge made by Mrs. Drew, who recites numerous instances, the latest being of dinner and supper for her when the proprietor of the hotel complained to the police. In Municipal Court yesterday Drew was released on his recognizance and will have a trial today.

S. T. JOHNS, Or., March 12.—(Special.)—Ben Johnson, who was arrested for representing himself to be more than 21 years of age and buying beer in Lindon, was brought before Justice Williams today for a hearing. His mother came into court and swore Ben was past 21 and the case was dismissed. A brother of Ben said that Ben was only 19. The mother said he was born in September and the father said his birthday was in November, while Ben swore he knew he was of age but did not know the date of his own birth. The school census of February, 1908, gives Ben's age as 19 years, and the September, 1908, census gives it as 18.

SCHOOL REFORMS CITED

GRAND RAPIDS MAN TELLS OF THINGS ACCOMPLISHED.

President of Board of Education Says Practical Trades Are Taught to Children.

"There is too much so-called culture and not enough bread and butter in the public schools today," says Mark Norris, president of the Board of Education at Grand Rapids, Mich., who is in Portland on business.

Back in Grand Rapids they have cut out a whole lot of the cultural stuff and substituted some utilitarian ideas. They have a system of vocational education for those boys and girls who have to make livings for themselves after they leave school—and that includes a large percentage of the school population—and open air class rooms for the physically deficient.

Tonight Mr. Norris, who has been one of the leaders in instituting these reforms, will tell members of the Collegiate Alumnae Association how they were accomplished. His talk will be informal and will take place in the Public Library building on Stark street.

Mr. Norris is a lawyer and a business man. He and his associate members of the School Board have instituted business methods into school affairs in Grand Rapids. Before they took charge the schools were run by politicians.

About the first thing the new board tried to do was to employ a man for superintendent who didn't know anything about politics. Then they divorced the superintendency from the business management and hired a business man to conduct the business. The first year they saved the taxpayers $45,000 and Grand Rapids is a city only about half as big as Portland.

"The first thing we did was to weed out a lot of pensioners on the teachers' payroll," said Mr. Norris. "Under the old system we elected two school directors from each ward every year. Each director was given the appointment of a certain number of teachers. They hired all their relatives and friends without considering their qualifications."

"We at once put the teachers on a civil service basis and ceased asking what their political or religious affiliations were."

"Grand Rapids is a factory town. We recognized that most of our children were quitting school at a comparatively tender age and going into the factories. So we set out to meet those conditions. We arranged with the owners of several factories to allow the boys to continue their education on factory time on a basis of our teaching them the things that they are required to know to do their work. The scheme is working successfully."

Samuel Hill to Be Honored for Work in Behalf of Good Roads.

Tables in the crystal dining-room of the Oregon Hotel will be crowded by 200 or more of the friends of Samuel Hill, who will do him honor tonight for the work he has done for the cause of good roads in Oregon and the Northwest.

K. A. J. Mackenzie, chairman of the committee, fears that not all of the invitations that were sent out will reach their destinations before today. For that reason it has been arranged that those who receive invitations to attend the banquet may telephone their acceptance either to Mr. Mackenzie or to J. L. Meier, of Meier & Frank.
