DEMURRER IS OVERULED.—Circuit Judge Kavanaugh has overruled a demurrer to the indictment against C. B. Somerville, A. J. Court, J. H. Wheeler and others charging them with setting up a fake Masonic lodge under a name closely akin to that of the genuine. The defendants contended that the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, which they are charged with having wronged, is not a public institution but a secret organization and that it possessed no powers such as would prevent the setting up of another organization under a somewhat similar name. Another contention was that the statute under which the indictment was issued is unconstitutional, being class legislation. They declared that it violated practically all the rights conferred on private individuals by the Federal and state Constitutions. Deputy District Attorney Hammersley argued the demurrer for the state.

COMMITTEES WORKING FOR CARLINE.—Committees from the Halcyon Street Improvement Association are making a special effort this week to raise funds for the construction of the proposed street railway extension from Sandy boulevard on Halcyon street and the Barr road to East Eighty-second street. Much encouragement is being received and according to reports from some of the committees the outlook for securing the sum required is excellent. For the past two weeks these committees have been working day and night collecting subscriptions and securing more. There will be a meeting of the club Saturday night at Melville's hall, East Eighty-second and Halcyon streets, when reports from all committees will be received. The entire community is anxious to secure this streetcar line as soon as it can be built.

Lowry, secretary; Mrs. C. G. Field, treasurer. The club is on a campaign to clean up that district and will offer prizes for the best kept lawns. Mr. Joy will talk on street improvements and other matters of interest to the people there.

FILL WORK SOON STARTED.—The Pacific Bridge Company is preparing to fill up the ravine along between Belmont and East Taylor, East Ninth and East Tenth streets, where the company recently bought several blocks. For a railroad to the ravine the company is cutting through granite across the ravine for the track. The fill will be made with material from the bottom of the river and will be hauled in dump cars. It will require several months to complete the work as the fill will average 25 feet deep, and will make several blocks of new ground, besides open a new street.

WARRANTS FOR ARREST.—Circuit Judge Morrow issued yesterday a commitment to the penitentiary in the case of W. H. Whiteaker, whose conviction on a charge of swindling Emma Smith and Mary J. Cole in an oil deal was affirmed by the Supreme Court recently. The commitment and a certified copy of the mandate were placed in the hands of Sheriff Wood at his authority for arresting Whiteaker and taking him to Salem, which probably will be done today. Judge Morrow also regarded the appeal of Attorney Sam White for a parole for his client.

The estate consists of $3000 in cash and other personal property of the value of $500. The will was executed January 25, 1912, and Rev. Father Hugh McDewitt is named as executor.

MALARKEY LAW INVOKED. COUNCIL COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS NEW LINE. Chairman Joy, Declaring Belief in Company's Desire to Be Fair, Warns Against Radicalism.

The first attempt on the part of the City Council to enforce the power granted the city under the Malarkey act, to require the streetcar company to build "cross town" car lines, was made yesterday when the special Council streetcar committee adopted an ordinance to require the extension of a line along Thirty-ninth street on the East Side.

The ordinance was drafted by East Side commercial organizations and checked over by City Attorney Grant. It provides that the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company shall build the line as soon as practical for use of passengers tomorrow. The law as construed now gives the city the power to demand reasonable extensions.
