

SULZER CALLS ON SENATOR TO RESIGN

New York Legislator, Accused by Bank Note Company, Demands Inquiry.

SENATE CLERK REMOVED

Scandal Grows Out of Legislation Designed to Reform Stock Exchanges—Bills Reported Under Threats.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1.—Accused of attempted extortion by George H. Kendall, president of the New York Banknote Company, Senator Stillwell, of New York, refused today to resign at the suggestion of Governor Sulzer. He demanded a thorough investigation of charges made against him. The Senate ordered an inquiry.

Senator Stillwell, who is chairman of the codes committee, introduced, among other stock exchange reform measures, a bill designed to relieve the New York Banknote Company from alleged discrimination on the part of the New York Stock Exchange, which, it is asserted, has refused to list securities engraved and printed by the New York Banknote Company.

In a telegram to Governor Sulzer, Kendall alleges that Senator Stillwell charged him $250 for drafting the bill. That the Senator demanded $500 each for four members of the Senate codes committee to report the bill out of committee, and that a further demand of $1500 was made to influence the assembly codes committee to report the measure.

Resignation Is Refused. Kendall said he declined to comply and notified the Senator that unless the bill was reported he would telegraph the situation to the Governor and every member of the Legislature. The Senate bill was reported March 27 and the assembly bill was reported about the same time and now is on the order of final passage in the House.

Senator Stillwell declared "the entire story was so false and so absurd that it is scarcely worth replying to." Governor Sulzer received the telegram from Mr. Kendall last night. The Governor conferred with the president of the banknote company today and later called Lewis on to the executive chamber and suggested that he resign. Stillwell refused.

Committee Clerk Removed. Kendall charged that he was introduced by Senator Stillwell to Samuel Lewis, Jr., of New York, clerk of the revision committee, to whom he was asked to send the check for $250 for drafting the bill. Kendall alleges Stillwell divided the check with Lewis. Lewis was asked to resign today by Patrick F. McCabe, clerk of the Senate. He refused and was removed, according to Mr. McCabe. Lewis consented that as a lawyer he had a right to draft the bill and charge $250 for his services. He denied sharing the money with Senator Stillwell.

Governor Sulzer made public the Kendall telegram today. "I offer you evidence that Stillwell, the man you sent to draw my stock exchange bill, charged me $250 for drafting it. He introduced me to Senate Revision Clerk Lewis and asked me to send a check for that amount to him, and they divided the proceeds of the check. I offer you evidence that Stillwell wrote me, March 21, to come to his office next day and receive $250 each for four Senate committeemen to report the bill out of committee."

"I said that would do no good unless the assembly committee reported it, and he said he would carry the bill next day and send me a wire so that I would understand how much it would cost. I offer you evidence of the amount—namely, $1500—in his telegram."

Bill Reported Under Threats. "I declined his proposition. He called me up next day and told me there was nothing doing unless I paid $2500 in advance. I replied I would telegraph the whole matter to you and every legislator unless he reported the bill out in 24 hours. He did it. Under the same penalty I demanded of him that my bill be reported out of the assembly committee immediately, and it was done in 48 hours."

"I think I ought to let you know anyway. If you want some undependable hearsay evidence of the stock exchange using a large amount of money to defeat the incorporation bill, I am willing to tell you what Stillwell told me. No newspaper has anything of this."

Late this afternoon Senator Stillwell was called to the executive chamber and confronted by Mr. Kendall. The Governor suggested that he "would better go upstairs and resign."

PROMISES MAY BE PROBED. Legislator Would Investigate Sulzer's Pre-election Guarantees.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1.—Governor Sulzer's alleged pre-election promises may be investigated by the Legislature. Republican Leader Brown introduced today in the Senate a resolution requesting the Senate Judiciary committee to "determine what, if any, action should be taken" in relation to a published letter in which the Governor was quoted as having promised that, if elected, he would "sign the full crew bill and 'aid in securing its passage.'"

The resolution was referred to the Judiciary committee. Earlier in the day Governor Sulzer had denied having made such a promise.

The letter which was responsible for the resolution is credited to John Fitzgibbon, a legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. It is a communication dated November 2, 1912, and directed to "the officers and members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of New York State." Mr. Fitzgibbon is credited with having written that, in addition to promising to sign the full crew bill and aid in its passage, the Governor had said: "I would come out openly for the bill, but if I did the railroads would spend a barrel of money to defeat it."

In introducing his resolution Minority Leader Brown said: "I don't want to attempt to prejudice anybody. All I want is the facts. But the publication of the letter, purported to have been written by Fitzgibbon, coupled with the fact that the Governor signed on Saturday the bill which will take about $2,000,000 annually out of the treasuries of the railroads and put it in the pockets of a certain class of workers, and the fact that the Governor is alleged to have promised to sign the bill if elected, strikes me as proper subjects for inquiry by the Senate Judiciary committee."

CHINA BEFORE CABINET

EARLY RECOGNITION OF REPUBLIC PROBABLE.

President Seeking Young Man of Progressive Type to Go to Philippines and Make Report.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Recognition of the Chinese Republic and the Philippine question came prominently before the Cabinet today. There is every likelihood that the United States will be the first of the powers to recognize the Chinese Republic.

The name of Joseph P. Davies, of Wisconsin, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, was suggested as Governor-General of the islands. The President wants to send a young man of progressive type to the Philippines who will give him an accurate survey of conditions in the islands. His long friendship for Mr. Davies is said to have prompted friends to mention the latter for the place. In the absence of the Secretary of War, no decision was reached.

The President received a large memorandum today, signed by Professor Edward T. Devine, of Columbia University, and some of the most prominent social workers in the country, urging that social legislation be enacted at the coming session.

The President received many distinguished visitors at the White House. Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, was received in the green room and chatted for a few minutes with the President. The Siamese Minister presented Mr. Westergaard, adviser to the Siamese government. American and Canadian International Joint Boundary Commission members paid their respects. In the party were Thomas Casgrain, Henry A. Powell and Charles A. Magrath, of Canada, and James Tawney, Frank S. Streator and George Turner, the American members.

When I took an inventory, all I had was a somewhat tarnished reputation as a lawyer—a profession that I had abandoned 30 years ago—but at the suggestion of President Hadley it was decided that what little law I have left might be put into practice here, and I am here again to become an active Yale man.

Ambition to Help Young Men. "Men of Yale, as I hear your cheers and songs, I feel young again—as if I have had some of my years. All this may seem egotistical to you, but I come here tonight to help the young men who are going out into the Nation."

"I want to help preserve that part of the Nation that is worth preserving and without which the Nation cannot exist. If I can do this, I shall thank God for the opportunity."

"I am here to work in the ranks with you, and to aid the president of the college, who is now away from you, but who soon is coming back in improved health. I propose a cheer for Arthur Hadley."

A long Yale cheer was given with a will and another for Taft. Then came an impressive song of "Bright College Years," Yale's song of songs, with the assemblage standing with bared heads. Mr. Taft joined in the singing and waved his hat in unison with the students with the concluding words: "For God, for country and for Yale!"

Mr. and Mrs. Taft later went to the hotel, where they are to make their home temporarily.

MORGAN ON GUARD AGAINST FRAUDS

Financier's Method in Making Art Collections Described by German.

PAYMENTS LONG DEFERRED

Dr. Bode, of Berlin, Ranks Collections With Those of Greatest Museums of Europe—Death Before 1914 Expected.

BERLIN, April 1.—Dr. Wilhelm Bode, general director of the Royal Museum of Prussia, in an article published here today, says that the late J. P. Morgan expected his death and urged him in 1912 to pay a visit to New York in 1914 for the opening of the new wing of the Metropolitan Museum, saying that he himself would not live to be present.

"Mr. Morgan," says Dr. Bode, "was a great collector of a highly original type, but he was not an expert. He realized this, although he was unwilling to admit it, with the result that he was rarely deceived, as he chose his agents and advisers well."

"He habitually deferred payment for several months in case fraud should develop in his transactions. Dealers had such wholesale fear of losing a good customer that they did not dare to pass off fraudulent or inferior articles on him, although this might have been easy."

"Mr. Morgan was responsible for threefold or fourfold increase in the price of art objects, but also at the same time for awakening of enthusiasm in America for art collecting."

Dr. Bode ranks the collection of Mr. Morgan with those of the greatest museums of Europe.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The services of the late J. P. Morgan at the Metropolitan Museum of Art are lauded and $750,000 for the collection to the museum acknowledged in resolutions of regret of his death, adopted today by the trustees. He is referred to as one of some rich and valued gift and munificent benefactors. For many years, the resolutions say, hardly a meeting of the trustees took place at which some rich and valued gift from him to the museum was not announced.

"His accession to the presidency (in 1904) marked the beginning of a new era in the Museum's growth and prosperity," the resolutions continue. "Gifts and legacies have been strengthened by his presence and his constant liberality, while his efforts in behalf of the Museum have placed it in a position where its future among the great art institutions of the world is assured."

In line with a recently announced intention, the corporate stocks budget committee of the city board of estimate unanimously decided today to set aside $750,000 for the proposed south double wing of the museum intended to have the famous Morgan collections of art objects, valued at $60,000,000. Quantities of art treasure which Morgan caused to be sent here from Europe not long ago have been stored away in the basement of the building awaiting a suitable place for their display.

Lots of young fellows who insist on "just the latest curve" in clothes think that the only way to get what they want is to pay absurdly high prices to get them made-to-measure.

It isn't the only way; it isn't even the best way. Even where economy isn't a consideration, these young men would do better to buy our $25 suits; they'll find at $25, ready, more style, better quality, tailored-to-fit, than they expect, or get, by paying $10 or $15 or $20 more, made-to-measure.

If you feel that $18 or $20 is enough for your pocket-book to pay, you'll find our clothes at those prices. You may want to pay $35 or $40; we make them.

The best way to prove this is to try it; that doesn't cost anything. Our guarantee is back of our statements, as well as our clothes.

INSURANCE THREAT MADE

Missouri Representatives Advise Suspension of State Business.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Representatives of fire insurance companies doing business in Missouri met here today and recommended a suspension of their business in that state until the legal basis of their operations can be determined.

The fire insurance men asserted that the repeal of the Oliver state rating law by the Missouri Legislature and the passage of an amendment to the anti-trust law relating to fire insurance has rendered the status of the business uncertain in Missouri.

The Attorney-General of Missouri has announced that unless the fire insurance companies reduce their rates at once in accordance with the law he would begin criminal proceedings against them.

LIFELONG PORTLAND CITIZEN MADE PERSONAL TEST AND RECOMMENDS IT

George Cully Tried Plant Juice, the New Vegetable Remedy, and Is Now Praising It to All His Many Friends.

One of the old-time citizens of Portland is Mr. George Cully, who resides at 774 Albina avenue; he has lived in this city 41 years, this being his age, and while in The Owl Drug Company store the other day he talked as follows to the Plant Juice man there: "I have suffered almost all my life with liver trouble and sick headaches. This condition annoyed me a great deal and always seemed to get worse in the Spring. I have tried a great many things for it, but never got much relief. Recently I became interested in what the papers had to say about Plant Juice and got my first dose at The Owl; this dose seemed to do me good, so I returned and bought a bottle. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling much improved in health. I get up in the morning feeling rested, my appetite is good and my food seems to agree with me. I am glad to recommend this remedy to anyone who suffers as I did."

Plant Juice is new, it is a vegetable remedy made from the juices of medicinal plants and its effects on the human organism are truly wonderful. No matter if your ailments are of long standing or how many other things you may have tried or how discouraged you may feel, try a bottle of Plant Juice. It helps when all others fail.

If you suffer from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, gas or bloating after meals, sour stomach, coated tongue, headaches, dizzy spells, spots before the eyes, have no appetite, do not sleep well and get up in the morning tired, just get a bottle of Plant Juice and watch the results; you will be surprised and pleased. The Plant Juice man is at The Owl Drug Company store, get a bottle from him and if it does not help you he will give you money back.

For the past ten years he has been a most efficient member of the Street-Cleaning Department. He says he can recommend Plant Juice to anybody, Solely as a mark of consideration for our employees and believing that their services each week justifies our granting same, we announce that, beginning next Sunday, April 6, our store will remain closed on Sunday afternoons between the hours of 1 P. M. and 6 P. M.

By adopting and thereby inaugurating this plan of Sunday-afternoon closing in Portland, all "Owl" employees will receive, in addition to their full day off each week, an additional half day, thereby giving them more time for rest and recreation than is generally enjoyed by most store employees. We believe the people of Portland will heartily indorse our plan.
