

COLTS ROUT BACKS IN TEN-THIRTY GAME

Chris Mahoney Makes His Fourth Hit in Tenth and Drives Mohler Home.

YOUNG PITCHERS BRILLIANT

American Giants Field Sensationally but They Are Unable to Hit Callahan and Fitchner at Times When Needed.

BY ROSCOE PAWCEY.

One thousand darkies chuckled delightedly for one hour and 54 minutes yesterday at Recreation Park. Then 3000 Caucasians turned on them and gave them the real equine struggle, for the Portland Colts had realized more the "colored" savants, namely the American Giants (negroes), of Chicago, in the 10th inning of a highly sensational ante-season exhibition.

The score after the 55th minute stood 2 to 1, Chris Mahoney driving Kid Mohler across the plate for the winning run with a screaming double to left, his fourth consecutive safe seat of the rainy afternoon. It was before that Mohler had nipped the buff spit-baller, Johnson, for a single to center-field, but two were out when Mahoney cleaned up.

Mahoney Whole Show at Bat.
Despite the slippery underfooting the game sparkled with brilliant moves. Monroe at second for the black diamond warriors saved the game in the eighth when he pulled the triple drive by Guigni for a double play. Clever fielding by Coltrin, Guigni and Pierce at other stages saved trouble. In the batting line Mahoney was the only one who had nipped the buff spit-baller, Johnson, for a single to center-field, but two were out when Mahoney cleaned up.

Callahan's Hit Ties Score.
Portland's first and tying run was scored in the fifth inning, Callahan singling to right, following an error by Parks and a wild pitch which had put Coltrin on third base.

Mohler at Second Handled Five Hard Chances Faultlessly. While Guigni, Bancroft and Fortier also conducted themselves in big fashion, the negroes in Williams used his two young receivers, Murray and Bliss, and while neither hit the ball, they nipped several attempts at base-stealing with much acclat.

Coupled with their hard 6-5 stand against the negroes Saturday, the defeat of the Giants was certainly not hurt the Colts with local fans. The B leaguers made friends yesterday, for the negroes had previously licked the Portland Coast Leaguers four games in five, had trimmed Seattle three straight by lopsided scores, and licked Victoria two games. Vancouver beat them, but Foster says his men are over-achieving their first letup in five months.

Notes of the Game.
The American Giants play today at Walla Walla take in the evening and then migrate to the western League at Spokane Tuesday, migrate on to Missoula and Helena and then depart for St. Louis and Chicago. The negroes are members of the Chicago City League.

Kid Mohler was loudly applauded by the big Sunday crowd at Recreation Park. The ex-Seaside southpaw infielder is popular. The similarity in the uniforms worn by the teams so confused Fitchner in the eighth inning that he called out the red sock column. He mistook Guigni for an Ethiopian.

Pierce, the negro first sacker, is a boyhood friend of Bill Rodgers, the B leaguer. Both attended the same school.

Guigni performed well around the initial sack and will likely get a lot of work here this season unless Hellman is secured and crowds him off.

The teams split the gate receipts equally and the $1000 or $11,000 secured by Nick Williams will just about pay the Colts' training trip out of the red ink column. Manager Williams had figured on closing the Spring preliminaries with $500 to the good, but the lead wrecker he struck out along the line blasted his hopes.

Piedmont Maroons Win.
The Piedmont Maroons won a slugfest from the Columbia Hardwars yesterday at Peninsula Park, 13 to 8. The batteries were: Morris and Bartholomew, and Donaldson, Edwards, Bahler and Myers.

RIVERS BOUT IS DESIRED

Anderson Ready for Fight With K. O. Brown Tomorrow Night and Looks Forward to Life on Medford Farm as Champion.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 13.—(Special.)—After I pick this boy Brown, I will get Rivers, and after I have laid him on the shelf I will take on Ritchie if I can get him away from the spotlight long enough, and then I will travel around over the short bout circuit and "gather" and then I will retire to my farm in Medford, where the best people in the world live, and settle down.

This little effusion of optimism comes from Bud Anderson, the opponent of that fantastic little humorous Dutchman, K. O. Brown.

It was not a boast, not a bit of it. It was a serious, carefully-worded answer to a direct question as to his plans.

"I have this whole thing figured out," said Anderson evenly. "I know I can lick Brown. In my first fight I had him going several times, but I was in such bad condition that I could not finish my work. Again his crooked way of looking at me pleased me, and his style of boxing also bothered me.

"Then there is Rivers next. I do not take him too seriously, as he cannot hurt me with a straight left, and I have won many of my fights with my left. Ritchie will come next for me, and unless some one gets him before I can easily take this extra pound off.

Brown's trainers say he is already down to weight. He will weigh 151 pounds on Tuesday morning, and before entering the ring that night will eat a two-pound meal, thus bringing his weight up to the scheduled 153 pounds ringside.

Anderson practically finished his training for the fight Tuesday night with Brown; that is, the hard training schools are taking an active interest in track this year. On Saturday, April 26, the first interscholastic track meet for the county will be held. Entries will be made from all the valley schools. The contestants will be divided into two classes—those 14 years and under forming Class A and those older forming Class B. A loving cup, which will become the permanent property of the school winning it for two consecutive years, will be presented to the winning team. On the Saturday following the winners will meet the track team of the Hood River High School.

"Bill" Hayward, the University of Oregon trainer, was recently here and addressed the students of the high school. His words of advice were received favorably and the students are endeavoring to develop some strong material. Local alumni of the State University are eager to turn out some material that will make good at Eugene. Donald Nickelsen, a student of the Frankton school, is creating no small interest among local athletes. In an unofficial race the past week, he broke the interscholastic half-mile record.

BOXING BRIEFS

EACH CROSS is a boxing oddity. He concedes that he was lucky to knock out Joe Mandot at New Orleans. Other boxers would have sneered at the claims of his rival and "got away with it." But Cross was badly out-pointed until he slipped over the knockout punch. In addition he knew the stronger of the two was going up against, for Mandot was Cross' sparring partner in New York when the New Orleans boy was unknown. In those days Mandot was cleverer than those days Mandot was almost every workout.

Luck plays an important part in the rise of fighters. Ritchie had a chance to go to Australia under the management of Hugh McIntosh after he made such a splendid showing against Freddie Welsh. Willie had several good offers in the East and passed up the Australian tour. The result was that one year from the date of the Welsh scrap he won the title from Ad Wolcott. Had he gone to Australia as a challenger for the title today.

George Kirkwood, of St. Louis, one of the boys Johnny Kilbane rated as among the top-notch featherweights, is many notches removed from the title. He lost to Kilbane in jig time—the champion rating George near the top of the list, while he evidently for publicity purposes—and lost to Young Driscoll, of Brooklyn, at New York last week.

Gunboat Smith, the latest luminary in the heavyweight fistic firmament, was still on the U. S. S. Pennsylvania when Carl Morris was being groomed for a championship; Al Palzer was endeavoring to emulate Frank Gotch as a wrestler, and Bombardier Wells was grooming in London gymnasiums. All three have exploded, although given every opportunity to succeed, but Smith has "arrived." He may not beat McCarty—may not weather Jim Flynn, but he meets the fireman—but he is a man to be reckoned with.

On performances in New York the three leading heavyweights rank: Willard, first; Smith, second; McCarty, third. They don't think much of McCarty back there, but they did not see him in the ring. He is criticized for being an all-around man, not a fighter with marks to distinguish him from the common herd. Willard has great height and length of limb. Smith has a unique style of hitting and his speed is said to be the most terrific fighter among the white men of the ring today.

TRAP SHOOTERS' SCORES LOW

Pendleton Makes 112 Points in Match With Baker City.

The Portland Gun Club trap shooters had an off day yesterday, as they succeeded in knocking down only 111 birds of a possible 125 in their weekly shoot of the Oregon State Trapshooting League against the Troutdale experts. Following is a list of those who made the team and their respective scores: Carlson 22, Knight 23, Rice 22, Cullison 22 and Ziegler 21.

In the weekly practice Reed and Huntley were tied for the highest in the division average with 98 per cent. The practice shoot scores are as follows: Reed 96, Huntley 96, Cullison 95, P. Holohan 93, Van Atta 93, Carlson 93.
