VOICE OF RARE BEAUTY

Omaha World-Herald Speaks in Glowing Terms of Julia Culp.

In speaking of the Schubert songs which Julia Culp will use on her pro-gramme at the Hellig Theater, Saturgramme at the Heilig Theater, Saturday evening of this week, the Omaha World-Heraid said: "In the Schubert group, including 'im Abendroth,' Die Post,' 'Du Bist die Ruh,' 'Standchen and 'Are Maria,' this gifted singer revealed a voice of rare beauty in quality and warmth of tone, a vocal so as to make women eligible to serve equipment as near perfect as possible and a breath control which was marvelous. There were degrees of shading so perfect in gradation and intensity so perfect in gradation and intensity that the listener was held spellbound numerous sanitary measure and entranced." The same critic speaks of her beautiful diction in her English

In discussing Eyeglasses at a bridge party the other afternoon a woman said: "Well, I've been to half a dozen eye specialists, and I tell you it is absolutely impossible to get satisfaction."

Think of it, ladies, impossible to get a pair of satisfactory Eyeglasses in an age which has pro-duced the electric light, the phonograph and the telephone.

One might as well read the six "best sellers" and say that there is no such thing as literature in the world.

¶ Or listen to ragtime in a cabaret and conclude that there is no such thing as music in the world.

Or read of public pilfering and fraud and deny that there is any such thing as honesty in the world.

¶ Yet one has only to look for these things to realize that there is no dearth of all three.

We believe, and thousands of Oregonians support our opinion, that there is more actual character and style and satisfaction in Thompson's Glasses than any other Eyeglasses in the world.

Thompson Glasses cost $2.00 or more.
