MUNICIPAL REPORTS HIT

Research Bureau Says Taxpayers Are Kept Too Much in Dark. The system employed in Portland for making municipal reports is declared to be inadequate. In a report on "Departmental Reporting Methods," made public yesterday by the officials of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, it is declared that taxpayers are kept in the dark regarding the city's affairs, departmental reports are cumbersome and too exhaustive to be of any value and the general system of putting out the reports is wrong.

Under the present organization and methods," says the report, "citizens of Portland have been left almost completely in the dark concerning their city government. They have known little of what was going on at the City Hall, and their government has afforded them no means for becoming informed.

"As stockholders in the corporation of the City of Portland, they have been assessed year after year, but have been given no balance sheets, no adequate statements of operation, nothing, in short, that as stockholders in any private corporation they would have demanded as a matter of right.

"Had they been furnished with properly prepared quarterly and annual reports of operating costs, methods and results obtained, a change in organization and methods would undoubtedly have been effected long ago.

"Such departmental reports as have been rendered have been such a jodge-podge of information and misinformation that the average taxpayer has been discouraged from even attempting to glean anything of value from them."
