WOOLMEN ASK FOR PURE CLOTHING LAW

Stamping of Fabrics Adulterated With Cotton or Shoddy Will Be Sought.

PURE FOOD IDEA APPLIED

South Expected to Oppose Measure, Since 60,000,000 Pounds of Cotton Now Enter Into Making of "All Wool" Goods.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAR, Washington, April 30,-If Congress, as now seems certain, places raw wool on the free list, Senators and Representatives from the big woolgrowing states re-gardless of party, will concentrate their contains, so that the purchaser may know just what he is buying. It applies to cloths and clothing the same principle that is applied to food products by the pure food law. Already, however, there is opposition to the pure fabrics bills and still greater opposition will be relief when the bills satisfactorily. prosition will be raised when the bills taken up by committees.

Manufacturers Oppose Bills. Manufacturers of cloth contend that while measures of this kind are theo-retically possible, in actual practice they are utterly impracticable of en-forcement, due to the fact that there is no test by which shoddy can be distinguished from woel when made into cloth, because shoddy is merely wool that has been used one or more times. Cotton is largely used in the manufacture of woolen clothing, by way of adulteration, but cotton can be detected by both chemical and microscopic tests. S. W. McClure, secretary of the National Wool Growers' Association, is an earnest advocate of the pure fabrics bill, and has given the subject much consideration. In speaking of the necessity for such a law, he said:

"The importance of a pure fabrics law is shown by the fact that while we used 290,000,000 pounds of wool in the woolen and worsted industry for 1909, the census year, we also used 26,-660,609 pounds of wool waste, 53,000,000 pounds of shoddy and 59,000,000 pounds of cotton. This does not include hosiery or carpet mills, and therefore shows the materials of which our woolen clothing is composed. Probably all Warmth and Wear Sacrificed. "In woolen clothing cotton is the greatest offender, for where it is mixed with wool the warmth of the garment is greatly sacrificed, as well as the wearing quality. Cotton and wool, being different fabrics, do not act the same when the garment is wet-one contracts while the other expands-and with small scales, easily seen through a microscope, while cotton fibers are flat and without scales. Chemically, the test is simple. If mixed wool and cotton goods and dippel in a solution of concentrated by the wool will be destroyed and the cotton will be un-affected, while if certain acids are ap-plied to such mixed goods the cotton will be eaten away and the wool will remain. "Next to cotton, shoddy is the greatest offender and the one most difficult to detect. In 1909 we used in our woolen mills 52,000,000 pounds of shod-This was all sold as 'all-wool,' sense that the term is generally un-When wool clothing is worn out, raspickers buy it up at a few cents a pound and sell it to the shoddy mill. There the cloth is torn apart by machinery, the wool fibers are separated and recovered, only they are shorter. High-class shoddy, which has been worn or used only once, is nearly as good as wool. Clothink made from as good as wool. Clothing made from such fabric is all-wool, though it may a daughter.

Williams, a son. again worn out and discarded, back it and again worn out and again world and again world will and again again and again again and again again and again worn out and discarded, back it goes to the shoddy mill and again it is worked over. So the process goes on, from cloth to shoddy and shoddy to cloth. Wool is practically indestructible so long as it is well cared for, as shown by the fact that there are prayer rugs in existence today that were manufactured more than

Shoddy Is Not Serviceable.

"From this it will be seen that shod-dy, after having been used a few times, must make poor, rotten clothing. but it still would be 'all-wool,' Such clothing is warm, but not serviceable, and the sale of it as all-wool is indefensible. Here is where the pure cloth law gets up against it, for there is no test that will accurately distinrish between wool and shoddy, as both are pure wool.
"The use of shoddy cheapens the cost of materials, for while a pound of clean new wool is worth 56 cents, shod-dy can be bought at from 6 to 36 cents while this country uses immense quantities of substitutes in its clothing, it uses less than any other woolmanufacturing country, and American cloth is decidedly better than English, French or German. During 1911 this country exported 40,000,000 pounds of shoddy to England for the manufacture of cloth."

It is the opinion of those who have looked into the question that Southern Senators and Representatives will fight the pure fabrics bill, for the enactment of such a law would check the present practice of labeling 50,000,000 pounds of cotton as "wool," and this would hurt the cotton industry of the South.

"Oh, no, I den't in the least mind being a dowdy frump," said Miss Moore. "You see, it is a pleasant change to a long round of playing griziling wives. Elima is a dear, delightful character, and I am proud to have created her on the stars. ated her on the stage.
"In the script Mr. Esmond describes Eliza—who dare not be 'dangerous'— as wearing a shapeless, shabby frock, which is too large in the waist and too small in the back, while the skirt is too long and too loose. The hair had to be drawn tightly back from the forehead and knotted into a little bun Co., 18 on the top of the head.

"I had my own ideas, and made my own hideous outfit—I cannot call it a frock. Why the tartan skirt? Well, the lines go the wrong way and give a drop to the figure. Besides, could not a feed to the figure of flar. any woman in a flopping skirt of flar-ing tartan be deemed dangerous within the meaning of the play?

"You would not believe how easy it is to be ugly! The trouble is to be beautiful. I feel sure that no woman ever dressed for dinner as I do for Eliza. To prepare for my entrance as the unlovely girl who has to be cherished by the Honorable Sandy Verrall takes me but a very few minutes. They contended that Miss Eva Moore was not in the bill!"

gardless of party, will concentrate their efforts to force the enactment of a pure fabrics law by way of recombense to the woolgrowers for the loss of duty on wool. Pure fabrics bills have been introduced by Senator Myers of Montana and by Representative Murdock, of Kansas, but it is not likely these measures can be considered at the special tariff session. Western men in Congress will make every effort to get for them an early hearing in the regular session next Winter.

The purpose of the pure fabrics bills is to require the stamping or marking is to require the stamping or marking night, when the automatic recorder of cloth to show the amount of wool, should be of the greatest value. Even cotton, should or other material it a coat of bird-lime on the pole does

Drying Ink With Sand.

Washington (D. C.) Post. Oddly enough, though blotting paper has elsewhere displaced all other forms of drying ink and is extensively used in the Senate by the Senators as they write on their desks, the blotting paper being attached to a device with a handie to it and hung by a string from the desk, the old type of drying ink by means of sand still is permitted to such as care to use it. The desk of every Senator has a sand duster or pounce box, resting in a hole in the top of the desk, looking like an inkwell. The box resembles a pepper shaker. And they are used, for many of the old Senators prefer to pour sand on their ink rather than blot it.

A Man a Heating Lamp.

Electrical World. average man dissipates abou 2.5 kilowatt hours of energy a day in motion, muscular action, mental exer-tion and heat radiation. This is equiv-alent to a continuous expenditure at the rate of about 100 watts, or the rating of a %-horse power motor. In spite of his high body temperature-98.6 degrees Fahrenheit—and large ra-diating surface, man's heat losses are surprisingly small—about 59 watt hours the cioth, or much of it, into which the shoddy, waste and cotton went was sold as all-wool at all-wool prices. It is this deception that is sought to be vice the average man is thus about stopped by a pure fabrics law.

WEATHER CONLDITIONS.

A large high-pressure area occupies the Mississippi Valley and a trough-shaped shallow low-pressure area overlies the Pacific States. A thunder storm occurred during the afternoon at Baker, Or., and local rains have fallen at a few widely separated places in the Eastern States. It is much warmer in the Northern Rocky Mountain States and cooler in the Ohio Valley and the lower lakes region.

The conditions are favorable for increasing cloudiness, followed by showers in Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho on Wednesday, with lower temperatures. Fair weather will continue in Western Washington.
