

$20,000 IS NEEDED

Rose Festival Fund Below Requirements.

MANY VISITORS EXPECTED

Rosarians Will Entertain Official Guests From Other Cities at Expense of Its Own Organization Without Other Aid.

The Portland Rose Festival needs $20,000 more on its fund, and a campaign of solicitation among the citizens of Portland is to be commenced today and continued without cessation until the fund is completed.

Expecting the donations to the Festival fund to surpass those of last year, arrangements were made for a programme containing much more elaborate features than ever before, and the 1913 Rose Festival was outlined on a scale that will surpass any of the shows of previous years.

In the movement to secure the required $20,000, cards will be sent in by prospective contributors, and at the headquarters telephone calls are being made to bring the Festival committees at once in touch with the people of the city who are willing to join in the support of Portland's big annual entertainment to the world.

From day to day lists of the contributions and names of the contributors are to be published, and the progress of the campaign will be kept prominently before the people until the completion of the fund.

Pledges Are Asked. Contributions may be sent either to the Rose Festival fund, or to the Oregonian. Contributions may be sent direct or pledges of contributions may be sent in by letter or telephone to either place.

Letters received in hundreds at the Festival headquarters each day indicate that the travel to Portland during the Rose Festival week will be the heaviest in the history of the city, and the Festival Association intends to present them with such an entertainment as will amply realize the expectations that are to be brought them here.

The Royal Rosarians will meet today at the Commercial Club to make plans for the entertainment of visiting delegations during the Festival. The Rosarians will not, however, go into the field in this new campaign to solicit since the work of preparation for entertainment will keep the organization occupied fully during the coming month.

GRANGES FOR UNIVERSITY Proposed Referendum Opposed and Separate Schools Desired. H. A. Darnall, state lecturer of the Grange, living at Lents, has received resolutions condemning the proposed referendum on the appropriation for buildings for the State University.

Resolutions passed by the Glendale Grange of Douglas County, and the Clatsop Grange of Clatsop County, declare that the election alone will cost the state from 50 to 75 per cent of the amount required. The consolidation of the Oregon Agricultural College and the university is condemned.

Another set of resolutions was passed by Mohawk Grange of Lane County. The resolutions set forth that the election will cost the taxpayers $100,000; that the university is an asset for the state, and also declares that the Oregon Agricultural College and the university should not be consolidated.

Both Granges make appeal to other Granges in the state to oppose the referendum. Lents Grange passed resolutions at its last meeting condemning the referendum.

ALASKAN IS ENTHUSIASTIC Dr. I. N. Moore, of Ruby, Visiting Here Predicts Heavy Gold Yield. Dr. I. N. Moore, of Ruby, Alaska, is in Portland visiting his cousin G. W. Hazen. Dr. Moore is enthusiastic about the mining future of Ruby, which has developed as a mining town of its metal resources. "Ruby, the Golden Hub of Alaska," he says that Ruby is to be one of the permanent gold producing centers of the Yukon territory, and predicts a yield there this year of $1,000,000. He says that the total assured from the district, he says that about $500,000 will be taken from the ten creeks which contain gravel bearing gold in commercial quantities.

The creeks where gold is found in paying quantities are the Ruby, Middle, Greenstone, Swift, Trail, Glenn, Poorman, Tamarack and Monument all tributary to Long Creek. Dr. Moore, however, warns against any rush to the district, saying that it would be an easy matter to crowd the camp, in its present development, far past the possibilities of profitable employment for all.

ROSE STAHL IS WRITER

NEWSPAPER EXPERIENCE AIDS ACTRESS ON STAGE. Comedienne Attributes Success to Training Under Her Journalist Parent.

If she had not made so great a success as an actress, it is probable that Miss Rose Stahl, who is now playing in "Maggie Pepper," and who will be the attraction at the Hellig Theater for three nights, beginning tonight, would have gone back to newspaper work, from which she went on the stage. Her father is a well-known newspaper man of Tronton, N. J., and before she finally settled on her own career she aided about the office and wrote "stuff." She learned much of acting from her newspaper work, and she has written of it as follows:

"The analogy between acting and newspaper work frequently occurs to me. My father was a journalist for many years. He often told me that the secret of writing is the knowledge of what to leave out—that elimination is a secret of success. I attribute my first popular hit in 'The Chorus Lady' to an appreciation of this point of view. Before that play was produced I had undergone invaluable experience in stock work, playing in many cities.

"Audiences who have been familiar with my acting in recent years probably would be amazed at the variety of roles I assumed during my apprenticeship—everything, in fact, from Shakespeare to Sardou. I am sure that not many actresses associate with Cleopatra of the French dramatist, yet that is one of the important characters which fell to my lot during my stock work. Thus I learned the technique of my art, and when I conceived the idea of impersonating the chorus lady, Patricia O'Brien, suggested to me by reading a magazine article, I took my play my recipe for elimination. New York, Chicago, and even London hailed me as a new factor, on the histrionic horizon.

"I don't presume to imagine that the British audiences understood all my slang phrases. They enjoyed them even when they failed to comprehend their exact meaning, as they do all American products, which seem to them strange. If there is anything an English audience dislikes, it is for an American actor to visit London in the guise merely of colonial English men or women. It has been decided that Americans must talk through their noses and use odd, picturesque idioms, and those who don't do this are despised as mere imitation English folk."

PARROT ABUSES BELLBOY Lad Called "Fool," "Boob" and Finally Sent Away to "Choke."

Bellboys are accustomed to being excoriated by peevish travelers, but Frank Stuart, of the Perkins Hotel, lays claim to the distinction of being one of the few to have maledicted a bellboy by a name. Mrs. R. E. Bauer, of San Diego, who arrived at the Perkins yesterday, brought a pet parrot with her. She had two suitcases and the cage containing the bird. Stuart tried to take the baggage and the bird to the room assigned to Mrs. Bauer, and the parrot, in a fit of pique, uttered the words "You horrid thing!" "Going up!" "Going up!" chirped the parrot. Mrs. Stuart piled his load in the elevator cage he overturned a pan of water in the birdcage. The occupant of the cage was furious and gave vent to his feelings by saying: "You horrid thing!"
