

COLONEL WANTS NO WAR WITH BRITAIN

Canal Controversy Included Among Issues to Be Settled by Arbitration.

PEACE CONFEREES CALL

Promise Once Made Should Be Kept, Is Roosevelt's Statement With Reference to Hay-Pauncefote Convention.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., May 8.—Theodore Roosevelt would have the United States and Great Britain "agree in advance" to arbitrate any question which might arise between them.

Newspaper men were not admitted to the function, but a summary of his remarks, "approved by Mr. Roosevelt," was made public.

Although it was said he did not specifically mention the Panama canal dispute, members of the foreign delegation said he unmistakably referred to it in speaking of the question as one which should be settled by arbitration if settlement could not be reached by negotiation.

Colonel Admits Heresy. "I am not myself one that readily makes a promise, but once made I think it should be kept," he was quoted by H. F. Ferris, secretary of the British delegation, as saying on the apparent reference to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which was signed in Colonel Roosevelt's administration.

"Speaking of the extent to which he would accept arbitration methods in international disputes," read the summary, "Mr. Roosevelt said that he was perhaps somewhat of a heretic in the eyes of his friend, Mr. Carnegie (who sat at his right), as there were certainly some subjects which under certain conditions he never would consent to submit to arbitration; but he would assure him of this—that so far as the British empire and the American republic were concerned, he was prepared to agree in advance to the settlement of any question that might arise either by mutual agreement, by arbitration or any other method that would not produce friction. War between these two countries was, and must be, inconceivable."

Toast Drank Heartily. "Mr. Roosevelt gave first the toast to the King and emperor of the British empire, and then the toast of Peace, with justice and good relations between the nations and within the borders of each nation—a toast most heartily drunk by all present."

Colonel Roosevelt entertained his guests in a khaki riding suit and spurred boots.

ROAD MAY BE ELECTRIFIED

New Motive Power to Cut Down Expenses on Idaho Railways.

BOISE, Idaho, May 8.—(Special.)—That section of the Oregon Short Line which traverses Southern Idaho, east and west from Montpelier on the east to Huntington on the west, may be electrified in order to cut down the expense of operation and to handle more advantageously the rapidly increasing traffic.

Bids have been called for from the large electric power companies operating in the Southern Idaho field by the Short Line for the furnishing of electrical power to that portion of the system it is proposed to electrify.

The Great Shoshone Light & Power Company and the Southern Idaho Light & Power Company, both big holding companies in this state, have submitted bids, and other companies, including the Teulicide, which has power plants in the southeastern part of the state, will, it is understood, offer bids.

Man Indicted With Haywood Denies He Made Incendiary Speech.

PATERSON, N. J., May 8.—Patrick Quinlan, the Industrial Worker of the World leader, indicted with William D. Haywood and three others for inciting a strike in silk mill workers to strike in his own defense today, testified in his own defense today.

FEDERAL AID IS OPPOSED

English Promoters Promise Railway to Fairbanks by June 1.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Opposition to Government aid for Alaskan railroads was expressed today to the Senate territories committee by O. L. Dickinson, manager for Close Bros. and other English debenture holders of an existing route from Skagway to the interior. He declared that the companies in which his principals were interested would open a water and railroad route to Fairbanks on June 1. A Government line, he said, would send them into bankruptcy.

T. R. WILL HELP SULZER

Colonel Promises to Speak in Campaign for Primaries.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 8.—Governor Sulzer said today he had received letters from Colonel Roosevelt saying that he would place himself at the command of the Governor's committee, which is to arrange the state-wide campaign to create sentiment in favor of the Governor's direct primary bill. The committee expects to arrange a series of speaking engagements for Colonel Roosevelt.

Morgan, "those lines from Scott that you quoted when that man—I can hear now that emphasis on those two words—when that man had left the room."

"I did, of course, and began to repeat: 'Breathes there a man with soul so dead Who never to himself hath said—'"

"I hesitated for a moment, and the succeeding words came from the big arm chair with odd distinctness— 'This is my own, my native land.'"

"Then quietly Mr. Morgan asked if I could recall the remaining lines and I quoted imperfectly: 'Whose heart has never within him burd, As home his footsteps he hath turn'd From wandering on a foreign strand? If such there breathe, go, mark his well. Message sent to Wilson.'"

"Half a minute, gentlemen, is a long time, but for fully that period I should say Mr. Morgan sat perfectly still. Then, unconsciously, beating time on the arm of his chair as he used to do in church, he repeated as if soliloquizing: 'Who never to himself hath said. This is my own, my native land. And rising with difficulty from his chair, for he was then quite feeble, he said, with the emphasis that only quietude can give: 'When you see Mr. Wilson, tell him for me that if there should ever come a time when he thinks any influence or resources that I have can be used for the country, they are wholly at his disposal.'"

"Barring the usual leave-taking, those were the last words I heard from the lips of Mr. Morgan. They were the words of a true patriot, of a great, a very great, American, spoken from the depths of a passionately loyal heart. Surely I can do no better than to leave them with you to remember, to cherish and to feel so long as you all shall live in this our native land."

Pujo Ordal Severe.

Referring to Mr. Morgan's testimony before the Pujio committee, at Washington, Colonel Harvey said: "Although mentally as strong as ever, physically he was sadly broken when summoned to Washington. At his age and his condition it was the severest ordeal of his life, but it was for the best, as he himself came to realize. 'I hated to go,' he said to me with characteristic simplicity the day before he sailed away. 'I hated to go, but I am glad I went. I think it did some good.'"

JAPAN PRESENTS PROTEST

Governor has agreed to withhold his signature from the bill at least until the return to Washington of Secretary Bryan. He has until May 12 to act on the measure.

It is not known whether the views of the Washington Government will be transmitted tomorrow or after Secretary Bryan returns here on Monday on his trip to New York, where he goes tomorrow night to address the banquet to the commission arranging for the celebration of the treaty of Ghent.

Neither at the State Department nor at the Japanese Embassy can any statement be had as to the nature of the Ambassador's forthcoming communication.
