Bondholders Are Confident.

The present local head of the Cen-tral Oregon concern is Roscoe Howard, and after listening to the complaints mentioned above I came here and spent sufficient time with him and his cashler. W. W. Howard, to pretty fully dis down to the facto as to what here see0.009 worth of worthless securities --worthless unless the projects are carried to completion. If this is done they think they will get the face value of their bonds and all interest charges. They think this so hard that last year they put in something like another $100,000 to build a dam below herd which supplies the North Canal. Bend, which supplies the North Canal, and they will put in more money as it is needed to do other construction work.

Now as to the complaints, which in clude those sent by mail to The Ore-gonian, and which, as a matter of fact, ronian, and which, as a matter of fact, were responsible for my trip and my investigations. Who were and who are the fault finders? Let's go into that a trifle. In the first place the com-pany pays its bills promptly—save its interest to bondholders. Locally the credit of the company is good. The company pays its men good wages and also pays them promptly.

Explanation Lies in Two Classes

Now let's divide the people of Crook County into two classes-those who take water from the company and those who do not. I have shown that the latter seem to get a square deal, for their only interest it would seem is for the upbuilding of the country and honest treatment financially. They performer certainiy get the latter. The former can, be had if the settlers on these lands are successful. But stick a pin fands are successful. But slick a pin right there. Make a wide but a sharp distinction between the settlers on these lands and those other owners, who do not live upon them. Do not for, a single instant lose sight of that distinction. Remember I made it at the beginning of this paragraph by the' beginning of this paragraph by dividing the community into water-users and non-users. I think I interviewed 200 water-users, pairons of the Central Oregon Company, land owners or lessees deal-ing directly with the company. And in only two or three cases were there any complaints whatever, and these were trivial, trifling and mere matters of detail that can and mere mat-ters of detail that can and will be ar-ranged at the cost of a few dollars. As to the water supply there was not t single word implying a shortage, they all get all the water they want and get it when they want it. And not a single water user had a next to say against the company of a word to say against the company of a financial nature. No man complained of sharp practices or harshness in entracted in area but is still central over the Lake region. Moderately high pressure ob-tains over much of the Pacific Slope. Over Western Canada, the Bash, Rocky Mountain and Plains states, and the North Atlantic states the pressure is low.
