Boy's Home "Moves Awar."—When Billy Smith, aged 7, left his home of a day at 472 East Yamhill street, yesterday morning to buy some candy, and returned, he found that the house had "moved away." So he set out in search of it, and had traveled to Grand avenue and East Burnside street when he fell into the hands of Patrolman Stewart and was consigned to the City Jail. There he remained several hours before anxious parents called for him. Billy was smart enough to take care of himself under ordinary circumstances, but

ANNEXATION NOT TO BE OPPOSED.—The annexation of Lents district, which voted favorably at the Nevember election, will not be opposed, but the territory will come into the city in July. There was some talk of fighting the annexation of the territory, but this has subsided. The Lents Commercial and Civic Club has been organized with a view to reaping some of the advan-tages of annexation in the way of electric lights and fire protection.

Preservation of pictures of the pioneers in real life is the plan of W. H. McMonies, president of the American Lifeograph Company, a Portland concern. The first film relic to become the property of the Oregon Historical Society is that taken of the pioneers at Champoeg May 2 when hundreds of the early settlers assembled in honor of the seventieth anniversary of the date that marked saving of the Oregon country for the United States. F. X. Matthieu, the sole survivor of Champoeg's history-making epoch, is featured in the film. of the Oregon Historical Society and at tured in the film.

Champoeg Is Pictured The Champoeg pictures will be pre-sented to the Oregon Historical So-clety after they have been exhibited for a week in Portland and have been shown on a circuit of moving-picture houses extending from Baker, Or., to this city. The pictures were taken for the Empress Theater where they will be presented for the first time today as an extra number on the week's vaude-ville bill.

George H. Himes, secretary of the Oregon Historical Society, is enthusiastic over the first gift of a film of the pioneers for his archives.
