

COMMITTEE FAVORS RULES CONVENTION

Canvass of Republican Members Shows Small Margin for Proposal.

LEADERS ARE IN HARMONY

Majority of Both Elements Keen for Method Suggested, Which is Declared Not Original With Progressive Wing.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(Special.)—A majority of the members of the Republican National Committee are in favor of a National convention to change the rules regarding the basis of representation and to provide for the recognition of state primary laws in future nominating conventions.

Such being the case there is little doubt of the calling of the convention which the Chicago conference decided to call by resolution. Out of the meeting of the executive committee of the National committee, which is to be held here a week from next Saturday in response to a call by Chairman Hillier, there will come the summoning of the full committee to take formal action on the convention proposition.

Time Alone Seems in Doubt. The only real doubt at present seems to be the time for holding the National gathering. As it happens, however, a quiet canvass has been made through sources who were not identified with the Progressive Republican conference at Chicago, and it has developed that the committee will favor the calling of a National convention, although by a narrow margin.

Leaders in Harmony. The most significant thing in connection with the situation at present is the substantial harmony of opinion between the two old factions in the party—at least so far as the leaders are concerned—relative to the need for changing the rules under which Republican National conventions shall operate in the future.

Some of the standpatners, it is true, are inclined to oppose the National convention scheme. But they are in the minority among their own fellows. The trouble they foresee is that the action of the reorganization movement along the lines already advanced will result ultimately in the creation of a general primary system for nominating candidates for President and Vice-President, knocking out entirely the National nominating convention.

PRISON REFORM AIDED

ED MORRELL AT PANTAGES HAS IDEA ON BOYS' CARE.

Take Care of the Lads and the Men Will Take Care of Themselves, Says Pardoned Life-Termer.

Take care of the boys; the men can take care of themselves. By the paraphrasing of an old adage, Ed Morrell, ex-desperado, ex-life-terminer in Folsom and San Quentin prisons and now one of the foremost workers in behalf of prison reform, sums up his opinions of the regeneration of the present and future generation.

Morrell has undertaken something

no other prison reform worker has attempted and by his act he is daily reaching hundreds with his views on the methods of bettering the lots of unfortunate beings. He has entered vaudiville and from across the footlights this week at Pantages he tells, in graphic style of the abuses formerly practiced in many of the penal institutions of the country and how they have been gradually rooted out by the introduction of the Golden Rule.

Morrell was the youngest member of the Evans-Sontag gang of train robbers that gripped California in a reign of terror in the early '90s. The trouble came when the railroad companies tried to and finally did succeed in ousting Sontag, Evans and other settlers from their homesteads on the banks of Mussel Slough. Desperate, the men turned outlaws and they were hunted without rest, a huge bounty being offered for their capture, dead or alive.

300 Discriminating Ladies May Have Their Choice of Any One of 300 Suit Patterns of Finest Quality Imported and Domestic Fabrics for Ladies' Tailored Suits, FREE OF CHARGE

My only stipulation is that you will let us make it for you. The price for which is Thirty Dollars; this includes guaranteed satin linings and all findings. This is the price I charge if you bring in your own material to be made $30

I will place on my tables this morning—and until the woolens are gone—three hundred suit patterns, many of them being the finest quality of imported goods and all the new and beautiful colorings in English and Scotch Tweeds, Cheviots, Fine French and Belgian Worsteds; also a lot of blue and black serges and cheviots. An assortment that will interest discriminating women of varying tastes.

The Reason for This Most Extraordinary Offer Right in the Middle of the Season Is as Follows:

I have on hand an enormous stock of fine woolens, silks and satins amounting in value to over forty thousand dollars, in all probability the largest stock of goods carried by any tailor in the Northwest. On account of the backward season they have not moved as rapidly as I anticipated and I am caught with twenty thousand dollars more stock on hand than I should have at this time, besides the expected reduction of the tariff will mean an enormous loss to me. I intend to take my loss now and not wait until it is too late. I fully expect to make up any loss I may incur in advertising results.

"A pleased customer is the best advertisement," and I expect to make several hundred new and pleased customers by this liberal offer.

A Few Reasons Why It Will Pay You to Take Advantage of This Opportunity

My organization is perfect. My head cutter and designer is absolutely second to none. I employ only the most skillful and highest salaried tailors I am able to get, which insures perfect workmanship. All work is done under my personal supervision and on my own premises and subjected to a rigid examination. I positively guarantee a well-made, perfectly-fitting suit. My guarantee is not an empty phrase or an idle boast, for, as I have already stated, I have over forty thousand dollars invested in my business in Portland. All that I have is back of my guarantee. If your suit does not fit you perfectly, it will not be allowed to leave my establishment. The suits which now will only cost you thirty dollars sell regularly at from $45 to $65. The merchandise and the manner in which the suits are tailored lift this offer far above the monotonous mediocrity of similar offerings. An adequate selling force will be provided and you will receive prompt attention. Mr. Tom Gallagher will be on the floor and personally meet all customers, thus assuring you of courteous attention and consideration whether you come to purchase or to "investigate"

One Door From West Park Tom Gallagher 382 Washington Street Opposite Pittcock Block

P.S. I have on hand a large number of beautiful model suits, many of them made of the finest quality imported goods and all lined with guaranteed Skinner's satin, hand-tailored in my own workshop. All the new Spring styles, made to sell at $45 to $60. I will close them out at $15 each—a really fine bargain if you can find one to fit you. Your inspection is invited. OPEN EVERY EVENING TILL 8 O'CLOCK—SATURDAYS TILL 10

Conlogue's Logging Camp in Coos County Is Idle.

125 LABORERS QUIT WORK

Some Men Refusing to Stay With Positions Do Not Know Why They Walk Out—Owners Expect Resumption in Few Days.

BANDON, Or., May 13.—(Special.)—About 125 men refused to go to work today at Conlogue's logging camp, a few miles up the river from Bandon. About half of these men were responding to a call made by the leader of the Industrial Workers of the World of Marshfield to the loggers of Coos Bay district. The other half of the men did not work principally because they could not work without the other half.

if those who walked out, however, conclude that there will be no more timber cut until there is a big advance in wages.

Many people cannot afford to have weak nerves. It would mean loss of livelihood. To everyone the loss of nervous energy is a serious matter. Every action uses up nervous energy which in health is steadily renewed by the blood. As soon as the blood, for any reason, loses this power to constantly rebuild the nerves, a nervous breakdown threatens.

becomes more general through the country.

Machias, Me., will celebrate the 115th anniversary of the town this Summer, probably in August. Definite plans have not been made, but an historical pageant has been suggested.
