CAVILL TO REPEAT LEAP FROM BRIDGE

Aquatic Expert Says He Does Not Expect Watery Grave and Places All Blame for Accident on Helpers.

"No watery grave for me. I intend to repeat my Monte Cristo sack-diving ent off the Hawthorne bridge during the Rose Festival. My escape at Wolland was close, but that's all in game and I'll be out in a day or two, ittle the worse for wear."

The above is the gist of an interview with Arthur Cavill, famous Australian swimmer and swimming instructor in the Multnomah Athletic Club, who nar-rowly escaped death in a 65-foot leap off the new Pacific Highway bridge at Woodland Saturday, when he smashed into a large wooden buoy and was rendered unconscious.

Cavily was in bed at his apartments in the Ockley Hotel, 290 5 Morrison street, when seen by an interviewer last night. His entire left side was swathed in bandages and his arm showed a bad gash, but Dr. James C. Zan, his physician, entertains no con-cern of serious effects.

Helpers Are Blamed.

"I have done my high sack dive hun-dreds of times all over the world," ex-plained Cavill, "and this is my first hand-shake with death. My helpers made a mistake at Woodland. Instead of dropping me in my sand-weighed sack first, and holding the wooden buoy as a trailer like the tail of a kite, they threw the buoy off first and the weight of the buoy on the top of the sack, combined with some careless work in hoisting me off the bridge for the 65-foot leap, turned me over and I lit squarely on top of the buoy.
"I didn't know what happened. To terriffic crash made me unconscious and I was in a trance until aboard the train, several hours later, headed for Portland. I carry g knife down with me in the sack so as to cut my-self out and I guess it was the knife that gashed my arm." Cavill was asked if his brother

Charley was not drowned performing even simpler feat.

"Yes, Charley was killed in 1893 at Stockton, Cal., but it was gas poison-ing that got him," explained Mr. Cavill. "He was giving an exhibition in a big tank which had formerly been used as an oil reservoir, I believe. One of his tricks was that of remaining 10 or 15 minutes under water. He used an inverted tub as a medium. This tub was floated on the surface and Charley's trick was to dive underneath and stick R and R W Keating R and R W Keating head up under the tub, which was Brother Killed by Vapors. "In some way the air under the tub, on this particular day, had become poisoned through vapors rising from the water, and he was asphyxiated, not drowned. After he had remained

"I jumped off a plank in Sydney harbor once and struck a post a few inches below the surface of the water, inches below the surface of the water, the force of the impact nearly impaling me, said he. "But I was out in a few days. Once after that, in 1995, I got caught in some timbers of a sunken tank in Sydney harbor and nearly drowned before extricating myself."

"But, don't imagine I'm going to die a watery grave. No sir. When I die it will be in bed, like other people." Arthur has four other brothers liv-ing and three married sisters, all swimmers. Ernie, one of the boys, is in Australia; Dick, former instructor in the Chicago and Pittsburg Athletic Club, is in a circus; Percy is in Florida exhibiting at Palm Beach, and Sid is instructor in the Olympic Club in San The family is the most famous swimming family in the world.

In concentrating the efforts of the counties in the improvement of one of these roads, it is argued, it will be but a short time when Douglas and Coos counties will be linked by a highway second to none in Southern Oregon. The traffic between Douglas and Coos counties is heavy during the Summer months and the falling off during the Colonel E. WOMEN WADE WILLINGLY

Members Divide in Three Parties and Explore Districts in Vicinities of Sandy and Bull Run Rivers and Marmot.

Negotiating muddy roads and trails, plunging enthusiastically into wet brush patches and climbing to the summits of hills encountered along their way, the Mazamas had a strenuous week-end trip, many in the party being women who willingly waded through, or over, any had place on their way.

The members formed three parties Saturday afternoon, some taking a train to Boring. On Sunday morning the tramp was renewed, one party walking along the Sandy River to the hotel at Marmot, where they had dinner and were joined by the other squads, one of which had made the trip via Bull Run.

The return trip to Portland was made in three parties, one coming by Bull Run, another following the flume of the Mount Hood power project along the Big Sandy, and the other traveling along the Big Sandy, passing the tun-nel by which water is diverted into the Big Sandy through a mountain.
