SLEETH TRIAL ON; JUDGE TAKES HAND

Time Wasted First Day in Libel Case, Says Jurist Sitting on Action.

JURY BY TONIGHT IS URGED

Entire Time Occupied in Examining 3 Veniremen, 2 of Whom Are Passed for Cause and Third Excused After 2-Hour Quiz.

The trial of State against Dana Sleeth and the Portland News Publishing Company, charged with criminally libelling County Commissioner Lightner and County Judge Cleeton, opened in Circuit Judge Davis' court yesterday.

The entire day was occupied in examining three veniremen, two of whom were passed for cause. The third was

At the conclusion of the day's proceedings Judge Davis instructed the attorneys for the defense to pass the night in framing question to ask proposed jurors. The judge said that time was being wasted in useless and immaterial questioning. He thought that from 20 to 20 questions from each side should zerve to develop a venireman's qualifications and state of mind and said that the jury should be complete by tonight. plete by tonight.

veniremen together until the jury has actually been selected and the order was revoked. After the jury has been chosen the 12 men composing it will be kept together night and day until their verdict has been given.

One of the first questions put to a venireman yesterday morning drew an objection from Mr. Maguire and precipitated a discussion as to what is the law of libel.

Argument of Proof Arises.

Mr. Collier and associates argued that the state must prove not only the publication of the alleged defamatory article, but must prove also its falsity and that it was not published with good motive and for justifiable ends. Mr. Maguire, on the other hand, argued that the state is required in its case in chief to prove only the publication of the article on which the indictment is based, that is, make out a prima facile case and that it then becomes the Madame Petrova is Polish and her accomplishments as entertainer are varied and delightful. She gives a bit of tragic impersonation of Sapho and two versions, one a comedy and one as a tragedy, of a French rendition of ragitime. One song is about a parrot, another about a frivolous cat, and in both the lovely Petrova makes vocal pyrotechnics. She is truly refreshing and a locket he picked up in the street. The man jovially admits his temporary insolvency, and casually asks her opin-lon of the amount uncle would give on the locket.
