COINS TO BE SOLD

Rosarians Name Saturday as Day to Increase Fund.

WOMEN WILL MAKE SALES

Every Citizen in Portland to Be Given Chance to Aid in Staging Coming Event by Buying Medal Souvenir.

The people of Portland will be appealed to for contributions to the fund for the Rose Festival on Saturday, May 24, which has been set aside by the Rosarians as "Rose Festival Coin day." The contributors' medals of coins, which were provided at the opening of the festival fund campaign, have not yet been put generally before the people, although many of them have been purchased by persons who desired to make small contributions to the fund.

Wives of the Rosarians and other women who will volunteer to assist in the sale of the festival medals will report to O. C. Bortzmeier, who is in charge of the festival coin fund, Saturday morning at the Commerce Trust & Savings Bank at 10 o'clock and from that hour until the close of the day, they will have the medals upon the streets at all places.

The Rosarians have requested that any women of Portland who desire to assist in the festival work notify Mr. Bortzmeier at the Commerce Trust & Savings Bank before Saturday.

All May Be Contributors.—The Rose Festival contributors' medals are sold for each and every one who purchases them has not only the satisfaction of knowing that he has added half a dollar to the fund for the coming festival, but also an attractive souvenir of the festival and of the fact that he is one of the contributors who made it possible.

Although the campaign among the larger property owners of the city has been carried on zealously for the past few weeks, in the effort to complete the $20,000 fund which was still needed to make up the total required for the festival, the Rosarians were disappointed in the response and for this reason have decided to launch the festival coin-selling campaign, believing that the small contributors of the city will assist the movement and make up the deficit that the property owners failed to cover in the solicitation of the past few weeks.

The funds that are being raised for the festival by this campaign will be wholly available for the productions and features of the festival itself, and the Rosarians themselves have assumed the entertainment of the thousands or more of people who will come in organized delegations from California and Washington, and the expense of this will be met by the Rosarians themselves.

Stand Site Donated.—The Sweeney Investment Company has donated the use of a half block on Morrison street for the installation of a special grandstand for the visitors and others are promising assistance to the Rosarians in their entertainment plans.

With the expenses of entertaining visitors thus taken care of, the Rosarians believe that the festival funds to which will be added the money received by the sale of the festival coins, will make possible new features, which may be put into the festival pageants and displays.

In the plans for the selling of the festival coins, the following list of stations and leaders have been designated, although several additions to the list will be made:

At large, Mrs. A. L. Stephens; Sixth and Washington streets, Mrs. Vincent Jones; seventh and Washington, Owl Drug corner, Mrs. Marshall Dana; Fifth and Washington, Lipman-Wolfe corner, Mrs. William F.
