

FAITH IN CONVICT BACKED BY $1000

Home Telephone Company Puts Up Big Bond for Release of Paroled Man.

UPRIGHT LIFE IS NOW AIM

Attorney in Defense Shows Ainsberry Came North, Settled in Lents, Where He Bought Home and Was Trying to Make Good.

OREGON CITY, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—The Home Telephone Company has decided to back the honesty and integrity of J. C. Ainsberry, arrested Monday at Oswego on a charge of assaulting Fred Ream with a dangerous weapon in the course of a strike riot, and Tuesday afternoon the company redeposited in Justice Court the $1000 bond which Ainsberry refused to accept Monday, and a few hours later obtained an order for his release on habeas corpus proceedings.

This little step was necessary because the California authorities, through Warden Hoyle, of San Quentin prison, had telegraphed Oregon City officers to hold Ainsberry as a parole breaker. Sheriff Mass, in whose custody the prisoner was, refused to release him, even after the $1000 bail had been deposited in cash, without a court order, and so the habeas corpus proceedings were instituted.

Attorney Hedges asked the order, and placed the prisoner before County Judge Beale. In his argument Mr. Hedges set forth that Ainsberry had been in San Quentin prison under the name of Bert Lawson; that a prisoner he had learned the electrical trade and had been paroled.

III Will of Union Incurred.

Refusal on Ainsberry's part to "take out a card" in the electrical workers' union, Mr. Hedges said, had brought the III will of the union upon him, and they hounded him so in California that he finally left the state 30 days before his parole expired. This made him fugitive under the law, it was admitted. Since leaving California Ainsberry, it was shown, had done his best to live an upright life, and had finally settled in Lents, where he had bought a little home and was working at his trade in order to complete payment for it.

In the trouble at Oswego it was said that Ainsberry had not taken the initiative and had not used his revolver until a peevish had been driven through a wagon by a man who was taking shelter. It was brought to the court's attention that in the past Oregon Governors had been slow to grant requisition papers to California for prisoners who had merely broken their parole, unless the case had aggravated features. With the Home Telephone Company desisting $1000 cash bail to cover the man's appearance in Justice Court in the matter of the riot, Attorney Hedges asked that the California request be denied and that the prisoner be discharged.

Prisoner Is Released.

Deputy District Attorney Livy Stipp appeared for the state to combat the request for the habeas corpus order, but aside from entering a formal objection to its granting made no argument. After brief consideration Judge Beale ordered the prisoner discharged, and that he be turned over to the custody of his bondsmen.

After thanking the judge and court officials Ainsberry walked out of the courtroom a free man and returned to his home at Lents.

Ainsberry, according to the present status of his case, is held as a defendant in the case of the shooting of Fred Ream. Portland physicians who are attending Ream say he is recovering rapidly from his wounds, and that his hurts are but superficial.

Two Members of Senior Class Will Join Faculty of Springfield High School and Three Will Be Principals.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, May 20.—(Special.)

—Ten members of the senior class, who will be graduated in June, have secured positions as principals or teachers in various high schools in the state. The list will probably be greatly augmented during the next few weeks.

This state has always endeavored to fill its high school faculties with college-bred instructors, and to this end there is a law admitting men and women, who present college diplomas, to such positions without examination. The university has furnished a large number of candidates to the state from City Superintendent Alderman, of Portland, down to the principal and sole teacher in one of the remote districts of Eastern Oregon.

Two members of the senior class will become members of the faculty of Springfield High School. Walter Stroud, of Eugene, will become principal of the Oregon Emerald, the tri-weekly college newspaper, during the present year, and was editor of the Oregonian, the student year-book, last year. He was member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and of the Fraternity, the upper-class honor society. His major subject is education.

Three to Be Principals.

Three other graduates who are booked for principalships are: A. Burdick Cook, of Hood River, who will go to Grass Valley; Karl Outhank, of Hood River, to Frankton High School, of his home county; Chester Kronenberg, of Mechanicville, Ia., to Alsea.

Cash has taken education for his major subject during his college course. He is vice-president of the student body and president of the university Y. M. C. A. Outhank has been editor of the Oregon Emerald, the tri-weekly college newspaper, during the present year, and was editor of the Oregonian, the student year-book, last year. He was member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and of the Fraternity, the upper-class honor society. His major subject is education.

Major Subject History.

Pearl Horner, of Corvallis, will be instructor in English and history in Dallas High School. She is a daughter of J. E. Horner, a well-known member of the faculty at Oregon Agricultural College. Miss Horner is prominent in women's activities, being a member of the women's council and of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Her major subject is history.

Another woman graduate who will enter the teaching profession is Verena Black, of Eugene, who will teach German and Latin in the high school at Jefferson. She is a member of the women's council, and has made education her major subject. Miss Hazel McKown, of Goshen, will teach in the Klamath High School. She is a member of the women's council, and has majored in German.

Miss Carin Degeermark, of Portland, who will graduate with the present class, has completed her college work and is now filling the position of instructor in physical training for women at the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth. Miss Degeermark was prominent in many activities at the university, having been a member of the first co-ed debating team and editor of the Oregon Monthly. She specialized in physical training, and was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Scroll and Script, the upper-class women's honor society.

ELECTION CASE ARGUED

DECISION IN PROHIBITION TEST SUIT DUE SOON.

Supreme Court Decision Makes Retaining Walls at Astoria Possible Now.

SALEM, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—The test case of H. J. Bellarts, to determine whether or not the city of Astoria may vote at the coming election on prohibition, was argued before the Supreme Court this afternoon. The plaintiff sought to have the court prohibit the city from placing the question on the ballots. Colonel C. E. S. Wood, Erskine Wood and John C. McCue, representing the plaintiff, argued that the law provides such questions may be voted on in a city only on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. They contended that before Portland and Astoria could vote on the question at an election other than in November, the city charter would have to be changed to conform to the statutes of the state.

King Drags to Be Used.

ASHLAND, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—King drags will be used extensively on road operations throughout Jackson County this season. The County Court has just closed a contract for 50 king drags to be used on the various road districts, with instructions to have them used in such a systematic manner as will insure the best results.

If "cheap" clothes are what you're looking for, dont waste your time on ours, because we dont know how to make "cheap" clothes, and we are not competing with such makers.

Everything we make is standardized and has intrinsic value in proportion to the price. We particularly emphasize our $25 suits because so many men are willing to spend about that price, and want to get as great a value as possible for the money.

There's true economy in such clothes as ours; the prices are based on what we put into them; fine fabrics, fine tailoring, the best style designing; our facilities for these things are greater and better than any custom tailor can command; and the maker of cheap clothes cant afford them.

You'll find our suits ready at $18 and $20; and up to $40 and $50. At $25 is a good place to begin.

ROSEBURG YOUTH FALLS

Fendal Sutherland Unconscious Five Hours After Accident.

ROSEBURG, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—To fall from a second story window to the pavement 13 feet below, and to remain unnoticed until nearly five hours later, was the experience of Fendal Sutherland, a well-known Roseburg young man yesterday morning. Sutherland went to the Sike's skating rink shortly after midnight, when he discovered that he had forgotten the keys to an adjoining apartment. Climbing out of the window he unsuccessfully attempted to crawl along a narrow projection to the window of the next room. Rendered unconscious by the fall Sutherland remained on the pavement until after 6 o'clock, when he was discovered by pedestrians. His injuries were slight.

Reading Delegates Named.

GRANTS PASS, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—W. D. O'Brien, of San Francisco; Ed Barnett, of Los Angeles, and E. Phelan, of Omaha, left today over the proposed Grants Pass & Crescent City Railroad easement to gather information and data for the building of the Pacific Interior. With the men is an expert engineer who will make examination of the ore product of Josephine County along the belt traversed by the proposed railroad. The first stop will be made at St. Patrick's Creek.
