Today will mark the Scals' first appearance in the north this year. Douglass will twirl for Del Howard's tribe and Hi West for Portland. Douglass is the big spit-ball pitcher purchased from the Chicago Americans in April. Other new Seals are: Spencer, catcher; Cartwright, third; Charles, utility; Hogan and Johnston, out-fielders, and Hughes, a Western Canada fielders, and Hughes, a Western Canada flinger. The Seal pitching staff consists of Henley, McCorry, Douglass, Fanning, Baker and Hughes.

McCredie will bring north Shields, the new University of Mississippi re-cruit catcher, and perhaps, Nig Peters, former holdout infielder. While no word has been received from Manager Mc-Credie, it is reported that Bill Lindsay was left behind to fully recover from his illness.

Portland and San Francisco have met but once this year, the initial week, and Portland trimmed the Seals four games in six.

Briefly reviewing the races here on the West Coast, one of the two Port-land nines is improving and the other not quite holding its own after a bad start. The local class B Northwestern. ers won seven straight from Tacoma last week, and demonstrated that they may yet be pennant contendors, while the Coast double AA squad lost the the Coast double AA squad lost the series to Venice, three games to four. On the three weeks foreign trip completed Sunday, the local Coasters won nine games and lost 11, which is not so bad after all. But, there still remains that discouraging factor, weak litting by the outfield. Until the gardeners begin clouting at their 1911

Aside from a wenk-hitting outfield the team still looks like a first divisioner. The pitchers and infield are holding up manfully, despite the absence of the star slugger, Lindsay, and the catching department is doing good work, judging from the box

The Oakland team is coming strong again, four games of seven being taken from the Angels. Venice, too, is doing a trifle better than even, while Acramento, by the addition of Hailinan, seems to have improved. This trade with Venice for O'Rourke seems to have been good for both clubs. Venice needed O'Rourke's hitting and Sacramento accounted more speed.

A Los Angeles baseball writer char A Los Angeles baseball writer characterized Jack Ryan's no-hit, no-run performance against Portland Sunday May 18, at Venice as the first in the Coast League in recent years. Portland fans know better. On May 21 of 1912 Red Toner, now of Spokane, but then on the Seal pitching roster, set the Beavers down in one, two, three order. To be sure, his teammates were charged with four errors to let him get by with it, but it went down in the official records as a no-hit, no-rungame.

Just as in Ryan's case, the feat segmed to get the best of its progen tor, for Toner slumped so badly immediately after his performance that h was sent to Spokan

Seattle will romp home easily with he Northwestern League pennant again this year, in the judgment of Nick Williams, manager of the Portland Colts. Nick voiced this prediction upon the eve of his departure for Seattle Sunday night. He thinks Vancouver, Victoria and Portland will furnish the thrills for the remaining first division honors.

"The schedule is all in favor of Seattie," says Manager Williams. "Ray-mond's men play at home most of the time and he has a mighty strong ag-

Williams admits that the Colts had all the breaks in luck last week, but believes his athletes will be in the fight to the last. He says Victoria has a powerful hitting club, but lacks speed. Nick cannot see Tacoma with a spyglass, but thinks Spokane will begin strengthening immediately.

When the locals blew away for three weeks Sunday, after walloping Tacoma seven straights, Pitcher Hynes was left behind to nurse his salary arm back into trim. Chris Mahoney was taken in his place. Guigni, reported loaned to Pendleton, in the Western Tri-State, for a fortnight, also accompanied the club to Scattle. Pendleton was unwilling to accept Guigni under terms providing for instant recall.

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity has a dis-position like a wasp, if he is to be judged by his own men. He is prov-ing the hardest task-master that ever truck the Coast.

During the turinoil last week Mc-Ginnity raved at his players continually and that, perhaps, as much as anyhing else accounted for the erratic fielding by the Tacoma Tigers. Close to $190 in fines was plastered into the various unfortunates. Center-
