

NEW MEASURE IS PUZZLE TO VOTERS

Explanation Is Given of Initiative on Ballot Dealing With Common Users.

2000-FOOT STRIP INCLUDED

Object Declared to Be for Prohibition of Monopolistic Franchises and Extension of Facilities to All Carriers.

One of the most perplexing questions the voters will be called upon to decide at the city election Monday is the initiative measure entitled "an act defining a common transportation terminal within 1000 feet of harbor lines," which appears on the ballot as No. 124 and 125.

This measure has been prepared by J. B. Ziegler, a resident of the East Side, who has won considerable notoriety in connection with his fight against the railroad and other companies controlling property along the waterfront on both sides of the river.

The purposes of the measure are set forth in the ballot title as follows: "An act defining a common transportation terminal within 1000 feet of harbor lines; subjecting city's property and rights therein to access and use by common carriers on equal terms; making public dock warehouses subject to lease; requiring city officials to formulate a plan for interconnection of all terminal units; requiring all franchises and improvements submitted to said officials to conform to said plan; requiring four-fifths vote of council to issue measures not conforming therewith; and providing automatic referendum in such case."

Monopoly Prevention Aim. It is intended to set apart all territory within 1000 feet of the waterfront and subject to use by all common carriers alike, thus preventing monopoly.

The purpose of the act is expressed to be to provide for "interchange of traffic between all carriers, with the greatest facility and economy and the least obstruction in convenience and cost possible."

In short it enforces upon the city the administration of the public rights of way for public traffic instead of turning them over by franchises and dedications to the private terminals to be used to the exclusion of competitors.

Portland's position relative to natural highways and gateways of the east is said to be such as to make her independent of any private carriers. The true policy it is said is to develop the city's terminal systems so as to invite all carriers and facilitate transshipment.

"That," said J. B. Ziegler, author of the measure, "is to establish Portland as a commercial port and the railroads will be glad to come on terms of free interchange."

"This city has been neglected by both the Harriman and Hill systems which have made this almost a closed port while they gave preference to San Francisco and Seattle, where they had to compete for the free trade."

Blanket Grants to Be Prohibited. "The kind of thing that will be prohibited by this act, is a franchise like the blanket franchise covering the east approaches to the new Harriman bridge, in which the common use of streets is killed by a special clause; an improvement like the East Side abutment of the Broadway bridge, which is a solid one reaching clear down to the O. W. R. & N. Co.'s right of way, and should have been a viaduct permitting the construction of other tracks beneath when needed, and the laying of private tracks on North Front street so as to embarrass the connections of the public docks."

"The most serious opposition to the measure will be on account of its declaring all the waterfront subject and entitled to interconnection. That will interfere with any plans looking to the monopoly of traffic connections. It would prevent a situation like that permitting the owners of docks No. 1 to demand an extra price for their property on the grounds that—as was testified to in the examination suit—there is but little wharf property like this in the city, accessible to the tracks of both the terminal systems or appropriations, but that connections can all be provided for on the city's public properties administered under the charter, police and common use provisions."

Y. M. C. A. TERM CLOSING Commencement Exercises Will Be Held Tonight.

The most auspicious year in the history of the educational department of the Young Men's Christian Association will end with the annual commencement exercises, which will be held in the association auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. An invitation has been extended to the public to attend and hear the programme, which promises to be unusually interesting.

PAIR FROM SPAIN PUZZLES

Marriage Permit of Native Land Shown by White Slaver Suspect.

Federal officers are puzzling over the procedure to be taken in an affair which, on first sight, appeared to be an international white slavery case, but in which a Spanish marriage permit figures. The woman is a young girl from Spain, and in her ignorance of English was much frightened when she and John Alaga were arrested by Deputies Pray and MacSwain, of the United States Marshal's office. She denied that she had married Alaga, though the latter produced the permit.

Alaga is said to possess some wealth, and a number of drafts were found in his possession. The arrest was made under the Mann white slavery act.
