

NAZIMOVA TO APPEAR AT HEIIG TONIGHT

In "Bella Donna" Will Be Seen Dramatic Production - Theatersgoers Owe Debt to Late Richard Watson Gilder.

Madame Nazimova in the Drama "Bella Donna" at the Heilig.

FASCINATING Madame Nazimova, who has not been seen in this city for two years, is to bring her latest and greatest success, "Bella Donna," for presentation at the Heilig Theater tonight, Friday and Saturday nights, with a matinee Saturday. "Bella Donna" is a dramatic play in four acts which has been made out of the novel of the same name by Robert Hichens. The adapter is James Bernard Pagan. American theatergoers certainly owe a debt of gratitude to the late Richard Watson Gilder, for it was he, when he was the editor of the Century Magazine, who induced the talented Nazimova to learn the English language and play in English in this country. That was eight years ago and during that time Madame Nazimova has played a great number of great emotional roles and has become one of the greatest actresses on the English-speaking stage. Indeed, it is doubtful if, to her own line of parts, she has an equal. The central figure of "Bella Donna" is Mrs. Chepstow. She has been christened Bella Donna on account of her great beauty and she is a particularly fascinating woman. In adapting the novel, Mr. Pagan is said to have followed the plot of the Hichens' story carefully. Bella Donna's career in England is declining. She has lived her life, she has had many men at her feet, but the years are beginning to tell.

ROBERT BOOTH, AGED 93, TELLS OF EARLY TRIALS

Family of 12 Reared and Educated on Salary of Methodist Minister, Ranging from $300 to $800 a Year.

BY ADDISON BERNETT. "D O YOU see that fine-looking elderly man sitting over by the window talking to the young man by his side?" This was a question propounded to me by my friend Knowsall as we were walking through the lobby of one of our famous hotels. I had to reply that I did not know either. I was referred to, although the countenance of the younger of the two was somewhat familiar to me. The man is Robert Booth, who crossed the plains in 1852, although he had been to California, coming across the Isthmus, before that. He was born in Lancaster, England, August 10, 1820, so you see he is now almost 93 years of age, but I think you will agree with me that he does not look to be 70—many men of 60 look far older. He has been a great factor in Oregon's history, having brought up a large family. Several of his sons have become prominent, particularly his youngest son, Henry, to whom he is talking. Having full confidence in the knowledge of Knowsall, I went over and introduced myself to Mr. Booth and had him tell me something of his life. Memory Remarkably Good. "I came from England to this country with my parents and three brothers and three sisters on the good old sailing vessel, the "Enterprise," in the fall of 1850. We settled in Westchester County, New York, where we remained until September, 1851, when my parents, two sisters and one brother passed passage from New York to New Orleans, thence to Louisiana, where we remained until November 29, when we left on the steamer "Envy" for the West Indian country. I went over and the place we settled in was afterwards a portion of Lee County, Iowa. I give these details minutely to show the rare memory of Mr. Booth. He recalls just as correctly nearly every early day of his life, hence his memoirs of early days in Oregon would be of great value if published. In 1850 Mr. Booth went to California and worked in the mines for a short time, getting back to Iowa March 24, 1851, and on April 11, 1852, left for Oregon with his wife and four children, Mary Lucinda, John Owen, William Ann and George Alfred. The former was twice married and now, as the widow of Mr. Toney, resides in Wheeler County, near Mitchell. John O. died at Grants Pass in 1870, William A. in a chair at the Dalles, causing grief in many a heart and sorrow in numberless households of the state. Sons Found Big Company. Mr. Booth's account of his trip from Iowa to Yamhill County, where he settled soon after his arrival, is a long and interesting story of itself, but, however, not possible to present even its outlines in a sketch of this character. After arriving in Oregon eight children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Booth—Sarah Foster, Jennie Armstrong, Robert A., Amanda Viola, Ida E., Cora, J. H. and Bertha M. These are all living, J. H., usually called Henry, being, perhaps, the best known. He, with his brother Robert, were the founders of the celebrated Booth-Kelly Company.
