sional" standards. The cakes, cookies and candles were balanced by practical and wholesome meet, fish and vegetable dishes. Sam- ple dinners were shown of most ap- petialing appearance at 10 to 15 cents a head for materials and meals for different classes of persons on "spe- cial dists" were shown. Interesting and instructive also were some studies in house planning and in the cost and selection of household furnishings for different incomes, shown by the advanced students of the home economics class, which proved that beautiful and harmonious sur- roundings are not necessarily costly. This class showed also some studies in another in the proper use of cleaning materials and methods for household use. Besides a very fine exhibit of studies in design from natural forms, and of if and object drawings, excellent work in useful articles of leather and	THE WEATHER. THE WEATHER. THE WEATHER.
