FARM SHOULD YIELD $5000

Dr. James Withycombe Reports Favorably on County Institution.
 Produce to the value of $5000 a year should be taken from the Multnomah County farm. It should produce enough poultry, milk, butter, eggs, vegetables and small fruits to supply all the county institutions. The farm's greatest present need is a practical, efficient farmer, with managerial ability. These options were rendered yesterday by Dr. James Withycombe, head of the bureau of animal industry of the Oregon Agricultural College, after he had made a survey of the farm, which is located near Troutdale, about 12 miles east of Portland, and comprises 13 1/2 acres.
 "I found that about 150 acres of the farm is splendid agricultural soil," said Dr. Withycombe last night. "It is well adapted for dairying, truck gardening, fruits, and especially small

NEWSBOYS' HOME HELPED

"Hanky Panky" Benefit Performance Attracts Large Audience.
 It never rains, but it pours, and yesterday at the Hotel Portland it poured both water from the skies and nickels, dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars from the pockets of a charity-loving multitude, which stood for an hour under umbrellas in and about the hotel court and heard the principals and chorus of "Hanky Panky" sing for the benefit of the Newsboys' Home. The contributions amounted to $100.50. Following a street parade in autos, the orchestra played on one of the hotel porches and then, while the chorus missed wended their way about, court and heard the gathering in the shelds, the company sang some of its most popular songs, the principals standing on an improvised platform. The crowd thronged the court and the

WORKERS HONOR JOSSELYN

Power Company Employees Visit Retiring President.
 After pinning a gold button on his coat a committee of the Association of Mechanical Employees of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company declared B. S. Josselyn an honorary member of their association, when they called on him yesterday in his office in the Electric building to extend to him a copy of resolutions passed with regard to his resignation as president of the company and good treatment of the men. James A. Johnson, president of the Mechanical Association, was the spokesman.
 The resolutions were neatly bound in morocco and engrossed upon parchment. They express regret that he is soon to be no longer connected with the company and best wishes for the future.
 Following the Mechanical Association committee came representatives of the Brotherhood of Electrical Railway Employees of the company. They had a set of resolutions bound in morocco and engrossed on parchment. Their spokesman was C. E. Wagner. The resolutions, handsomely bound and engrossed, with the signatures of all the members attached, contained the declaration that Mr. Josselyn had always proved himself to be a loyal friend of the laborer, a just man and that he inspired in the minds of all loyalty for the company, which had been productive of good service.
