teammates gave him a lead he did not falter. Killlay, on the other hand, was hit hard and often.

In the second game Krause had to battle until the seventh before the Beavers showed in front. In the second inning a bit of wildness on Krause's part and a costly error by McCormick, which let in two runs, gave the Oaks a 4 to 1 lead. Harry Ables pitched a good game, but a series of boots and some timely hitting in the seventh proved his undoing.

Derrick's Finger Smashed. Derrick was injured in the second ining of the first game by being smashed on the finger while at bat and retired in favor of Speas, who and retired in layor of Speas, who played a bang-up game at first. In game No. 1, with two out in the first inning, the Beavers proceeded to score. Rodgers doubled and Speas' single scored him. The Oaks tied it in their half.

Fortland went into the lead in the third and was never headed. With one out Higginbotham and Chadbourne scratched hits. Derrick was hit by a pitched ball and Rodgers drove in Hig with a single.

The Beavers took another run in the fourth when McCormick singled and Fisher doubled. The Oaks also showed in the fourth, when Coy and Hetling doubled. Round five saw the Beavers take a commanding lead, when

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. The rapacious Portland Colts downed Vancouver in the first game of the "flood" series yesterday afternoon by a score of 4-2. It took 11 fiercely contested innings to inspire the Ca-nucks with the trills of the swan song, and the finish came with all the cli-matic qualities of a pardon to a con-demned prisoner about to drop on the It was all of that and then some—a pitching duel between Hynes and Hall, with melodramatic fringes and a sunshiny spotlight.

Matt Hynes deserved to win in nine innings, 2-1. But a mixup between Bobby Coltrin and Dave Bancroft in the ninth inning permitted Frisk to score from second on an infield gfounder. In the extra time the bat-tle waged on and on up to the start of the eleventh, when the visitors scored one run on Kippert's single and Brinker's two-base swat.

"Tough one to lose," was on the lips of 700 sadly-disapointed fans when the first Portland man up in the last of the eleventh flied out to center. Error Gives Colts Chance.

But the allbi club had an adjournment in store, for, when Scharnweber permitted Fitzgerald's grounder to squeeze between his legs, he started something that ended in two runs and gave Portland the game.

Fitzgerald stole second on Hellmann's strikeout and scored the tying run on a terrific slam to center field by Mela terrine slam to center field by Mei-choir. The latter legged it to second in safety on the throw to the plate, which, by the way, Konnick conven-iently dropped, and scored the win-ning run on a two-base whack up against the right field fence by "Nig" Peters.

Peters.

Hats off to Melchoir and Peters.

More power to them.

Peters' joy-producing wallop came as the finish to a whirlwind game that fairly scintillated and bristled with brilliancies. Twice the Colts retired the Canucks on double plays when anything else would have spelled ruin. Once it fell to the lot of the visitors to return the compliment.

Hynes in Fine Form. Hynes and Hall both pitched airtight ball, each allowing eight hits. Up to the ninth Hynes had been touched only four times safely, and one of those was a scratch, due to his SPOKANE, Wash., June 26.—(Special.)—Ownership of the Spokane basecial.)—Ownership of the Spokane base-ball team has nominally changed hands. The traction people are not slow to spend money when it must be done, as is the case with the ball team as at present constituted, and probably will make good the claim that a winning team will be gotten together if half a chance is given.

Joe Cohn retires because he is not a rich man and cannot afford longer to help pay the losses of the team. He is also disheartened by the failure of the team to play winning ball. Aside from the drawing powers of a winning team and the added revenues therefrom, Cohn hates to lose a ball game. When the team is on the field he forgets he is owner and is a fan as ardent as any in the grandstand.

Umpire Burnside, ousted from the Eastern Tri-State League, was tried out by Fielder Jones yesterday. He got in bad with the fans in the second inning and they rode him until the close,

Coltrin and Bancroft fielded streakily. They cornered four errors between them but also made some remarkable plays, Heister, Kippert, Bennett and Frisk fielded sensationally for the visitors.
In the eleventh Coltrin forgot to go back and cover third on Frisk's bunt and the keen-eyed Kippert salled from first to third. He broke the tie a moment later on Brinker's two-bagger, so the slip didn't figure in the run-getting. Hellman showed himself wide awake in the miles for he stand. He has quit baseball for keeps and will return to business.
