

EXPLODER WOULD PROTECT ESKIMOS

Stefansson Says Alaska Indian Healthy and Happy Without White Man.

TRIP STRICTLY SCIENTIFIC

Expedition Ready to Sail for Nome to Explore Unknown Area of More Than 1,000,000 Square Miles in Far North.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 30. — Vilhjalms Stefansson, who will sail for Nome tomorrow to take charge of the Canadian government's Arctic exploring expedition, was the guest of the College Club at luncheon today, and made what he expects will be his last address for nearly three and a half years. He said:

"I am going on a strictly scientific expedition for the Canadian government. There is an unexplored area of more than 1,000,000 square miles in the Arctic, and we shall try to learn what it contains. If there is land it probably is inhabited by Eskimos. These people must be Eskimos. Stefansson speaks with deep feeling of misrepresentation he had suffered because of his recommendation to the Canadian government that all whites be quarantined from the Eskimo territory to protect the natives from extermination by disease. He said: "I have been quite peculiarly wishing missionaries excluded and have been violently attacked by the Canadian clergy in consequence. I personally should like to have all civilized people kept away from the Eskimos, who are healthy, prosperous, contented and have as good morals as our own. I thought an appeal to the government to protect the lives of these people needed no diplomacy. "I believed every humane person would approve my appeal. Some persons might be indifferent to the fate of the Eskimos, I thought, but it never occurred to me that I would meet active opposition in my effort to save the natives from destruction."

WAR VETERANS WILL DINE

Colonel Jackson Will Address Old Soldiers at Luncheon.

Colonel James Jackson will be one of the principal speakers at the luncheon to be given by the Pennsylvania Club in the Portland Hotel Thursday to the veterans of Gettysburg who were unable to go back to the big reunion on the battlefield itself. Colonel Jackson is himself a veteran of Gettysburg, having been in the thickest of the heroic "struggle in the wheat field," July 3, 1863.

Wallace McCaman also will deliver an address of welcome to the veterans. There are about 50 veterans in the city who were unable to go to the reunion at Gettysburg.

McCaman has announced that if any Gettysburg veterans who are in Portland have not received invitations to the luncheon, the society desires that they communicate at once with himself or with J. A. Currey so that arrangements for their entertainment may be made. Mr. McCaman may be found at Main 250 and Mr. Currey at Marshall 721.

VICTORIA DEFEATS TIGERS

McGinnity's Men Hit Frequently, but Lose Game, 8 to 5.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 29.—Victoria defeated the Tacoma Tigers here tonight, 8 to 5, in a game of 19 hits and 4 errors. Tacoma gathered ten hits from Boice, McGinnity, and Sheehan, but was unable to tally more than five times.

The game was a twilight contest, being called after 6 o'clock. Score: R. H. E. Victoria... 8 5 2 Tacoma... 5 10 2 Batteries—Fitzgerald and Shea; Boice and Harrel.

GETTYSBURG REUNION ON

Rebel War Cry Sounds. Governor Mann motored over from Baltimore. As he passed down the dusty street on the plain of Gettysburg field that the War Department calls "Confederate avenue," 75 veterans in gray from Richmond lined up to salute, lifted their hats and raised their voices in "Yi Yi," the rebel war cry, while near by a band burst into strains of "Dixie."

Governor Mann made then a little speech. "Peace amongst my countrymen is universal," he said. "Only good feeling prevails. There is no North and no South, no rebels and Yanks. All is one great Nation."

General Sickles, the only corps commander of the Union Army on the field, was the center of attraction of hundreds of men in gray. He sat on the porch of the Rogers house, on the field, near the spot where he was shot, and there stood shaking hands with all those present.

Before the Southerners left the Rogers house they shook hands with General, carried him out into the battlefield and stood him up before the camera fire and moving pictures.

Half Come From Dixie. Out of the thousands who came in today probably half were from Dixie and tents South of Confederate avenue, many of which were unfilled before, bustled with excitement. General B. H. Young, of Louisville, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, came late in the day and became the guest of the Pennsylvania State Commission.

Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of General Longstreet, and the only woman in the camp, was given a tent to-night by Brigadier-General Hunter Liggett.

Edgar A. Bigsley, a Wisconsin veteran, was found dead in his tent to-night. This brings the death list to three.

Saloons May Be Closed. Because of the serious condition that has developed among the veterans, Colonel Bradley, U. S. A., appealed to the local authorities to close all saloons and prohibit the sale of liquor in the town. It may be necessary to declare martial law to effect this.

At dusk the First Minnesota veterans came in. This command suffered the greatest percentage of loss of any regiment that fought in the battle of Gettysburg. The dramatic feature was the arrival of the Stonewall brigade of Virginia veterans, headed by Colonel Chew, who was General Stonewall Jackson's chief aide. They carried their original battle flag.

100 Survivors in Line. Less than 100 survivors were in line, but their appearance in the streets of Gettysburg aroused unbounded enthusiasm.

Word was received today that General John C. Black, of Illinois, who is on the "Military day" programme Wednesday for an oration, is ill and will not be here.

Reports from the railroad officials to the local authorities at Gettysburg late tonight were to the effect that 29 trains are due to arrive before morning.

This means that probably 10,000 more veterans are to be cared for. At nightfall the Army officers estimated that about 2,000 old soldiers had arrived on the field.

They say the 50,000 mark probably will be passed by breakfast time tomorrow.

PIONEER DIES, AGED 82

MRS. MARTHA HOLMAN LEAVES MANY DESCENDANTS.

Arriving in Immigration of 1846 Long and Useful Life Is Passed in This Life.

Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Holman died at her residence in McMinnville, Or.

Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Holman, Who Died at McMinnville.

June 27. She was born in Hardman County, Tennessee, December 11, 1830. Her parents were Rev. Glenn O. Burnett and Sally Rodgers Burnett. Mrs. Holman's father was the first minister in Oregon of the Christian Church. He was a brother of Peter H. Burnett, one of the leaders of the famous Oregon immigration of 1843, a Chief Justice of the Oregon provision government and later the first Governor of the State of California.

Mrs. Holman came to Oregon with her parents in the immigration of 1846. She was then a girl of 15. They settled near a place in Polk County then called Bethel, but now named McCoy, and was married there August 31, 1847, to Daniel Sanders Holman, who, with his father, John Holman, were of the immigration of 1843. In 1907 they celebrated the 60th anniversary of a most happy marriage. Her husband died at McMinnville March 15, 1910.

Mrs. Holman left surviving her seven sons, two daughters, 19 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. Two of her brothers are living, Rev. Peter H. Burnett, of McMinnville, and Judge Albert Burnett, of Sacramento, Cal. Judge George H. Burnett, one of the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of Oregon, is her cousin.

Although more than 82 years old, she had full possession of her mental faculties to the last. Mrs. Holman was a woman of rare mentality, but with it she had always a kindness of disposition and of manner that made her respected and beloved by all who knew her. She was one of the highest type of Oregon pioneer women of the heroic days of the founding and settling of Oregon. She was a good and superior woman, a true and loving wife, a devoted and self-sacrificing mother and a sincere and steadfast friend.

Her funeral, on Sunday, June 29, was largely attended. On account of the storm in which she was held, her high reputation and her prominence, it took the place of the regular Sunday morning services in the Christian Church at McMinnville, of which she had been a member for a great many years.

FATHER FIGHTS FOR BOY

TO SAVE SON FROM PRISON SEATTLE MAN PLEADS.

Marion A. Butler, Falling to Get Indictment Quashed, Begins Contest in Felony Charge.

Fighting in Circuit Judge Kavanaugh's court before a jury to save his son, H. R. Butler, of Portland, from conviction on a felony charge, carries with it a penitentiary sentence, is Marion A. Butler, prominent attorney of Seattle, Wash. Associated with him on the defense is his friend, Robert H. Lindsay, of the same city.

The active part of the defense is being undertaken by the father. He strove in vain yesterday to have the indictment quashed on a technicality. Judge Kavanaugh ruled against him and then he "brought down" to a hard fight on the actual trial.

The son is accused of swindling Mrs. Margaret S. Camelle, an aged, gray-haired woman, out of her furniture and $675 in money, all she has in the world. The woman now has a temporary position at $6 a week in a department store. She came here from Hamilton, Canada, about four years ago after the death of her husband. At that time she had about $10,000. She had a conding nature but little business experience. The result was that she fell prey to one sharper after another. Finally she was "broke" and was forced to seek employment.

One of the men charged with having defrauded Mrs. Camelle is C. H. Libby, the man as a "wasp" and the woman as an Irish Biddy, have a line of patter and music that go right along all by themselves.

They end with a parody on "Snooky-okums."

Emilina, who is an Orpheum headliner four years ago, is back with three boys this time instead of two, as of yore. She hasn't forgotten how to dance, and woman, go well. It's a hocus-focus love act with songs thrown in wherever they'll fit. Gus Hibbert and Harold Kennedy, in black face, are working straight and the other in comic makeup, singing a little and doing a good deal, both cleverly.

The show ends with the Booth Trio in a bicycle act that has some new and startling features.

ARMY CUT TO 1000

Remnant of Federal Force Straggles Into Guaymas.

MANY DYING FROM THIRST

Ojeda's 3500 Men, Sorely Depleted, Battle for Fortnight, Then Flee Retreat From State Troops More Fatal Than Fighting.

NOGALES, Ariz., June 29.—A scant 1000 men straggled into Guaymas on June 25. Their tongues were swollen from thirst, their eyes bulging with delirium, their bodies wounded with dextrous thorns and bullets. Leading them was General Pedro Ojeda, commander of the federal forces in Sonora State.

Such was the result of a fortnight's fighting above Guaymas as related in a belated message to the Associated Press received tonight from San Jose de Guaymas, a suburb of the gulf port town. Ojeda led all that remained of an army of 3500 with which he had marched out of Guaymas to move against Hermosillo, the insurgent state capital.

The retreat proved more fatal than the battle. Scattered along the roads between Ortiz and Guaymas, the victorious state troops were met by involuntary deserters from the federal ranks. Unable to proceed on the forced march, the sun-dried soldiers had dropped by the roadside. Hundreds had died of hunger and thirst. Those still alive, their uniforms torn and bloody, begged for assistance from the enemy. Many of them were mute from swollen lips and blind from the desert sun. They begged for water by motions of the hands.

Virtually all the federal artillery, troop trains and hundreds of mules were captured by the advancing state troops along the line of Ojeda's retreat.

Advices today differed as to the result of the recent fighting at Guaymas. State officials insist that the majority of the federals have escaped by boat down the California Gulf and that the occupation of the town by the constitutionalists is assured.

New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

Lyric.

THE weekly turn of the bill at the Lyric Theater brings a big measure of good singing and a lot of humor even though the "Jolly Robbers," the vehicle for it all, does not give the members of the company much of a chance to show their talent.

Miss Stella Romig and Miss Della Romig were the real features of the bill with their specialties. They sang but two songs, but they made a hit which will make them welcome with the Lyric patrons for some time.

The opening number by Miss Irene Edwards and the Rosebud chorus was also well received. The selection was "Stucky One" and modern music, upwards to exhibit her personality while the chorus got credit for its part of the refrain and the fancy stepping.

They Snyder, Frank Confee and Fred Bauer, a trio which has been one of the features of the Lyric bills for several weeks, again came in for a good share of the applause through their singing of popular songs. Kate Carlson and the chorus were also good in several entirely new songs.

The play around which the music is placed is the story of two travelers, Lord Alceah and Lady Alceah, who are passing their honeymoon in Italy. The lord is played by Frank Confee while the lady is played by Miss Vivian Leota, a charming addition to the Keating & Flood band.

Empress.

EVERYBODY'S doin' it at the Empress this week—joining in making a rattling, rattling show out of the new bill that opened for the week with the daylight performance yesterday.

Porter J. White in a sketch written by his brother and called "Scandal" is the headliner, but G. Fred Pisano and Katherine Bingham run the sketch a mighty close race for first honors. In fact, if they had a few more second-choice and third-choice votes—but no, that's politics.

Porter in "Scandal" has a sketch that's different. He is ably assisted in working out the story which ends in a surprise for everybody. The other members of the company are: John C. Tremayne, Harry Stephens and Adelaide Fairchild. Pisano and Bingham, the man as a "wasp" and the woman as an Irish Biddy, have a line of patter and music that go right along all by themselves.

They end with a parody on "Snooky-okums."

sketch a most popular one. The lines are by Archie Colby.

John and Joseph Carson, Swedish athletes, open the bill with a classic athletic act. It is one of the best, if not the best, athletic acts of months.

Rena Santos, a statuesque singer, is liked in her offering, in which Fred Watson takes part. Miss Santos has a rather rare voice, with a bewitching smile, behind which she hides a wonderful falsetto voice as part of her act. Mr. Watson has a good voice also. Moran and Wisner, comedy boomers, hat throwers, finish the bill with novelty offering. The act has much merit.

DRILL MASTER HONORED

ROSARIANS PREPARE TO AT-TEND CHERRY FAIR.

Portland Society Will Be Represented at Astoria Regatta Next Week.

In addition to making preparations for their excursion to the Salem Cherry Fair on Saturday, the Royal Rosarians at their luncheon yesterday, sprung a surprise on Professor Robert Krohn, who has had charge of the Rosarian drill team since its organization a year ago.

The surprise consisted of a handsome watch set formed of the Rosarian emblem attached to a silk ribbon. The familiar rose of the emblem is of solid gold enamel. The crown—symbol of royalty—is also of gold and is encrusted with a setting of nine rubies and three diamonds. The whole is suspended from a golden bar attached to the ribbon. On the back is engraved the inscription, "Drill team members Royal Rosarians to Robert Krohn, 6-20-1913." His initials also are engraved on the gold bar. The presentation speech was made by David Mosesohn. Professor Krohn replied briefly, expressing his appreciation of the honor paid him.

The presentation was made in appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. Krohn in perfecting the work of the drill team so that it has attracted the commendation of every city that the Rosarians have visited, and that includes nearly every place of importance from San Diego to Vancouver.

Arrangements for the Rosarian invasion of Salem are complete. A special train on the Oregon Electric will leave Tenth and Stark streets Saturday noon. The price for the round trip has been fixed at $1.50. A programme for their entertainment has been arranged at the Cherry Fair in progress there this week. Many Rosarians and other Portland residents will go to Salem for the Fourth of July celebration to be held in connection with the fair, and they will remain for the arrival of the special train party Saturday.

The Rosarians also will be represented at the Astoria regatta this week. Although they will not be there in organized force, many of their members will attend the races and other entertainments.

A Little Land and a Living That is the hope and aim of nearly every man. And this aim is a natural one. For a little land and a living means freedom and happiness. Since the earliest beginnings of history, men have struggled and fought for land. Those who secured the land became the prosperous and contented class, while those who gave up their land became peasants and slaves. Today, the poverty-stricken peasants of Europe are the descendants of those who lost their land hundreds of years before. And the pity of it is they will never be able to get it again, because the land in Europe is all gone. But in this country there is still plenty of land, and there is still plenty of it within the reach of all. And you should not rest a moment until you have enough of it to support you in comfort, and enough to establish an imperishable legacy for your children. For land is the safest and surest investment on earth. Turn to the Classified Section of this paper now. Look for the columns headed "Farm Lands." Read all these Ads, and consider them carefully. Answer them. Go through these Ads day after day until you find the land you want. Now is the time to provide for "A little land and a living." And mention The Oregonian every time you answer an Ad.
