In the banquet hall, when supper was served, Dorothy Perkins roses formed the centerpiece, which were arranged in baskets suspended from the ceiling.

The bride was attractive in her mother's wedding gown of cream satin and pearl trimmings, with white rosebuds forming a band about the head. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

EVIDENCE MADE STRONG

Case Against Von Klein Helped by Arrival of Acquaintance.

Further evidence to clinch the case against E. E. C. Von Klein, under indictment for stealing the diamonds of the Federal Reserve bank here last year, was made available by the arrival of Ed Carpenter, a wholesale liquor dealer of San Francisco, who was Von Klein's companion here in 1911, at the time of the alleged crime. Through Carpenter the state will be able to corroborate Miss Newcomb in her statement that Von Klein brought her here as his wife, under the name of George B. Lewis.

Carpenter is here as a witness before the Federal grand jury, which is considering a charge of white slavery.

MORMONISM IS RAPPED

CHURCH OF BRIGHAM YOUNG HELD MENACE TO COUNTRY.

Report Read at Christian Conference Calls Upon Congress to Investigate Church in Utah.

Having determined, according to the report rendered yesterday, that Mormonism is an actual menace to American institutions, the commission on Mormonism, of the World's Christian Citizenship Conference yesterday recommended that the Department of Justice investigate the business enterprises of the Mormon Church, with a view to prosecution under the anti-trust law; that the Mormon Church authorities be asked to practice treason; and that each house of Congress expel or refuse to admit any man who is a polygamist, or who is in violation of that a Federal law be enacted to punish the crime of polygamous marriage.

A recent incident in the routine of one of the criminal courts of Utah impressed your commissioners as being remarkably significant, says the report. One of the prospective jurors, a Mormon, was being questioned as to his eligibility. "How many children have you?" he was asked. Seven by Mrs. Stewart. "Is that the whole?" he was asked. "Yes, sir, the whole." "Are you a member of the church?" he was asked. "Yes, sir." "When was the last time you attended church?" he was asked. "I was never there."

While the crowd that filled the White Temple was vigorously applauding every remark made on Mormonism, the Mormonists of the Brigham Young were out on the sidewalk in front of the church passing a blue-covered pamphlet entitled "Truth on the Mormonism of the World's Christian Citizenship Conference" to all who passed in or out.
