Sharp Tilt Arises in Conference of Charities at Seattle Sessions.

JUVENILE COURT SCORED

"Most of Officers Are There Because They Are Holding Down Their Jobs" and Portland Man Says It Matters Not if He Loses.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 9 .- (Special.) -A Juvenile Court Judge and the su-perintendent of a training school de-clared they had no use for such institutions today at the session of "chil-dren" of the Conference of Charities and Correction in the lecture-room of Plymouth Church. The remarks start-ed one of the most spirited tilts of the sessions yet.

Judge Gatens, of the Juvenile Court of Portland, started the fray when he declared war on the psychologist employed in courts.

"The psychologist," said he, "tells a boy he is bad and, of course, he is bad. You tell a boy he is good and he is good. Now anyone can tell to look at a boy what he is like. Fancy having a man rooting around over you and telling you that you were defective. That is the trouble with these scientists. I worked in an insane asylum for many years myself and to those scientists there there wasn't a sane person in the there there wasn't a sane person in the world. And the trouble with the psy-chologist is he has no remedy to offer.

"I tell you right now I have it in for these psychologists and I havn't much use for Juvenile Courts anyway. Most of the officers are there because they are holding down their jobs. I get such a small salry myself that it doesn't matter if I lose my job, so I can tell the truth. And the most outrageous institution on the face of the earth is a state training school."

"I think there are some who want to come back at you," said Chairman Henry W. Thurston, of New York.

The first on the floor was Judge Frater, of the King County Juvenile Court. Judge Frater gave a brief history of the struggles of the court to handle the problem of the delinquent child to that child's best advantage and the ald the psychologist was in this work.

"Do what the individual needs of the child requires with the facilities you have at hand," replied his brother of the court. "That is for you to decide, Judge, that is your business."

"Well, I'm sure I don't know what to do with them," said Judge Gatens.

"Then hand over your job to somebody that does," snapped Judge Frater, and sat down amidst great applicable.
