TACOMA, Wash., July 9 .- (Special.) -Ninety-nine times out of 100 the fans in the Northwestern League see an exceptionally good brand of baseball, considering that this is a class B league, but today's exhibition in Athletic Park was the 100th time. Portland won, 11 to 5, breaking a tie in the ninth inning and making six runs on two hits, three errors, a wild pitch, a hit by the pitcher and a base on balls. The fact that it took nearly three hours to play a nine-inning game indicates the nature of the pastime ex-

Squalls Feature Game. Squalls were featured in the contest. First a squall of rain and then a squall between the grandstand inhabitants and Umpire Toman. Toman announced that he would not continue the game until a certain loud-mouth fan was ejected, but as there wasn't a single policeman available to take the fan in tow, Toman receded from his position and continued the contest. Rain kept falling throughout the game and the athletes on both sides were evidently playing baseball, because they had to, not because they enjoyed the great National sport.

There was a lack of ginger, a pau-There was a lack of ginger, a paucity of pepper and a general listlessness to the contest which caused the fans to yawn and rub their eyes in order to drive off slumber. The wet ball made the work of the fielders hazardous and the five errors piled up by both sides indicated the nature of the going. Up to the ninth inning, Portland had made 14 hits, but annexed five runs. This was due, partially to the clever defense by the locals and partially to a lack of intelligent base running by the visitors.

Bonchead Plays Numerous. Boneheaded plays were also featured by both sides, so that the game was well balanced and perfectly mediocre

That the day was never intended for has the day was never intended for baseball was evident after the first inning, but the players kept plugging along inning after inning and the fans along inning after inning and the fans droused on the benches and wondered when the next shift of ball tossers would go to work. A detailed descrip-tion of the game is hardly worth while, so it is omitted on this occasion and merely the box score given. Score:

NOTTINGHAM, England, July 3.—The American and German tennis teams played their last practice games today for the second round, which begins tomorrow, of the Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis cup matches, the draw for which was made this afternoon. Although the weather has not been favorable for tennis, Harold P. Hackett captain of the United States team, says the American players are in good form and are prepared for the hardest kind of matches. The Germans, on the other hand, are complaining of the climate. This afternoon's draw is looked upon as being favorable to the American players.
