AGED PRINTER GETS '30'

FRANKLIN EASTBROOKS DIES AT AGE OF 73. Pioneer of Portland Typographical Union Mourned by Friends Throughout Northwest. The fiddle played by Franklin Eastbrooks in the old Willamette Theater in days long gone by has been put in its case. The man who once carried off The Oregonian on a hand press is dead, and Saturday afternoon members of the Portland Typographical Union will attend the funeral of one of the oldest, best known and best loved printers of the Northwest. Franklin Eastbrooks worked when there was no modern, easy mechanical contrivance to make the job of a printer light. When he did time as a compositor they lined to stand at the case and pick and distribute the type by hand. When the typesetting machines came into vogue, Eastbrooks retired from the profession. He was one of the charter members of the union in Portland and his passing Tuesday, due to pneumonia, caused universal grief among Portland printers. The funeral services will be held in Pineley's chapel at 1 P. M. Saturday.

PHOTO PLAYS ARE GRIPPING

Melodramas With Thrills Offered at Columbia Theater. A gripping melodrama that throbs with sentiment and pathos is "The Forbidden Way" that has been offered at the Columbia. Its powerful portrayal of character and its masterly handling of scenes of dramatic intensity have made it a popular play upon the human emotions with an eloquent appeal. There is a strong plot and a story concerning a woman who in his earlier years, has associated with criminals. He attempts to reform, but his old pals and his former sweetheart lure him out and hound his footsteps.

LENTS SUMMER SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED.

A. F. Hirschner, principal of the Lents Summer school, reported yesterday that the school is a great success, a total of more than 200 having entered. In the general review classes he reported 149. In the manual training department there are 60 and in sewing there are 45 girls. Mr. Hirschner said that the attendance is from the Lents neighborhood and is much better than had been hoped. It was predicted that so few children would turn out at Lents that the Summer school would prove a failure. More are expected next Monday. Five teachers are employed with Mr. Hirschner.

SMALLPOX CASES REPORTED.

Smallpox cases reported. That there are from 15 to 20 cases of smallpox in Portland and that the disease is epidemic in various parts of the state is the assertion of State Health Officer White who will visit Eugene, where a number of cases are reported. City Health Officer Marcolini will have sufficient force to cope with the situation here. There are two cases in the city pesthouse, and Frank C. Savage is quarantined in his home, 274 Taylor street. Dr. White asserts that none of the health authorities have been able to trace the origin of the disease.

COAST FOR 25 YEARS OR MORE.

Julian M. Brownell, assistant manager of the Oregon Hotel, died suddenly Tuesday night from an attack of heart failure and was found in his bed yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. A severe cold, which he contracted a short time ago and was unable to throw off, is supposed to have aggravated the trouble which caused his death. Mr. Brownell had been connected with the hotel business on the Pacific Coast for 25 years or more. He came to the Oregon Hotel January 1, when the hotel was entirely new, and established, as is survived by a widow, who is in San Francisco, but whom he expected to join him in Portland soon.

NEW FACES AT PEOPLES

Gripping Tale Is Told in Films for Mid-Week Change. At the People's Theater yesterday a new producer was introduced and his story told in motion pictures at the standing of the house. The play's title was "The Trail of Hanging Rock." The scenes were among the greatest ever presented in the Canadian Rockies, the acting was artistic and of the gripping kind, while the story was as intense as are the struggling passions of primitive man battling for the favor of young and beautiful womanhood. The Gaumont Weekly was filled with wonderfully clever and interesting international news events, and "Elsie's Aunt" provided one of the roaring college comedies, in which a clever girl and original youth contrived to outwit a rather hard-hearted female guardian.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks and gratitude to our many friends who were so kind to us at the time of the death of our husband and father. MRS. JOHN ELLIOTT AND FAMILY.

Summer Headaches

Many people suffer from headaches during the Summer months who are free therefrom the rest of the year. Invariably in such cases an interior examination of the eye reveals a sensitive retina. Such a retina cannot stand the ultra violet rays of light. There is need of a special quality glass to filter out those injurious rays. This comes under the head of advanced optics, and that is where we specialize.
