PAY System is Changed.—Local employes of the Pennsylvania railroad system will be paid twice a month hereafter instead of monthly as has been the custom ever since the rail-road business began. This is due to the fact that Ohio, Indiana and several other states through which the Pennsylvania operates have passed laws requiring bi-monthly payments as a concession to the men, who contended help reduce the high cost of living. The Pennsylvania officials then decided to adopt the system on all their lines and to make it include their outside agents as well. It is predicted by every railroad in the country as similar laws are pending in other states.

It was a day of fun. The cars left Portland early in the morning and the crowd arrived at the park long before noon. Good-natured sport and pleasure reigned supreme from the time the first car arrived until the last one left late in the evening. A varied pro-gramme of sport and music was on tap. This included all the regulation numbers of the well conducted picnic, ranging from the fat men's race to the baby walk. A notable departure from the usual custom was the inaugura-tion of a sewing contest for firemen only. This was full of contestants and every man found that both his hands were full of thumbs. It was a weird exhibition. It proved extremely amusing for the women who looked on with critical and sympathetic gaze. of Merit at People's.

"The Head Hunters," at the People's Theater yesterday, mixed love and war and told of the efforts made by the United States to stamp out of the Philippine Islands a tribe of savages whose barbarities for years have shocked civilization. The picture, in two reels, is clever and most unusual. It shows that the soldier in that distant land has a difficult and dangertant land has a difficult and danger-ous job. Moreover, it proves that the people there are not yet ready for selfgovernment. An enjoyable part of the programme was a short reel showing a brave motorist fording the rapids of a brave motorist fording the rapids of the Snake River, taken especially by the People's exclusive camera man.
Another interesting number was "Hard to Please," consisting entirely of trick films. "Teaching Chinese Children" was pretty and novel, and "A Modern Witness" showed a new way of utilizing the dictagraph. The singing and music were excellent.
The arcade Theater presented five subjects on its bill every one of which was a real gem. "Death's Short Cut," showing Tom Law going over the falls of the Kennebec River—the first man of the Kennebec River—the first man who ever took the chance and lived to tell the tale—is a thriller. "Proof of the Man" is a splendid drama, and "True Hearts,' is a romance of merit. The Star Theater repeated a former success—"Redemption"—in three reels. Vesterday, the theater was crowded. Yesterday the theater was crowded.
