A father and son devoted their lives to the construction of a Grand Piano of small size, so exquisitely beautiful in tone, that it might rival the larger grands. The father never saw his ideal realized. Though well beyond the meridian of life, the son has lived to see the fulfilment of his father's dream.

In announcing this brilliant addition to the world of piano manufacture, our enthusiasm is tempered by the realization of the effort it has cost. Of such sacrifice is art born. Now we lend ourselves to the utmost in placing these beautiful instruments within the knowledge and reach of those music lovers whose devotion to art finds expression in a Grand Piano.

LA GRANDE, Or., July 17.—(Special.) —Telephone information from Care-taker Feopeck, on the Beaver Creek intake, today conveys the information that the break in the gravity water system pipe 20 miles back in the hills that shut La Grande out of water for a time last night and threatened to cause a water famine of several days' duration, was caused in a joint where the pipe was resting on loose ground and that the temporary repairs have stopped the leak. A small stream is still leaking this fiternoon, but Water Superintendent Hoyt will remain until tomorrow and bolster up the ground underneath the defective joint. The officials of the works do not anticipate more trouble from that source.
