GLADSTONE PARK, Or., July 18 .-(Special.)—Sam Jones' sonin-law. Walt (Special.)—Sam Jones' sonin-law Walt Holcomb, of Nashville, Tenn., pulled off a horserace at Gladstone Chautauqua this afternoon before 3000 people. It was his own original "horserace," not exactly a contest in the flesh, but it was every bit as thrilling, and the applause given the speaker as his "white" horse came thundering down the field and crossed the tape a few feet ahead of the "bay" was just as boisterous and vociferous as that accorded the winning driver at the county fair.

Holcomb's style is almost as original as that of his inimitable father-in-law. In his peculiar Southern drawl lies the as that of his inimitable father-in-law. In his peculiar Southern drawl lies the secret of his humor. His lecture, too, is original in theme and, in the vernacular of the horseman, he pictures a thrilling contest between the "gray" horse of socialism, the "bay" horse of capitalism, the "black" horse of anarchy and the "white" horse of altruism. Being a horseman himself and the proprietor of a large stock ranch in Tennessee, Holcomb naturally makes his description of the steeds and their race most effective and occasionally he "hands over" a few pet slang phrases that would make the usual lingo of the jockey seem exceedingly tame. But he gives his message and does it most effectively.

His lecture is a sort of moving-picture "kinetophone," in which he is the talking machine. The good old steed called "altruism" wins by a nose, and it is well, he says, for the sake of righteousness and justice, that he does. The "bay" horse of capitalism, with the most promising start, fags out toward the last while the old "care". most promising start, fags out toward the last, while the old "gray" steed of socialism, overworked and underfed runs a good enough race, but doesn't put any noticeable effort in the contest, no personal endeavor to capture the honors. The "black" horse of an archy, according to Mr. Holcomb, takes two forms in this country, anarachy of the streets, "as you are having right down here in Portland, and anarchy of the home, the best breeder of the street anarchy." Mr. Holcomb believes the discovere evil one of the great causes of the definice of the Government, which he says is approaching an alarming stage in this country.

Socialism, according to the speaker, is a cross between religion and polities. It's a big movement, he says.

The address of President Leonard W. Riley, of McMinnville, on "Atmo-sphere in Education or Choosing a Col-lege," was the feature of the morning forum hour, celebrated as McMinnville

ALBANY MAN IS BURIED mended by Senators Lane and Chamberlain about three months ago.

He will be confirmed, probably, the early part of next week. The delay in making this appointment is said to have been due to congestion of business in the Department of Justice.

As long ago as last March it was known that John Montag was Senator Lane's choice for United States marshal in Oregon to succeed Leslie M. Scott. The explanation given by the Department of Justice for the long delay in sending his name to the Senate, that the Department had been so occupied with other affairs that attention could not be given to his case, has never particularly appealed to Oregon Democrats.

The funeral services were held in the Masonic Temple, and were in charge of St. Johns Lodge No. 17. action in the matter of presenting a formal request to the Oregon delegation in the house to support the Peter's bill establishing an eight-hour labor law in the District of Columbia.

"That the women of Oregon have farreaching influence in matters pertaining to the welfare of employed women came to our attention" said Mrs. Kelley "when the head of a manufacturing concern in Baltimore reported that his goods were not selling in Portland because his house was not using the Winged Circle label of our league." Mrs. Kelley explained that the use of the Winged Circle label is a guarantee that the article bearing it was manufactured under sanitary conditions by a tured under sanitary conditions by a manufacturer who employed no young children and observed reasonable fac-tory hours.

"What the Portland branch of the National Consumers' League has done for the Improvement of conditions in certain Maryland factories the school teachers of Oregon may help to do for other workers where the battle has been won," concluded the speaker.

ALASKA FISH RUNS LARGE

Letters From North Received at Astoria Bring Good News.

ASTORIA, Or., July 18.—(Special)—
Several letters have arrived recently from Bristol Bay, Alaska, bringing news from that district. George H. George, manager of the Columbia River Packers' Association, says his advices are that every one is well both at the Nushagak River and Chignik Bay plants and there is a good run of fish at the former place, while little is yet being done at the latter, the runs at Chignik being later.

E. P. Noonan received a private letter dated at Nushagak River, June 27. It says a good run of fish is on both at Nushagak and the Koggiung rivers.
