

LAWYERS PREDICT PRINTING TANGLES

Death of Duniway Is Likely to Place State in Embarrassing Position.

JOKERS ARE FOUND IN LAW

Board of Control Must Buy Plant for $20,000, but Work Will Be Let Under Contract System Within Short Time.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 5.—(Special).—Because Governor West vetoed a bill passed at the recent session of the Legislature providing for the printing of a flat salary of $4000 a year to the State Printer, the death of Willis S. Duniway, State Printer, places the state in what lawyers say will become an embarrassing position. The bill of 1911 was repealed by the Legislature after another bill, providing that the State printing be done under the contract system, had been passed. The new rule was to become operative at the expiration of Mr. Duniway's term, January 1, 1915.

Either believing he could not live long or foreseeing another emergency, Mr. Duniway counseled the Legislature to pass the bill repealing the law of 1911 and providing that the State printing be done under the contract system, which was passed by the Legislature on January 1, 1915.

It was reported today that the Senate, however, sustained the veto. The 1911 law became operative immediately upon the death of Mr. Duniway.

Attorney-General Crawford and other lawyers hold that the provision in the act that "all copy" provided for by the Board for printing shall be submitted as far as practicable in the usual manner of advertising for bids and with a view to securing the best possible terms for the state, means all state printing must be done under the contract system.

Under the 1911 law the State Printer will receive a salary of $4000 a year and his secretary $2000. The secretary being vested with almost sole authority is another joker of the measure.

GOVERNOR EXPLAINS VETO

Gov. West said today that he had not decided whom he would appoint and that he probably would make the appointment while away from the city. His reason for vetoing the bill repealing the flat salary measure was that he feared the measure providing for the contract system might be lost in a referendum election and the system under which Mr. Duniway held office would be continued.

That the law of 1911 is full of jokers is admitted by almost every person who has read it. The measure recognized by the members of the Legislature. One joker of the bill is that it provides for the State Printer entering into contract in the name of the state with his employees.

LINN HAS PECULIAR CASE

Four Times County Clerk and Sheriff Exchange Same Paper.

ALBANY, Or., Aug. 5.—(Special).—The County Clerk and Sheriff of Linn County yesterday exchanged the same paper four different times to complete the proper legal process in garnishing some money due from Linn County to a defendant in a case now pending in the State Circuit Court here. A payroll for county road work, filed yesterday, showed the sum of $23,000 was due this defendant and the plaintiff's attorney took steps to garnish the money.

County Clerk Marks issued a writ of attachment and handed it to Sheriff Bodine. The Sheriff then served the writ on the Clerk, who representing the county, indorsed his name and garnishes on the paper. As garnishee the Clerk had to return the paper to the Sheriff, who had served it on him, and then the Sheriff handed the paper back to the clerk for filing in the records of the Clerk's office. Each of these transfers was made from one officer to the other as a necessary step in the legal procedure to garnish the money.

Attorney Matt Sullivan, of the prosecution, argued that the defense had made its motion too late in the proceeding. He declared that the motion was without merit because the names of Diggs' witnesses were not mentioned in the affidavit. He called the attention of the court to the fact that as the United States Court in Sacramento does not meet until April 1, a change of venue is impossible for him to make until next year.

Attorney Robert T. Devlin, of the defense, argued that the motion was not one for continuance, but for the defendant's constitutional right, as recently upheld in another case by the Supreme Court of the state, to be tried in the vision of his alleged crime.

Judge Van Fleet then declared that he wished to hear no further argument and denied the motion. He declared the defense's affidavit to be without sufficient merit to warrant the serious consideration of the court. He called attention to the fact that this

Medical Student Sentenced on Testimony That He Was Drunk While Driving.

A weird trip through crowded streets, in a plunging automobile, brought W. R. Anderson, a young medical student and automobile demonstrator, to the doors of the rockpile yesterday, when he was sentenced for five days by Judge Stevenson. Anderson was stayed by notice of appeal. The prison sentence came as the result of a showing that Anderson had been drinking, which, in automobile drivers, is a felony in many states.

PEDESTRIAN'S ESCAPE CLOSE

"I shuddered and almost lost control of my car," said Mr. Dickinson, "when I saw him shove past a man, who, if he had not been quick as a cat, would have been a corpse. Anderson was going at the rate of 30 miles an hour or more."

Patrolman Ellis also was in court to prosecute a charge against Anderson of leaving his car standing in traffic, but this case was not pressed.

OTHERS ARE FIRED

Eight or more persons boarding a streetcar at Grand and Hawthorne avenues had to run for safety, said Sergeant Lyon, when Elmer Eadie drove his automobile between the car and the curb, Sunday. They had to move lively to avoid being run down.

Young Eadie denied the violation at that place, but offered no testimony to save his own. He was fined $20.

Major Fleming, from the Army post at Vancouver Barracks, charged with driving his car beyond the speed limit on Vancouver avenue, denied the charge in court yesterday, and the arresting officers admitted the violation, if any, had not been flagrant. He received a continued sentence.

FIRE LOSS HALF MILLION

Business Portion of Athabasca, Saskatchewan, Destroyed.

ATHABASCA, Saskatchewan, Aug. 5.—The business portion of this town was destroyed by fire starting about daylight today. The fire, beginning in a poolroom on the Grand Union Hotel, swept through Strathcona street and Litchfield avenue. Two hotels were destroyed and more than 30 business houses. Bucket brigades finally checked the flames, but not before damage exceeding $500,000 was done. Considerable property was lost, owing to the intense heat it was impossible to extinguish him down from the mountain. This was the explanation given by President John L. Travis for the absence of real "bearsteak" from the table bill of fare. But if there wasn't any bearsteak, which is tough anyway and tastes of roots and herbs, there were thick cuts of juicy beefsteak. The "bearsteak" was given in honor of Franklin T. Griffith, new president of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, and F. W. Hild, general manager of the same company.

But if there wasn't any bearsteak, which is tough anyway and tastes of roots and herbs, there were thick cuts of juicy beefsteak. The "bearsteak" was given in honor of Franklin T. TOASTMASTER

The guests were ushered into the "stunt" hall the club, in which two long tables were already groaning with beefsteak and other refreshments. Then the fun started.

"Gentlemen," began Toastmaster Travis, "in anticipation of the honor of introducing Franklin T. Griffith, I have had a stenographer by my side to record for me, which include the full history of his life."

When the toastmaster produced a huge roll of manuscript and started to read it a commotion arose. An irregular member of the club moved that Mr. Travis be extended the courtesy common to members of Congress by having his remarks published in full in the record and let it go at that. This motion was justly adopted and the toastmaster sat down in confusion.

But when Mr. Griffith, with this introduction, stood up to speak, a new handicap developed. A young man standing by a piano in the corner began singing in a loud tone of voice "The Midnight Owl Car." It proved impossible to silence him and Mr. Griffith was compelled to be seated until the noise stopped.

"The time is coming soon, I hope," said Mr. Griffith, "when every citizen will take as much interest in the operation of a corporation such as the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company as the officials of the company themselves. We are entering a new era of understanding between corporations and the public and it is a good thing that it is so."

After Mr. Griffith had spoken briefly, Robert E. Strahorn, of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern, who had not been on the programme, was spotted by the crowd and compelled to speak.

DEMURRAGE RULE OPOSED

Hill Lines and Southern Pacific File Objections.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 5.—(Special).—The Hill railway lines, through Attorneys Carey and Kerr, of Portland, today filed objections to a demurrage rule recently made by the State Railroad Commission. It is contended that the Legislature had no right to confer the power of making such rules on the Commission and that the Commission has no authority over interstate commerce. The Southern Pacific Company also has filed objections to the rule, through Attorney A. C. Spencer, giving the same reasons as the Hill line.

Although all kinds of plans were made at Washington Park Zoo to raise a family of coyotes this summer, the plan failed yesterday when a mother coyote which brought a family of puppies into the world a week ago killed her young ones because a park attendant attempted to clean the cage, when the mother pounced upon her young and killed them.

North End Houses Raided

Too much flaunting of their vice by women of the North End led to a general raid by the police yesterday upon the district around Fourth and Davis streets, and in a short time 12 women, taken from seven houses, were at the station under charges of vagrancy. The raid followed a recent quiet tour made by Chief Clark through the district, in the course of which he noted numerous things which did not meet his approval.

The houses raided were principally small dens along North Fourth street, between Couch and Everett, and the women brought out of them were in most cases well-known to the police. The police noted a new spirit among the women, who, instead of opening their doors when summoned, as in the past, kept the bars up, and it was necessary to force entrance.
