STATE PRINTER, WHO DIED EARLY YESTERDAY IN PORTLAND.

Willis Scott Duniway.

Mr. Duniway Borb in Oregon.

Mr. Duniway was born in Oregon on the Duniway donation land claim, in what is still known as the Needy, or Hardscrabbie, section of Clackamas County, 57 years ago. He came of a noted pioneer family, his father being Benjamin C. Duniway, who died in 1896, and his mother, Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, who is still living in Portland.

After removing in turn to the control of the strike benefits in the Oregon Packing Company strike were to an amount over twice as much as the girls had earned, and in exceptional cases they were even three times as much. In Mrs. Barnard's case they were twice as much.

Mrs. Barnard has a grown-up son whose duty it is to see that his mother does not become an object of charity. Mrs. Barnard says in this article that she is going to come to our measurement.

years. In 1896 he became widely known for his speeches against free silver. In 1896 Mr. Duniway returned to The Oregonian for a year as an editorial writer, then took over the printing business of Alfred Anderson.

In 1906 he first ran for State Printer. Once re-elected, three years ago, he had been in that office ever since. He had instituted many reforms and economies that saved large sums for the state.

Mr. Duniway in 1894 married Miss Alice McCormac, of Astoria, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Johnstone McCormac, both now dead.

Mr. Duniway's two aunts, Mrs. M. F. Cooke and Mrs. Harriet Palmer, sisters of his mother, both live in Portland.

The funeral will be held from the Unitarian Church Thursday at 2 P. M. Dr. T. L. Ellot will preach the funeral sermon.

Clearing-House Association to Consider Secretary McAdoo's Offer of Crop Funds.

Scott:

You will require an efficient private secretary, and may have a man in view for the place. But it you have not yet fixed on anyone. I want to commend Willis S. Duniway to your consideration.

He has just the kind of knowledge, just the executive office he would do with tact and efficiency. His acquaintance with men and affairs in Oregon is accurate and extensive, and upon the smallest number of suggestions or hints he could put in good form anything you would want.

His knowledge, moreover, of the printing business, his skill in putting matters into proper form for publication, his quick intelligence in perceiving how a thing would save you from all care on that secount; and you might depend in all things in his fidelity.

If, therefore, you have not yet fixed on anyone, I would like to commend him to you. recently made by Secretary McAdoo, of the Treasury Department, to distribute $50,000,000 of Government funds tribute $50,000,000 of Government funds from mines.
