report showing unusual activity in charitable work, the Visiting Nurse Association yesterday asked that the city take some steps to lend financial or other aid. The report, submitted to City Health Officer Marcellus, shows members of the association have made dozens of visits to poor people in the city and have given medical attention free of charge. It is said that it is really the city's place to look after these cases. It is shown in the report during July the nurses made 165 general calls and 142 calls in tuberculosis cases. oclation yesterday asked that the city
